

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

REPORT.

The close of the fiscal year, November 30, 1904, finds the Department of Internal Affairs still located in the Bay Shoe Factory building on East State street, where it will probably remain for nearly a year before the quarters in the new Capitol building will be ready for occupancy.

The work of the Department, as epitomized by the preceding statement, will be clearly understood. In some instances there has been a falling off in the amount of work done, but in general the work of the Department has very greatly increased during the year. It is safe to say that the official business transacted by this Department for the year ending November 30, 1904, is fourfold more than that for the year ending November 30, 1894.

Land Office Bureau.

The resume of work in this Bureau is briefly set forth in the statement showing the amount of work done in the Department. Never in the history of the Department, either as the Department of Internal Affairs or as the Surveyor General's Department, has there been so much work accomplished under the act of 1833 as during the fiscal year just closed. The work of copying surveys is being pushed as rapidly as it can be consistent with doing accurate work. The draftsmen are painstaking and diligent in their work, all taking an interest in making a record which will stand the test of time.

The following statement will show the number of surveys copied each month and also the total number copied for the year by each draftsman:

TABULAR MONTHLY STATEMENT OF OLD DRAFTS OF SURVEYS COPIED BY THE SEVERAL DRAFTING CLERKS IN THE DEPARTMENT OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS DURING THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING NOVEMBER 30, 1904, UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE ACT OF ASSEMBLY OF FEBRUARY 16, 1832, AND THE GENERAL APPROPRIATION ACT OF 1893.

Total of small drafts copied during the year, ..... 17,092

Total of large drafts copied during the year, ..... 211

Total of all drafts copied during the year, ..... 17,293

It will be observed that there are no copied surveys reported as having been made by the Chief Draftsman, Mr. J. Sutton Wall, whose time has been quite largely taken up in supervising the drafting force and in other matters pertaining to the Department. Miss Butler was absent from the office for a number of weeks on account of sickness. The same may be said of Miss Cilley and Miss Dewald. Miss Dewald also devotes a part of her time to stenographic and typewriting work. Miss Myer's time is very largely taken up with stenographic and typewriting work, she giving her surplus time to the copying of surveys. Mr. Lightner was here only the latter half of the year. Mr. Harden resigned his position to accept a place with the Isthmian Canal Commission, and Captain John U. Gill, an excellent draftsman, died soon after the beginning of the year. In the case of Mr. John H. Campbell, the number of surveys is small by reason of the size of the same, and from the fact also that he was employed a portion of the time on other work.

It will be a matter of great satisfaction if the work of copying surveys can be completed under the administration of the present Secretary. However greatly the completion of this work may be desired, it cannot be accomplished with the present force, and the Legislature at the session of 1905 will be asked to make an appropriation of $40,000 for the two years beginning June 1, 1905. If this shall be done, it will enable the administration to secure the services of a few additional draftsmen and will insure without doubt the completion of the copying of the surveys. This will leave practically all the old proprietary papers uncopied. Historically these records are of inestimable value, but in addition to their historic value there are thousands which relate to titles, and their destruction from any cause, either by mutilation or by loss, would entail upon the people of the Commonwealth an irreparable injury.

Therefore, it is recommended, that after the copying of surveys shall have been completed under the provisions of the act of 1833, the work shall be continued until all the proprietary papers now on file in the Land Office, including applications, warrants and surveys, shall have been carefully copied and the copies bound in a durable manner and the originals carefully enveloped and filed away for the safest possible keeping, only to be disturbed again in case of emergencies which make their examination a public necessity.

The Secretary has no hesitancy whatever in recommending favorable action both with reference to the completion of the copying of surveys and the copying of the proprietary papers here referred to. Many of these proprietary records bear the original signature of William Penn, and he of all other Pennsylvanians is most closely connected with that early history of this Commonwealth which is of such great public interest.

What Shall be Done with the Remaining Vacant Land of the Commonwealth?

The history of the acquisition of titles to the territory within the limits of Pennsylvania is an interesting one. Many features of interest are seen in those titles which were granted before the charter was given to William Penn, but usually the inception of title to territory within the limits of Pennsylvania is based upon the proceedings incident to the granting of titles by William Penn and other proprietaries under the well known charter. Back of the William Penn titles, it is true there were questions of discovery, conquest and possession which bear somewhat directly on the source of titles, but all these, with the charter of William Penn and his peaceful purchases from the Indian tribes, contribute to make up the basis of titles to the lands within the State of Pennsylvania.

It may be said to-day that there is very little land within the limits of this State that has not been appropriated. During the past year there were applications made for something over 1900 acres in different parts of the State, and as has been suggested in previous reports of this office, there is no means of telling definitely from the records here whether or not there is a foot of vacant land remaining in the Commonwealth. The knowledge of vacancies in most cases depends upon surveys that are made with reference to the original lines of tracts, titles to which were given by the Commonwealth many years ago.

The State has adhered with wonderful tenacity to the idea which controlled legislation in the early days with reference to the disposition of public lands. It is well known that the early idea encouraged settlements and offered inducements to citizens to purchase and improve vacant lands. The prices have always been ridiculously low and they have been maintained at this low figure down to the present time, so that the lands that are being sold to-day under warrant, survey and patent are disposed of at a sum not exceeding 26 2-3 cents per acre, and this without any reference whatever to the value of the lands, their location, their mineral resources or their improvements.

Several times there has been an attempt to call the attention of the Legislature to this matter with a view of having legislation effected by which these lands when disposed of would bring to the Commonwealth some fair consideration commensurate with their value. No heed seems to have been given to these recommendations notwithstanding that four years ago a bill was prepared and introduced into the Legislature, passing the Senate and advancing as far as second reading in the House. This bill provided that when public lands were applied for they should be appraised and the purchaser should be required to pay the price fixed by such appraisal. The bill provided that where the lands applied for were suitable for forest culture and forest reservation, the Secretary of Internal Affairs should be empowered to convey the same to the Forestry Commission to be used as a part of the forestry reserve. This bill, couched in language which ought to have commended itself to favorable consideration failed of passage in the House, not because there was any defect in the bill, and probably not because the Legislature was opposed to the principle upon which the bill was based, but because of the existence of other legislation relating to the disposition of public properties, of a somewhat doubtful character, which led many members of the Legislature to the belief that possibly there might be some wrong about the bill providing for a fair consideration for public lands to be sold and providing for their conveyance to the Forestry Commission when desirable.

This question was brought forcibly to the attention of the present Executive when he was called upon to sign warrants for the purchase of lands for forest reserves based upon prices from $2 to $4 per acre, and at the same time called upon to sign patents for lands which were sold by the State at the rate of 26 2-3 cents per acre. A conference was had with the Executive on this subject and was presented with a copy of the bill which was introduced at the session of 1901. The Governor saw at once the apparent necessity for additional legislation and in his message to the Legislature for 1905 recommended the passage of a law similar to that which was introduced at the session of 1901.

According to the recommendation of the Governor a bill was prepared for introduction in the General Assembly of 1905, a copy of which is as follows:

AN ACT

Relating to the granting of titles by the Commonwealth to vacant or unappropriated land, the price to be paid for the same, the conveyance to the State Forestry Reservation Commission where desirable for forest culture or forest preservation, and preventing the granting of warrants for the beds of navigable rivers.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That whenever an application shall be made to the Secretary of Internal Affairs for any vacant or unappropriated land of any kind or de scription whatsoever, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of Internal Affairs to make, or cause to be made, a careful investigation concerning the land applied for in said application with a view of determining so far as practicable whether any office rights have heretofore been granted for the land described in said application, and he may also at his discretion cause a survey to be made thereof to ascertain whether such land is vacant or unappropriated; and if it shall be found that the land described in said application has heretofore been appropriated, or that it is not vacant or unappropriated land, he shall make a report to that effect, which report, together with others relating to the proceedings in the case, shall be filed among the records of the Land Office, and shall be conclusive as to the question of vacancy: Provided however, That the applicant shall be entitled to an appeal to the Board of Property under such rules as said Board of Property may adopt.

If in the opinion of the Secretary of Internal Affairs, the land applied for shall be vacant or unappropriated, it shall be the duty of the Governor of the Commonwealth, the Attorney General, the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the Secretary of Internal Affairs to appoint three disinterested, reputable persons to estimate and value the land so applied for, who shall before they enter upon the duties of their appointment take an oath or affirmation before a justice of the peace, or other officer having authority to administer an oath, that they will justly estimate and a true valuation per acre make of all the land contained in the tract applied for, and also they shall state that they are not directly or indirectly interested in the application for the land applied for.

The persons thus appointed and sworn or affirmed, shall proceed to value the land by going on the same and having regard to the soil, timber, fisheries, minerals, other advantages, and the local situation thereof, and having agreed upon the valuation per acre of the land so applied for, shall certify the same under their hands, directed to the Secretary of Internal Affairs, who upon receipt of the same, shall notify the applicant of the value given to the land so applied for, and shall request payment of the amount due the State by virtue of such appraisement, and until such payment is made, according to the price fixed by the said appraisers, and within the time hereinafter specified, the Secretary of Internal Affairs shall withhold the granting of the warrant.

If payment is made in accordance with such appraisement, the money so paid shall be immediately turned into the State Treasury and the Secretary of Internal Affairs shall grant title to the applicant for the land so applied for and appraised in the manner now provided by law, and the expenses incident to the investigation, survey and appraisement shall be paid by the Commonwealth:

Provided further, That before appraisers shall be appointed as herein stipulated, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of Internal Affairs to submit to the State Forestry Reservation Commission a copy of the application made for said vacant or unappropriated land, together with a description thereof as ascertained through said investigation and survey, whereupon it shall be the duty of the said State Forestry Reservation Commission to determine whether it is desirable or practicable that such vacant or unappropriated land should be acquired for forest culture or forest reservation; and said State Forestry Reservation Commission shall, within the period of two months, make a report to the Secretary of Internal Affairs as to the desirability or practicability of securing such vacant or unappropriated land for forest culture or forest reservation; and if in said report a request shall be made for the conveyance of such vacant or unappropriated land to the State Forestry Reservation Commission, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of Internal Affairs to grant a warrant and patent, according to the usual custom of the Land Office Bureau, conveying such vacant or unappropriated land to the State Forestry Reservation Commission without the payment of any purchase money, interest or fees.

Section 2. That wherever such vacant or unappropriated land shall not be conveyed to the State Forestry Reservation Commission, as provided in the first section of this act, it shall be the duty of the person or persons making application as aforesaid for such land, to pay the amount of money as fixed by the appraisement, into the office of the Department of Internal Affairs within three months from the date of the filing of the report from the State Forestry Reservation Commission refusing such vacant or unappropriated land for forestry culture or forestry reservation, due notice of which date shall be mailed to the applicant by the Secretary of Internal Affairs; and if such applicant shall not make payment within the time specified, he shall be deemed to have abandoned the purpose of securing a grant from the Commonwealth for the land so applied for and appraised, and such vacant or unappropriated land may then be disposed of to any applicant therefor on the payment of the price as fixed by the report of the appraisers, as hereinbefore provided.

Section 3. That on and after the passage of this act there shall be no warrants or other office rights granted in any of the counties of the Commonwealth for lands in the beds of navigable rivers, or in beds of streams which are by law declared public highways.

Section 4. That whenever the State Forestry Reservation Commission shall apply for vacant or unappropriated land for forest culture or forest reservation, the Secretary of Internal Affairs is hereby authorized to grant title to such applied for lands in the manner provided by law without the payment of purchase money, interest or fees.

Section 5. This act shall not be construed to affect any pre-emption rights which may have been acquired under existing laws, provided those having pre-emption rights shall complete their titles within five years from the date of the approval of this act.

Section 6. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

A careful study of this bill will disclose three principal features: First, that where lands are to be disposed of, the State shall receive a fair consideration for them, and that in the appraisement which is provided for, reference shall be had to timber, minerals, fisheries, location and other matters which may tend to affect the value of such vacant or unappropriated lands. Second, that any lands which are still owned by the Commonwealth and which are susceptible of forest culture and forest preservation and are suitably located shall be conveyed by the Secretary of Internal Affairs to the Forestry Reservation Commission for the use of the Commonwealth without the payment of any purchase money, interest and fees. Third, that the conveyance of public lands to individuals who may make application for them shall not be made until the Secretary of Internal Affairs through a proper investigation made, shall become satisfied that the lands applied for have not been conveyed under prior warrants or patents.

The good faith of the Commonwealth is at stake when it grants its warrant and issues its patent for a part of the public domain, and it is not to the credit of the Commonwealth to make a second or third warrant and patent for the same land. It is a fraud on the individuals who are thus imposed upon, and against public policy to so grant titles from the Commonwealth. The presence in a purchaser's hands of the warrant and the patent of the Commonwealth for a certain tract of land ought to be considered as very strong evidence that the purchaser has acquired a good and sufficient title. The policy and the practice of the Land Office during nearly all its existence has been the reverse. Applicants have been told that the State has no way of determining whether the lands applied for in their application were vacant or unappropriated, and if they accepted the warrant and the patent of the Commonwealth for the land described in their application they must do so at their own risk, for the Commonwealth would not guarantee even the title which it conveyed to the Commonwealth's purchasers.

The result of the policy which has characterized the transactions of the Land Office during its entire history in this particular branch, is that in many cases there are two or more warrants and patents covering the same tract of land, and of course under the interpretations given by our courts, the person claiming under the oldest title from the Commonwealth will prevail against those who may have been so unfortunate as to base their claims upon subsequent titles granted by the Commonwealth for the same tract of land. Certainly this condition in regard to titles which have been granted from the Commonwealth is not one which will in any way ever reflect creditably upon the State. There are few public papers which are given that ought to command higher respect than those which are issued by the nation and the several states of the union, and when a citizen becomes possessed of a warrant or patent bearing the signatures of officers of the Land Office and the Governor of the Commonwealth, and ascertains the fact that it is an attempt to convey land which the Commonwealth has theretofore conveyed, then such a citizen will lose his respect for the State and it will not be surprising that if in place of respect a feeling of contempt will thus be created. Hence one of the important features of the bill which it is hoped the present Legislature will pass is that which makes it the duty of the Secretary of Internal Affairs to make an investigation as to the lands applied for in any application with a view of ascertaining whether the Commonwealth has heretofore granted any office rights for such lands.

In a State as old as Pennsylvania it must be apparent that the acreage of unappropriated lands is comparatively small. Whatever defects may have existed in the laws relating to the granting of warrants and patents, it is to be hoped that the present Legislature will so correct existing conditions that the warrants and patents which may hereafter be granted by the Commonwealth shall demand the respect of all citizens of Pennsylvania.

BOUNDARY LINE MONUMENTS.

During the fiscal year ending November 30, 1904, some work was done on the boundary line monuments under the authority conferred upon the Secretary of Internal Affairs, who is charged with the duty of the examination and repair of boundary line monuments between the State of Pennsylvania and the adjoining states. Similar powers are exercised by the New York State Engineer and Surveyor with reference to the boundary lines between that State and its adjoining states, and for years the states of Pennsylvania and New York have acted jointly in the examination, repairs and re-setting of monuments.

Some correspondence has been had with Ohio suggesting co-operation with reference to the care of monuments between Pennsylvania and Ohio, but no state official in that state appears to be charged with the duty of the care of these monuments and no moneys are available in that state to defray the expenses necessary for examination, repairs, etc.

It is probable that state lines may not be as important factors in the affairs of the nation and the several states thereof as they were many years ago. The commerce between the states is so very generally of a national character and the centralization of interests of all the states practically as one, somewhat detracts from the importance of the location of the lines which separate one state from its adjoiners.

However, in case of at least one of the boundary lines of Pennsylvania there is enough of historical interest connected with it to make it imperative that the boundary line monuments should be preserved to the fullest extent possible. This particular line is that which is known as the Mason and Dixon Line.

The expense of caring for these state boundary line monuments is comparatively speaking but trifling, and if the states were to abandon the care of them, they would be mutilated and otherwise destroyed and much contention would result, possibly between the states in interest, but assuredly between land owners whose properties are situated adjacent to the boundary lines. Therefore, for the public interest it seems that the Legislature has been wise in making provision for the care of these boundary line monuments.

The Mason and Dixon Line.

The Mason and Dixon Line, as is well known, constitutes a portion of the southern boundary of Pennsylvania; its extension westward beyond the State of Maryland being the division line between the states of Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Under recent legislation there has been a thorough re-survey of the Mason and Dixon Line, under and by virtue of legislation passed by the States of Maryland and Pennsylvania, and by virtue also of an agreement entered into by the Secretary of Internal Affairs and the designated authority of Maryland. The work of re-survey and all that pertains to the same was, under this agreement, placed in the hands of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey. A preliminary report of their work, which has now been completed, was published in the report for the year ending November 30, 1903, and it was then expected that the full report would be received in time to enable us to publish it with the general report for the year ending November 30, 1904. A portion of this complete report has been received, but the maps, plots and details of the work are still in the hands of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, and while a request has been made that this Department be furnished with the completed report in time to publish the same for the fiscal year ending November 30, 1904, yet the requested data have not arrived and the publishing of the completed report, which will in all probability contain much of interest to the public, will be postponed, but will undoubtedly be included in the report for the year ending November 30, 1905. It is possible that the report of such public interest both from a scientific standpoint and from the intense interest there is in all that pertains to the Mason and Dixon Line, that it will be thought advisable to have it published as a separate volume. In any event it is the purpose of the Secretary to include it in the general report of the Department.

New York Boundary Line.

In the report for the year ending November 30, 1903, a detailed report was made of the examination of monuments on the boundary line between Pennsylvania and New York. In this report was a concise description of the location and condition of each of the monuments along this line. The Commission recommended that in certain localities there should be new monuments placed in position and in others that repairs should be made. The recommendations of the Commission were the subject of a considerable amount of correspondence between the New York Engineer and Surveyor and the Secretary of Internal Affairs, as indicated by the correspondence following:

"August 25, 1903.

"State Engineer and Surveyor, Albany, N. Y.:

"My Dear Sir: As you are probably aware, this Department is charged by law with the duty of taking care of boundary line monuments. For some years this office has acted jointly with the proper authorities in New York in making the examinations, especially in the resurveying of the line or resetting of the monuments when found necessary. As the last report showed all monuments in good condition, it is probably only necessary to make an examination of the monuments and it is not likely any surveying will be required or that it will be necessary to reset any monuments. Is it your desire to make an examination of the monuments on the part of New York during this coming fall? If so do you desire that it be made by parties representing the two states in interest? I do not think that on the part of Pennsylvania I shall employ the services of an engineer, as I do not feel that it is necessary to go to the expense of paying for such services, especially in view of the fact that there probably is no necessity of running any portion of the line and the work to be done is simply examining and reporting upon the condition of the monuments.

Please advise me at the earliest moment possible, as I shall leave here next week to be gone for about a month.

"Very truly yours,

"ISAAC B. BROWN,
"Secretary."

No reply was made to this letter until 1904, when the following letter was received:

"May 31, 1904.

"Mr. Isaac B. Brown, Sec'y, Harrisburg, Pa.:

"Dear Sir: Referring to your letter of August 25, 1903, in which you suggested taking up the subject of an examination of the monuments on the boundary line between the states of Pennsylvania and New York, would say that we would be glad, this year, to co-operate with the state of Pennsylvania, and if you care to name a representative, I will also designate some one to act on behalf of this department, and have him meet your party at such time and place as you may name. I would suggest that the subject be taken up at as early a date as is convenient.

"It will probably be unnecessary to do any surveying of the line, but merely to make an examination of the condition of the monuments and reset any that may be found necessary.

"Very truly yours,

"HENRY A. VAN ALSTYNE,
"State Engineer and Surveyor."

In reply to the above the following letter was sent:

"June 4, 1904.

"Mr. Henry A. Van Alstyne, State Engineer, Albany, N. Y.:

"My Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 31st ultimo, and to say in reply that I caused the boundary line monuments between Pennsylvania and New York to be examined during September, October and November of 1903. The detailed report of the examiners has been printed with Part 1 and 2 of our annual report. In a few days I will send you a bound copy and you will then have an opportunity of seeing the monuments as found by our examiners for 1903.

"Some of the monuments need attention, but I will cover this matter in my correspondence with you when I transmit the report. I may now say, however, that it does not seem necessary that examiners from Pennsylvania should go all over the line this year, but I would suggest co-operation between the two states in so far as the resetting or replacing of monuments may be required.

"Just as soon as I can send you the report I will do so and then will be glad to take up the matter either by correspondence or by a personal interview.

"Very truly yours,

"ISAAC B. BROWN,
"Secretary."

The following letter was received in answer to the above:

"June 7, 1904.

"Hon. Isaac B. Brown, Secretary, Dept. Internal Affairs, Harrisburg, Pa.:

"Dear Sir: Your communication of the 4th inst. is received, and I will await the bound copy of the report which you very kindly state will be forwarded to me containing a report of the examiners of the boundary line between Pennsylvania and New York as made by your department in 1903.

"After reading this I will be glad to take up the subject with you again on the basis of co-operation between the two states in regard to resetting and replacing such monuments as required in such action.

"Very truly yours,

"HENRY A. VAN ALSTYNE,
"State Engineer and Surveyor."

The next letter on this subject was written June 29th, and is as follows:

"June 29, 1904.

"Mr. Henry A. Van Alstyne, State Engineer and Surveyor, Albany, N. Y.:

"My Dear Sir: Referring to recent correspondence with you regarding the examination of the monuments of the boundary line between the states of New York and Pennsylvania, I beg to say that I have this day forwarded to you a copy of the general report of this office for the year ending November 30, 1903. At page 40 A. you will find the detailed report of the persons I appointed to make an examination on the part of the state of Pennsylvania. I shall be glad to have your views, after reading the report, as to what should be done with the monuments which they recommend be reset.

"I hardly think I would be justified in incurring the expense of a detailed examination of monuments again this year, but I do think the monuments which have been displaced, or partially displaced, should be reset, and to this extent, I, representing the state of Pennsylvania, would like to join with you, representing the state of New York, in having this necessary work done.

"Awaiting your pleasure, I beg to remain,

"Very truly yours,

"ISAAC B. BROWN,
"Secretary."

In reply the following letter was received:

"July 6, 1904.

"Hon. Isaac B. Brown, Secretary of Internal Affairs, Harrisburg, Pa.:

"Dear Sir: Your letter of June 29th, relative to the examination of monuments on the boundary line between the states of New York and Pennsylvania and your copy of the report for 1903, in which is shown the report of the Commissioners whom you appointed to make an examination of the monuments on this line, have been received. Please accept my thanks for the same.

"After reading the report of your Commissioners I am of the opinion that some action should be taken relative not only to the monuments which they recommend to be reset, but also to those which are shown by the report to be missing or to be so badly broken that their efficiency is impaired. Most of the monuments which require resetting are the same ones which we have reset on several different occasions and it would appear that if they are to be reset again we should adopt some method which would secure permanency and would obviate the necessity of resetting the same monuments every few years. For this purpose I might suggest that they be set in concrete.

"The monuments as shown by your report that require resetting are Nos. 40, 60, 87, 183, 201, 242, 250, and 255.

"To replace the monuments which are missing or badly broken I think that steel I beams, the same as were used in 1900, would be most satisfactory. These are required in place of monuments Nos. 25, 28, 54, 88, 127, 138, 149, 210, 216, 237, 296, 337, 385 and 386.

"Highway monument No. 276 is on the side of a now abandoned highway and is of little or no use for the purpose intended. It might be well to move this monument from this place and reset it on a new highway which has been opened between monument No. 251 and monument No. 252.

"Your report shows that monument No. 515 is in the center of a highway and that it is a menace to travel. This monument might be lowered and a reference monument of steel I beam placed on the side of the road close to this stone.

"If the suggestions contained herein meet with your approval we could furnish you with an estimate of the cost and we will be ready to proceed with the work of the setting of these monuments whenever you are willing to join us.

"Very truly yours,

"HENRY A. VAN ALSTYNE,
"State Engineer and Surveyor."

On July 11th, this Department replied as follows:

"July 11, 1904.

"Mr. Henry A. Van Alstyne, State Engineer and Surveyor, Albany, N. Y.:

"Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 6th instant, and to say in reply that I approve of your suggestions with reference to the repairing and resetting of certain monuments to which you refer in the boundary line between the states of New York and Pennsylvania. Before, however, a stipulation is made and executed between the two states, I would suggest that you give me an estimate of the cost of such necessary work as is contemplated. I very much desire, so far as Pennsylvania is concerned, to limit the expense to the monuments which need resetting or replacing rather than to go over the entire line, as that was pretty thoroughly investigated last year.

"There is one part of the report to which I beg to call your attention and ask your views concerning it. In the western portion of the boundary line where it passes through what is termed a wilderness, it is difficult to follow the line without the services of an engineer and the use of instruments. In the report of our examiners, it was recommended that axmen go over this portion of the line and cut off the underbrush and perhaps re-blaze some of the trees which may be standing on or near the line. I would be glad to know what your views are on this subject. I mention this now because the examiners on the part of the state, who went over the line last year were compelled to secure the services of an engineer and the use of his instruments in order to follow the line and find the monuments that have been placed thereon.

"Very truly yours,

"ISAAC B. BROWN,
"Secretary."

In answer to this letter the following was received:

"July 13, 1904.

"Hon. Isaac B. Brown, Secretary of Internal Affairs, Harrisburg, Pa.:

"Dear Sir: In reply to your letter of the 11th inst., asking for estimates of cost of furnishing new monuments and making the necessary repairs to the old monuments as outlined in my previous letter to you, I herewith submit the following estimate:

For furnishing and setting 15 steel I beams at $8 each, .....	$120
For resetting eight mounments in concrete at $16 each, .....	128
For removing and resetting monument No. 276, .....	10
Total, .....	$258

"Pennsylvania's share, one-half, equals $129.

"This estimate is exclusive of the salary and traveling expenses of the representative whom you may designate to undertake the work on behalf of your Commonwealth. It includes the furnishing of the monuments and all material and labor necessary to set them.

"While I approve of cutting a vista or swath and blazing the trees along that section of the line called the 'Wilderness' so that the cost of the work in future examinations would be lessened, it occurs to me that it might be well to postpone such action until the next joint examination when our representatives in going over this section of the line could take with them a couple of axmen who could then do the necessary blazing and clearing.

"If the estimate as given above meets with your approval and if you so desire I will order the I beams expressed or sent to the railroad stations nearest the points where they are to be set.

"Very truly yours,

"HENRY A. VAN ALSTYNE,
"State Engineer and Surveyor.,,

The following letters were sent in reply:

"July 15, 1904.

"Hon. Henry A. Van Alstyne, State Engineer and Surveyor, Albany, N. Y.

"My Dear Sir: Your letter of 13th inst. comes just as I am leaving for my home in Western Pennsylvania. You are authorized to have monuments prepared as suggested in your letter and upon my return a week or ten days hence I will prepare and forward a formal stipulation to be executed by us as representing our respective states.

"Very truly yours,

"ISAAC B. BROWN,
"Secretary."

"July 27, 1904.

"Mr. Henry A. Van Alstyne, State Engineer and Surveyor, Albany, N. Y.:

"My Dear Sir: Confirming my letter to you of the 15th instant, I beg to inclose to you herewith stipulations which I have prepared, which, if they meet with your approval, you can sign, sending one of them to me and you retaining the other. Should the stipulations which I have prepared not meet with your approval, you can prepare new ones with such suggestions as you desire to make and submit them for my consideration, if you please.

"These which I have prepared are about in line with those which have been heretofore agreed to for similar work.

"When you have designated the party in your state that is to represent New York in the discharge of the duties imposed by the stipulation, he might communicate with O. P. Eaton, at Corry, Erie county, Pa., as to the time they will commence their work. Mr. Eaton is not an engineer or surveyor, but is a conservative and capable man and will discharge his duties with fidelity.

"Very truly yours,

"ISAAC B. BROWN,
"Secretary."

In acknowledgment of the above, the following letter was received:

"August 2, 1904.

"Hon. Isaac B. Brown, Sec'y Internal Affairs, Harrisburg, Pa.:

"Dear Sir: Your letter of July 27th with the enclosed agreements received. I have not yet decided who I will put in charge of this work and will delay signing and returning the agreements to you until this matter is settled which will probably be within a few days.

"The lowest quotation we could obtain on the monuments was $5.00 each delivered, in addition to which will be a charge of about 75 cents apiece for copper plates with the word 'Pennsylvania,' 'New York,' and 'miles.' We have the promise of shipment of these within a week or ten days and as I do not wish to have the party idle, it would seem best to wait until we have received notice of the shipment before we finally place our party in the field, and we will communicate with Mr. Eaton as directed.

"Very truly yours,

"HENRY A. VAN ALSTYNE,
"State Engineer and Surveyor."

This letter was followed by one of September 8th, returning the agreement:

"September 8, 1904.

"Hon. Isaac B. Brown, Secretary of Internal Affairs, Harrisburg, Pa.:

"Dear Sir: I enclose herewith one of the agreements executed by you and which I have also executed in relation to the boundary line work, having kept one agreement for the use of this Department. We have notified Mr. Eaton that he will be ready to begin work on Tuesday of next week, the monuments now having been shipped.

"Very truly yours,

"HENRY A. VAN ALSTYNE.
"State Engineer and Surveyor."

The following acknowledgment of the above letter completed the correspondence referred to:

"September 10, 1904.

"Mr. Henry A. Van Alstyne, State engineer and Surveyor, Albany, N. Y.

"Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 8th instant inclosing agreement in relation to boundary line work executed by Mr. Brown and by you.

"Very truly yours,

"THEO. B. KLEIN,
"Deputy Secretary."

As a result of these recommendations and in conformity with the correspondence given above, a stipulation was prepared by the Secretary of Internal Affairs and forwarded to the New York State Engineer and Surveyor, who executed the same and returned it to Pennsylvania where it was also executed by the Secretary of Internal Affairs on the part of the State of Pennsylvania. This stipulation is as follows:

Whereas, By virtue of legislative enactments in the state of New York, the State Engineer and Surveyor is authorized and required to make examination and inspection of the boundary line monuments between that state and adjoining states and is authorized also to co-operate with the proper authorities of adjoining states in the examination and inspection and in the restoring and replacing of boundary line monuments where they need to be restored or replaced, and is clothed with full authority to represent the state of New York in co-operating with other states in discharging the duties hereinbefore referred to regarding state boundary line monuments; and

Whereas, similar duties are imposed upon the Secretary of Internal Affairs of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by an act of its General Assembly approved the 4th day of May, 1889, entitled "An act relative to the boundary lines and boundary line monuments," which act gives direction to the Secretary of Internal Affairs to co-operate with the proper authorities in any of the adjoining states, in re-establishing by surveys or otherwise the boundary lines, in the erection of new monuments to mark their location, the repairing, resetting or renewing of the old monuments when found necessary; and by virtue of said act the Secretary of Internal Affairs is fully empowered to represent and act for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by the employment of such means as may be necessary in the premises, when from the reports of the county commissioners of said Commonwealth, or from other information satisfactory to the Secretary of Internal Affairs, it is found that there is a necessity for the resurvey and re-location of the said boundary lines, in whole or in part, or whenever any of the boundary line monuments are in such condition as to require resetting, replacing, or renewing; and

Whereas, by virtue of the laws referred to in the two states named, the said state officers are required to co-operate and act jointly in the examination and inspection, and when found necessary in the resetting and replacing and the renewing of monuments and in the re-establishing of the boundary lines between said states; and

Whereas, it appears from the examinations made in 1903 by the commissioners appointed on the part of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to examine the condition of boundary line monuments between the states of New York and Pennsylvania, that a number of such boundary line monuments are badly broken, mutilated and partially displaced, and others entirely broken and removed;

Therefore, it is agreed, by and between the undersigned acting in conformity with the authority conferred as hereinbefore stated, that C. G. Van Alstyne, representing the state of New York, under appointment made by Henry A. Van Alstyne, State Engineer and Surveyor of the said state of New York, and O. P. Eaton, representing the State of Pennsylvania, under appointment made by Isaac B. Brown, Secretary of Internal Affairs of said State of Pennsylvania, shall be empowered, to cause to be repaired or reset in the most substantial and durable manner, monuments Nos. 40, 60, 67, 183, 201, 242, 250 and 255, it being understood that monument No. 242, being in a highway, shall be sunk below the surface and an index stone located as closely to the same as may be practicable in order to indicate its exact position.

It is further agreed, that steel beams of proper dimensions shall be procured and placed in the correct position in lieu of monuments Nos. 25, 28, 54, 88, 127, 138, 149, 210, 216, 237, 296, 337, 385 and 386, it being understood that should the persons hereinbefore designated as representing the parties in interest, find any of these monuments in good serviceable condition, which were not found by the Examiners of the State of Pennsylvania in 1903, the replacing of them by steel beams shall not be required;

It is further agreed, that monument No. 515, being set in the middle of a public highway and being a menace to travel shall be sunk below the surface of the highway and an index stone erected at proper distance to show the exact location of said monument No. 515;

It is further agreed, that monument No. 276, designated as a highway monument, representing the location of a highway which no longer exists, shall be removed and placed upon the line at the crossing of a new highway between monuments Nos. 251 and 252;

It is further agreed, that so far as is practicable all old monuments which may be reset and all new monuments which may be placed in position, shall be set in concrete and below frost line;

It is further agreed, that the parties herein named shall have full authority to represent their respective states in the discharge of the duties herein imposed, limiting the scope of their authority however, to the resetting and replacing of the monuments herein referred to, reference being had to the numbers of monuments and their condition as is designated in the annual report of the Department of Internal Affairs of Pennsylvania, for the year ending November 30, 1903, and also to the correspondence had between the parties hereto, especial reference being had to the letter from the State Engineer and Surveyor of the state of New York, bearing date July 6, 1904;

It is further agreed, that the parties appointed to represent the states in interest herein referred to and appointed under the authority mentioned, shall proceed at once to the discharge of the duties as set forth herein, and shall diligently prosecute the work of resetting and replacing the monuments mentioned in order that the work shall be completed at the earliest day practicable;

It is further agreed, that upon the completion of the work provided for in this agreement, a full and detailed report shall be prepared, which shall give a description of each monument reset or replaced and any other interesting data pertaining thereto which may be of public value, such report to be made in duplicate, each to be signed by both the parties appointed by virtue of this agreement, one to be filed with the State Engineer and Surveyor of the state of New York, at Albany, and the other to be filed with the Secretary of Internal Affairs of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania at Harrisburg;

It is further agreed, that the actual expenses incurred in the discharge of the duties herein referred to shall be borne equally by the two states in interest, except so far as may relate to the compensation of the persons appointed by this stipulation on the part of the two states, which compensation is to be arranged by each state separately; all expenses to be accounted for in verified statements, and so far as practicable supplemented by receipted vouchers from parties to whom disbursements may have been made.

In witness whereof, Henry A. Van Alstyne, State Engineer and Surveyor of the State of New York, and Isaac B. Brown, Secretary of Internal Affairs of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, have hereunto set our hands and caused the seals of their respective departments to be hereunto affixed this 27th day of July, 1904.

HENRY A. VAN ALSTYNE,

State Engineer and Surveyor.

ISAAC B. BROWN,

Secretary of Internal Affairs.

By virtue of the agreement entered into by and between the two states, appointments were made by representatives to execute the provisions of the contract between the two states. The details of their work are displayed in the following report:

Corry, Pa., Oct. 28th, 1904.

Mr. Henry A. Van Alstyne, State Engineer and Surveyor of the State of New York, Albany, N. Y.:

Major Isaac B. Brown, Secretary of Internal Affairs of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.:

Gentlemen: In pursuance with your instructions, dated July 27th, 1904, directing us to repair and reset such monuments as were designated by you on the boundary line between the states of New York and Pennsylvania, we beg leave to make the following as our report:

We commenced work on Sept. 12th, 1904, by proceeding to Great Bend, Pa., and continued until the work was completed. The following is a detailed report of monuments repaired and reset:

Monument No. 54. Railroad Stone No. 1.

We found this stone between the two tracks of the Erie Railroad, buried 14 inches below the roadbed. It was broken. We removed the two pieces of the stone, then excavating to porcelain plate, set cross-lines by plumbline from hole in center of plate. We set a steel beam in concrete exactly by crosslines and plumbline. It has metal plates with the words "New York" on the north side, and the word "Pennsylvania" on the south side. It stands 22 feet west of a railroad sign post which is on line. Top of beam level with the top of railroad rails.

Monument No. 60. Milestone No. 22. Highway Stone No. 2.

Made of granite 12x6 inches, 4 feet 6 inches long. On the south side are the letters "Pa." Underneath "22 M." On the north side are the letters "N. Y." Northeast corner badly chipped; other corners and edges slightly chipped. We removed stone; excavated to porcelain plate; set crosslines by plumbline from hole in center of plate, and reset the monument exactly by crosslines, and in concrete. It stands on west side of Montrose and Binghampton turnpike, and just south of water-trough, on line between the property of A. C. Walker and M. Sullivan.

Monument No. 40. Milestone No. 16.

Made of granite 6x6 inches, 4 feet long. On the south side are the letters "Pa.," on the north side "N. Y.," and on the east side "16 M." We removed the stone, excavated to porcelain plate, set crosslines by plumbline, and reset monument in concrete exactly by crosslines. Its top, 6 inches above surface of ground, stands in an open field under line rail fence about 250 feet west of road just where the road leaves boundary line and turns to the north. On line between the properties of A. G. Brush and N. W. Stone.

Monument No. 28. Railroad Stone No. 1.

Made of granite 6x6 inches. Buried under roadbed. We removed stone, excavated to porcelain plate, set crosslines by plumbline from hole in center of plate. Then set a steel beam in concrete exactly by crosslines. The beam has metal plates with the words "New York" on the north side, and the word "Pennsylvania" on the south side. It stands 2 feet 8 inches west of the westerly rail of the main track of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad, 137 feet 9 inches north of a railroad mile post which is painted white.

Monument No. 25. Railroad Stone No. 1.

Made of granite 6x6 inches. We removed stone, excavated to porcelain plate, set crosslines from hole in center of plate by plumbline. Then set a steel beam in concrete by crosslines. It has metal plates with the words "New York" on the north side, and the word "Pennsylvania" on the south side. Monument No. 87. County Stone No. 1.

Made of granite 6x6 inches. Has diagonal grooves and marks the corners of Broome and Tioga counties in New York state. On the southwest side are the letters "Pa.," on the northwest side are the letters "T. Co.," and on the northeast side are the letters "B. Co." Has all four corners badly chipped. We removed the stone, excavated to porcelain plate, set crosslines from hole in center of plate by plumbline and reset monument exactly by crossline and in concrete. Its top, 8 inches above surface of ground, stands under an old stump fence which runs north and south, and just south of thick woods. Ground slightly sloping southwest, and is about 1,600 feet west of summit of ridge, 809 feet 6 inches east of monument No. 88. To find this stone, go from Monument No. 86 along line fence to woods, then follow what remains of an old rail and brush line fence to the second clearing, in which this stone can be found. On line between Michael Reardon and Ward Duell.

Monument No. 88. Milestone No. 38. Granite 6x6 inches.

It stands in line on the north wheel track of a short piece of boundary line road 125 paces west of Monument No. 126, 14 paces northwest of the most westerly of two apple trees, and west of Park's house. We set the steel beam in concrete 20 feet 7 inches directly south as an index to Monument No. 127. Has metal plates with "56 Miles" on the east edge, and its top 18 inches above surface of ground. On the property of A. D. Park.

Monument No. 138. Railroad Stone No. 1.

We removed these stones and excavated to the round flat plate with a hole in the centre, upon which we set a steel beam with metal plates with the words "New York" on the north side, and "Pennsylvania" on the south side. It stands between the two easterly tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, 180 feet northwesterly from the northwest of the east abutment of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad bridge. It stands in the center of 4 tracks of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad about 60 feet northwest of the northwest corner of what is called Goff's Ice House, now owned by the D., L. & W. R. R. Its top 2 inches below the top of the railroad rails. A "V" shaped signboard stands on north side of tracks with the words "New York" on the southeast and "Pennsylvania" on the southwest sides. We removed the stone and excavated to the porcelain plate. Mr. Willis then set crosslines by the hole in center of plate. We dug 9 inches deeper, rest plate exactly by crosslines, then reset monument in concrete by crosslines. Its top 4 inches below surface of roadbed. It stands in track of road leading northwest from the village of Elkland. On the southwest side are the letters "Pa.," on the northwest side the letter "W." and on the northeast side the letter "T." #### Monument 251-A. Highway Stone No. 1.

The location of this monument is on the west side of what is termed Buckley Brook road, at east end of line wire fence. The field on all sides grown up with brush. Land slopes slightly south. At this point we set a steel beam exactly by the points given us by Mr. Willis, Assistant Engineer and Surveyor of the State of New York. We excavated 4 feet 6 inches, then placed a white stone china dinner plate with a hole in center; by crosslines and plumbline placed a flat stone over plate then set steel beam exactly by crosslines. It has metal plates with the words "New York" on the north side, and the word "Pennsylvania" on the south side. On line between properties of Geo. D. Bonham and Robert Sharp.

By advice of Mr. Willis, at this point we set the steel beam with which we did not think it necessary to replace No. 237, thus doing away with the necessity of removing Monument No. 276. Mr. Willis advised us that if we removed No. 276 it would be necessary to set another stone in its place, a boulder or some native stone to designate the line.

Then placed a flat stone over plate, set a steel beam exactly by crosslines, which has metal plates with the words "New York" on the north side, and the word "Pennsylvania" on the south side. On east edge "146 Miles." It stands in a patch of low briars. Timber all cut. Is nearly on top of a steep westerly slope, about 575 feet east of a brook in deep ravine; 24 feet north of a large blackened hemlock stump. Stands in what was a log road down the hill into ravine. On line between the properties of Geo. Case and the York estate. To find this monument, go north from Coons Crossing, up ravine, after passing a vacant house and a watering trough, go into woods following creek about 1,000 feet to the first steep hill east of brook. Then to find monument No. 336 go east 1,416 feet 6 inches from No. 337.

When setting a steel beam, we invariably broke and buried the old stone.

Our field work being completed, as per your joint instructions, we herewith submit our report, and beg to remain,

Very respectfully,

O. G. VAN ALSTYNE,

Commissioner of the State of New York.

O. P. EATON,

Commissioner of the State of Pennsylvania.

From reference to the above report, it will be seen that the scope of authority given the commissioners was limited to the setting, replacing and repairs of monuments. No action was taken with reference to the opening of the line through what is generally termed "The Wilderness," along the line which passes between the counties of McKean and Warren, in Pennsylvania, and the counties of Chautauqua and Cattaraugus in the State of New York. A reference to the report of the examination for 1903 will show that young timber and brush has grown up along the line as it passes between the counties named, and that this undergrowth is of such a character that it is entirely impossible to follow the line. The necessity exists, according to the report of the Commissioners to have this line thoroughly cut out, and in order to do this it will probably be necessary to employ an engineer with several axmen.

During the coming summer, correspondence will be had with the New York State Engineer and Surveyor to ascertain whether he will co-operate with the Secretary of Internal Affairs in doing this necessary work, and if co-operation is secured it is probable that the line between the counties named will be thoroughly cleared out so that it will not be difficult in future examinations to follow the line without the assistance of an engineer.

INSPECTIONS OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

Extended references were made in the report for year ending November 30, 1903, to the duties which are imposed upon the Secretary of Internal Affairs by the act of 1895 and the appropriation act of 1903, by which the Secretary of Internal Affairs was given an appropriation of $2,500 to enable him to buy equipments for Inspectors of Weights and Measures in the cities of the first and second classes which are Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Allegheny and Scranton.

This subject is again referred to here for the reason that a writ of mandamus was issued at the instance of the Attorney General to require the Secretary of Internal Affairs to buy the necessary equipment. The Secretary of Internal Affairs, it will be remembered, refused to act in the premises for the reason that the act was unconstitutional, as he believed, that there was not a sufficient amount of money to buy the equipment, and that there was no way of standardizing the equipment which he might purchase. However, every possible effort was made by the Secretary to execute the act, but independent of the constitutional question arising, it was found impossible to purchase this equipment and supply the Inspectors of Weights and Measures in a way which would be at all creditable to the State of Pennsylvania with the amount of money appropriated.

The case was heard by the Dauphin County Court and the position assumed by the Secretary of Internal Affairs with reference to the constitutional question was sustained.

In this connection it is proper to say that among the delegated powers to the National Congress by the states which made up the American Union, was the power to fix standards of weights and measures. That power for some time was not exercised. A considerable amount of legislation, however, has been passed by Congress, and while the system of weights and measures is not now perfect, the matter is being considered by the National Bureau of Standards, which Bureau is co-operating with the proper authorities in the several states on this subject, with a view of having a concise and wholesome act passed by Congress upon the subject of weights and measures and of assimilating so far as may be possible the laws of the several states on this subject, which is of very much more importance than is usually accorded it.

A conference was recently held in Washington, comprised of officers of the National Bureau of Standards and the proper representatives of the several states. The Secretary of Internal Affairs attended this meeting and participated in its deliberations, not because any special powers were given to him, but he realized the importance of the subject and therefore felt justified in taking part in the discussions and in assisting in arriving at conclusions on the subject of national legislation and the assimilation of the legislation of the several states.

Great credit is due the National Congress for legislation upon financial problems, especially those features of financial legislation that regulate the coinage of gold and silver and the issuance of paper money, all being interchangeable dollar for dollar. It is an important piece of legislation and is essential in the commercial world, but the benefits to be derived from such legislation are in a measure destroyed on account of defective laws in the nation and in the several states with reference to the standards of weights and measures. If, for instance, a dollar will buy of one merchant a certain number of pounds of any article of commerce, the pounds being of full legal standard, and some other merchant will give for the dollar a short weight of the same commodity, then directly or indirectly is the efficacy of the law which provides for the uniform or interchangeable dollar destroyed.

The laws of Pennsylvania are defective as to weights and measures. The present Legislature should provide that the standards which are furnished by the government of the United States should be supplied to the State to take the place of those which were destroyed at the time of the burning of the State Capitol eight years ago. Then a law should be passed providing for inspectors or sealers of weights and measures in each city and in each county, and such inspectors or sealers of weights and measures should be paid a salary by the city or the county wherein their work is done, and no charge should be made to any person as fees for testing their weights or measures.

It would probably be well to establish in one of the departments of the State government a Bureau of Standards and Weights, with an officer charged with the duty of executing the laws as to weights and measures, to whom all the inspectors or sealers of weights and measures in the several cities and counties of the Commonwealth should make annual reports.

Every one who may choose to visit any of the markets will become impressed with the fact that short weights and short measures prevail to an extent which is appalling. The fact that there is no wholesome law in this State upon the subject of weights and measures operates as a license for the dishonest man in disposing of his wares and to the disadvantage of him who is controlled by conscience alone in the disposing of whatever he may have to offer at public sale.

The multiplying of officers is repulsive to a republican form of government and never should be indulged in to any extent unless public necessities require it to be done, but it is almost as important that there should be uniformity in the standards of weights and measures as it is that there should be uniformity in the value of the nation's dollar.

BUREAU OF INDUSTRIAL STATISTICS.

The annual report of this Bureau is bound separately and known as Part III of the Report of the Department of Internal Affairs.

The report of Pennsylvania Industrial Statistics for 1904 will complete the thirty-first year of the Bureau's existence and also completes the eighth year of a ten year's comparative series covering the operations of certain plants, originally 921 in number, which survive in the so-called "1896 Comparative Series." The publication includes complete reports of the entire products, value, wages, number of employes and capital invested in the tin-plate, pig iron, rolled iron and steel, steel castings, and covers the same items in the anthracite and bituminous coal fields.

Textile statistics covering the whole city of Philadelphia have been carefully compiled. The result of this investigation, especially in the separation and classification of male, female and minor labor, is of importance and value, public inquiry on these questions being constantly on the increase.

Reports on the subject of organized labor as received from structural, metal, anthracite, bituminous and textile unions, are contained in the report. Labor reports, made by the employes of labor throughout the State, cover all the industries above mentioned, and also in the new industry, river dredged coal. River dredged coal statistics illustrate the great value of waste products in Pennsylvania, other waste products being treated in the report.

The scope of the Bureau's investigations is being steadily broadened in as far as existing limitations admit. The possibility of an eventual industrial and labor census of the State constantly presents their importance.

The report of the Bureau for 1904 will present valuable statistics showing the growth of Pennsylvania in the last century, and particularly in the past ten years.

BUREAU OF RAILWAYS.

There are no more important factors in the commercial world than those which relate to the transportation of persons and commodities. All the railroad lines, whether steam or electric, all the telegraph, telephone and canal companies make their annual reports to this Department, which reports are filed in the Bureau of Railways. These reports cover all the features of transportation, capitalization, liabilities, operations and accidents to passengers, employes and other persons. They are all compiled and consolidated by the Bureau of Railways and some observations are made, and all are published in Part IV, designated as the Railroad Report, to which reference is made for all details relating to these transportation companies and the transportation problems considered therein.

EARLY HISTORY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

There is not a section of the State that is wanting in historical affairs of great public interest, and few sections of the State are connected with more important history than is the Cumberland Valley. Charming in its magnificent scenery and wonderful in its agricultural and material developments, the Cumberland Valley is one of the most noted in all the United States. Near its center is the beautiful city of Carlisle. A bit of early and interesting history connected with the founding of this town has been prepared by Hon. Theodore B. Klein, Deputy Secretary of Internal Affairs, and is published herewith, not only because of the merit of the production, but also to preserve in the public documents the early history of this town. It is as follows:

In the report of the Department of Internal Affairs for 1903; brief mention was made of the early settlement of the site upon which the capital city was founded.

In this connection it may be interesting and instructive to note the rise and progress of the early settlements made along the pathway to the great west, one of the first of which was the town of Carlisle, now the county seat of the county of Cumberland.

Carlisle shares in the honor of being one of the towns famous in the history of Pennsylvania, by reason of its early settlements, by reason of its prominence in the colonial days, by reason of important historical events that have transpired within its limits, and by reason of its being the seat of great educational institutions from which prominent men have gone forth into the important fields of science, law and theology and into the practice of medicine and the mechanical arts, as well as into the service of their country as soldiers and captains of war.

Carlisle is one of the earliest settlements west of the Susquehanna river, situated in the beautiful Cumberland Valley, but 18 miles from the river, and takes its name from an English city of the same name. Within sight of the mountain ranges on the north and south, with sparkling waters bubbling from the earth in great profusion, near which springs James Le Tort erected his cabin in 1720 and gave name to the never failing stream of water that flows about the borders of the settlement that has grown into the present town, now more than one hundred and fifty years old.

The old French pioneer Le Tort, in good judgment, selected a desirable location upon which to plant a colony and a desirable location upon which to locate an outpost in the early days when traders required some haven at which to rest during their weary journey to the far west, and where assistance might be obtained when required to resist the attacks of the tribes of Indians who still disputed the march of civilization. This fort according to the records was named Fort Lowther, after an English nobleman, a relative of the Penns, and occupied the ground immediately west of the centre square between Hanover and Pitt streets, extending across the main road, running from the Susquehanna river to the west, via Shippensburg. The western gate in the highway was opposite to lot No. 100 purchased by John Montgomery, and lot No. 101 purchased by Joseph Lymond. Lots Nos. 108, 116 and 124, on the south side were purchased by Francis West and others and lots 109, 117, 125, on the north side by Ezekiel Smith, Francis West and others. Three wells were dug within the fort, one of which was called the King's well.

In 1753 the garrison numbered but 12 men, and in 1755, 50 men, and the fort was utilized as the center of councils of peace, which were held there from time to time during the early period of hostile contentions.

The proprietaries concluded purchases from the Six Nations in October, 1736, of all the land west of the Susquehanna to the setting sun, after which time operations were begun to colonize the territory.

A considerable number of Indians of the Delaware, Shawanese and Tuscarora tribes looked with distrust upon the new arrivals and at times left the footprints of savage barbarity upon the hearthstones of the early settlers. The colonial government provided a stockade fort, covering two acres of ground square, with a block house in each corner, which served as a refuge for the fearful people and a protection for the brave defenders when resisting the attacks of the red men of the Kittatiny Valley.

The Penns, as the proprietary owners of the territory of Pennsylvania, directed their surveyors to lay out a manor of 7,551 acres, which was called Lowther, on the western bank of the Susquehanna river, immediately opposite Harris Ferry, now the city of Harrisburg, covering the land between the waters of the Conedoguinet creek and that of the Yellow Breeches, being the gateway to the Cumberland Valley, through which manor the tide of emigration and travel would pass on its way westward.

The erection of the county of Cumberland, called New in 1750, required a capital and accordingly James Hamilton, acting for the Penns as Lieutenant Governor, issued the following instructions to the Surveyor General Nicholas Scull and Thomas Cookson, as surveyor under date of April 1, 1751, from Philadelphia, to wit:

"Several places having been recommended to me since the erection of the new county of Cumberland over the Susquehannah, for the situation of the county town, I have taken time to give them all a just consideration with their respective conveniences and inconveniences, and at length I determined to place the Town somewhere on the waters issuing from LeTorts Spring into the river Conedogwainet as well because it is the nearest situation to the centre of the County on the East side that will admit of proper supplies of good water, Meadows, Pasture, Timber, Stone, Lime and other necessities and conveniences for such a Town, as that it answers best to the paths over the Blue Hills, to the two large Rivers of Conedogwainet and Yellow Breeches running in its neighborhood into the Susquehanna and to the trade both with the Indians and with the City of Philadelphia, as that there is said to be about it a wholesome dry Limestone Soil, good air and abundance of vacant land well covered with a variety of wood. Having come to this resolve, I ordered Mr. Cookson to purchase such plantations on this spring as would give the most healthy and commodious situation, and being informed by him that the purchases are finished, and that he waits there for my further orders, I have thought proper to dispatch you to him, that you may assist in finding out the properest place for the Site of the Town, and in doing this, I give it both of you in charge to take into your consideration the following matters, viz: The health of the citizens, the goodness and plenty of water, with the easiest manner of coming at it. Its commodiousness to the great Road leading from Harris Ferry to Powtomac and to other necessary roads, as well into the neighboring county as over the Passes in the Blue Mountains.

"When you have reviewed the Country about this place so as to consult these necessary points in the best manner possible, then you may proceed to mark the Place of the Centre and the Outlines, conforming yourselves in all things to the Proprietaries Plan and instructions herewith delivered to you, but in doing this you are to have a special regard to the situation of the Proprietary Lands, so as that upon the Encrease of the Town, the lots may all be within lands belonging to the Proprietaries, and the Roads to the Town pass thro them in the most advantageous manner, and to the end that I may form my own judgment of this, you are not absolutely to fix or publish any particular Place, but to lay down on a draught

"You are likewise to survey what other vacant lands there are within five miles of the Town for the use of the Proprietaries on your general warrant, as I am informed by them that the Surveyors have strangely neglected their interest in this county."

The site for the county town having been determined upon, Mr. Cookson, under date of May, 1752, made return of the purchases he had made of several tracts as follows, at and near the town of Carlisle.

and included two tracts of about 400 acres upon which squatters had settled without warrants. Surrounding these tracts on Le Tort Springs two other tracts of 2,141 acres to the East and 2,476 acres to the west respectively were included in the survey which formed a grand plot upon which to found the new city—as appears in the following survey—covering 6,475 acres. Mr. Cookson describes the plantations purchased as well improved and affording pretty meadows on LeTorts Spring.

The surveyors soon developed plans for the new town. A center square was staked off 440 feet by 480; a court house and prison site marked thereon; a market house site marked thereon; a site for a church marked thereon, all requisites for an up-to-date colony, all of which were surrounded by well defined boundaries, and 312 lots, traversed by broad avenues and alley ways, ready to be disposed of to the new comers attracted by the favorable situation and surroundings of this promised land of plenty. In 1753 five dwelling houses formed the nucleus of the new town with a temporary log building for a Court House.

In 1756 Col. Armstrong at the head of 280 men started from the infant town, then but five years old, and by rapid marching reached Kittanning and defeated the Indians nested there thus avenging the defeat of Braddock in 1755.

After this severe punishment of the red men it was necessary to keep a watchful eye up on the revengeful warriors, and for years thereafter a line of outposts was maintained as a protection against the anticipated incursions of the Tuscarora and other tribes of hostile Indians. These outposts were established at convenient places for the mutual protection of the limited garrisons and of the growing settlements in the valley of the Cumberland, then becoming attractive to the incoming population.

The annexed map exhibits the location of the outposts and forts, with the garrisons assigned by the authorities in the year 1764, which explains to some extent the trials and difficulties attendant upon the early development of our now fertile Cumberland Valley in which the thriving town of Carlisle is situated.

A number of lots in the new town were disposed of to prominent people, including such names as Alrichs, Armstrong, Albert, Boyd, Butler, Blair, Bell, Callender, Curry, Caldwell, Curran, Cummings, Dunning, Duncan, Douglas, Dobson, Gibson, Montgomery, McClure and others who were among the first settlers in the new town, and gave character to the community, and ere long the great deposits of limestones were drawn upon for building purposes, and very soon one hundred stone houses gave protection and comfort to the inhabitants.

Passing on to the times of the Revolutionary War, Carlisle was made a place of rendezvous for the American troops and British prisoners were sent there for confinement. Major André was a prisoner on parole and many Hessians were quartered there as prisoners in 1777, and were utilized in the construction of the barracks which became in time a school of cavalry practice, and at this time are utilized as an educational institution under the guardianship of the National government, for the instruction of 1,000 of the children of the western Indians, who are gathered there from among all the tribes in order to be taught the arts and mysteries of the mechanical trades, and the importance of and duties of American citizenship.

An act of Assembly, passed the 13th of April, 1782, provided for the erection of the Borough of Carlisle, which in detail set forth the metes and bounds of the corporation and provided fully for the good government of the Borough, and named Robert Miller and Samuel Postlewaite as Burgesses, and William Irvine, William Holmes, James Pollock, and Caspar Crompt, Assistants, Robert Smith as High Constable and John Heap as Town Clerk.

Another act of Assembly passed the 9th of September, 1783, established the famous college, as stated in Section 5 of the act, "In memory of the great and important services rendered to his country by his Excellency John Dickinson, Esquire, President of the Supreme Executive Council, and in commemoration of his very liberal donation to the institution the college shall be forever hereafter called and known by the name of 'Dickinson College.'"

Many prominent men of the several counties were named in the act as the trustees and the liberal donations of land and appropriations of money made by the State authorities demonstrated the interest manifested in the establishment and endowment of Dickinson College, now famous as being the alma mater of many notable men.

In 1794 General Washington, accompanied by his Secretary and 4,000 men, with artillery, tarried in the town on his way to quell the whiskey insurrection. His visit was the cause of a general rejoicing. Carlisle contributed four companies of soldiers during the War of 1812, who served with distinction and honor.

The population in 1830 had grown to 3,708, and in 1837 the Cumberland Valley Railroad gave the town communication with the seaboard and western points in the Valley.

At this time a population of more than 10,000 occupies the once quiet hamlet of LeTort and his companion, and the town, with many colonial landmarks still in existence, is well worth a visit to the student of the early history of Pennsylvania.

EARLY FOOTPRINTS OF DEVELOPMENTS AND IMPROVEMENTS IN EXTREME NORTHWESTERN PENNSYLVANIA.

What is said here must not be taken as a history of the counties of Erie and Crawford. Historians have already gone thoroughly over the data affecting their history, our State libraries have been supplied with published volumes and the people of these counties are no doubt to a reasonable extent conversant with the details of the very interesting history which marks their careers.

The Department of Internal Affairs, however, is a storehouse of interesting data affecting the whole State of Pennsylvania from the time of the very earliest settlements, the coming of William Penn, the advent of the Commonwealth, its growth and its varied history down to the present time. Some of the data which accompany this article have been published heretofore. Some of the maps are of inestimable value from a historical standpoint and deserve a place not only in this Department where they should be kept for all time as sacred souvenirs of early development, but copies of the same should appear in the published reports in order that the people may have an opportunity of seeing and knowing what these valuable documents contain. In addition to conveying to the present generation the information which these documents disclose, in thus publishing them, the future is assured of the perpetration of the information, for the annual reports of this office go into the different libraries of the Commonwealth and should the misfortune ever occur by which the records of this office should be destroyed by fire, the data published with this paper will be thus preserved.

This is the excuse, if any need be made, for giving an epitome of the progress and development of the counties of Erie and Crawford, as they are disclosed by the records on file in the Land Office Bureau of the Department of Internal Affairs. It would seem entirely proper that similar publication should be made in succeeding years with reference to every county of the Commonwealth.

Every nook and corner of Pennsylvania is rich in the history of her natural and material interests and in the record of her citizens both in war and in peace. Probably the locality which appeals most strongly to our sentiments is that surrounding Independence Hall, wherein birth was given to the new republic by virtue of the memorable declaration which emanated from the hearts and brains of the patriots who composed the Continental Congress on the 4th day of July, 1776. However interesting these affairs may be, there are features connected with the two counties in question located in extreme northwestern Pennsylvania that are certainly not of secondary interest. These historical features existed prior to the Declaration of Independence.

French Expansion.

France in its attempt at expansion had established itself in the Canadas with its seat of government at Quebec, still a city of beauty, magnificent in its location and intended by the French Emperor to be made the center of French civilization and development on the western continent. In the efforts to so establish France upon this continent, in the explorations which followed, and in the construction of fortifications to mark or indicate the limits of New France in America, the territory now embraced within Erie and Crawford counties was very much in evidence. This is a story that is well known to every student of history. Fort Presque Isle was the first French fort to be constructed as a basis of these claims and as a means of supporting these claims by French arms south of the Lakes. Immediately following the construction of this fort a road which has been designated in history as the Portage road was constructed from Fort Presque Isle, now Erie, to Leboeuf, now Waterford, where another fort was constructed, some 18 miles from Fort Presque Isle. French surveyors and engineers were undoubtedly familiar with the locality for they must have known that at Fort Leboeuf they were on the waters which were susceptible of navigation, which led them to Fort Duquesne and thence on to New Orleans, thus making a line exhibiting their claims from the lakes on the north to the gulf on the south. It is apparent that the projectors of the French scheme at that time did not fully understand the magnitude of their project. Could they have succeeded, the American colonies under British rule would only have constituted a narrow fringe along the Atlantic coast.

It was on the territory of these two counties that the protest of Great Britain was served upon the representatives of the French, when the youthful Washington came from Virginia to deliver the message of objection to the French at Fort LeBoeuf in the year 1753. Historical references to the experiences of George Washington at that time have always endeared his name to all the patriotic citizens of this great republic. Considering the magnitude of this American republic, which might or might not have existed if the demands of the British had not been crowned with success, the responsibilities placed upon Washington at this time scarcely have their parallel in history, and this fact alone, independent of his famous and forever memorable services as a soldier in the war for independence, would make his name brilliant in the annals of the republic. This view of the case is accentuated when it is known that in this event Washington was acting in his earliest representative capacity.

No thoughtful citizen of our Commonwealth, and we might as well say of this great republic, will ever pass the town of Waterford, along the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad, without being possessed with a feeling of veneration for the man who came in the frost and snows of that winter of 1753 to meet the French in their redoubt or fortification, constructed on the banks of French creek, then known as Fort LeBoeuf, which at that time was occupied by French troops. Hence there is within the counties of Erie and Crawford, through which Washington passed, exceedingly interesting history concerning the affairs of this State and of this Nation.

Territory of Erie and Crawford Counties.

At the time of the coming of William Penn, civilization had scarcely reached the Susquehanna, and northwestern Pennsylvania was entirely in the possession of the oldest race of America, the Indians. The charter of William Penn, as is well known, was granted in 1681. Immediately following his advent the province was divided into three counties, Philadelphia, Bucks and Chester. The western limitation of these counties has always been clothed with an element of indefiniteness. The situation is somewhat like that which existed under the charter granted for the colony of Connecticut where no western limit was given and its people claimed that it extended to the setting sun. It is probable, however, that Chester county had for its limitations the western boundary of the territory of Pennsylvania, as authorized under the charter to William Penn, that being five degrees westward of the Delaware river, so that what is now the territory within the limits of Erie and Crawford counties was first embraced within the territory of Chester county, and so remained until the erection of the fourth county in the State, Lancaster, by the act passed the tenth day of May, 1729. The preamble and the first section of the act which gave power to erect the county of Lancaster, are as follows:

An Act for erecting the upper parts of the province of Pennsylvania, lying towards Susquehanna, Conestogoe, Donegal, &c., into a county.

WHEREAS a great number of the inhabitants of the upper parts of Chester county have, by their petition humbly represented to the Governor and Assembly of this province, the great hardships they lie under, by being at so great a distance from the town of Chester, where the courts of justice are held, and the public offices kept: and how hard and difficult it is for the sober and quiet inhabitants of the part of the county, to secure themselves against the thefts and abuses almost daily committed upon them by idle and dissolute persons, who resort to the remote parts of the province, and, by reason of the great distance from a court or prison, do frequently find means of making their escape: For the removing which inconvenience, and relief of the said inhabitants, Be it enacted, That all and singular the lands within the province of Pennsylvania, lying to the northward of Octoraro creek, and to the westward of a line of marked trees, running from the north branch of the said Octoraro creek, northeasterly to the river Schuylkill, be erected into a county, and the same is hereby erected into a county, named and from henceforth to be called, Lancaster county; and the said Octoraro creek, the line of marked trees, and the river Schuylkill aforesaid, shall be the boundary line or division between the said county and the counties of Chester and Philadelphia.

From the reading of this section, and understanding the location of Octoraro creek, it will be seen that Lancaster county as originally erected, extended to the western limits of Pennsylvania and also included the territory now embraced in the counties of Erie and Crawford.

The reasons given for the erection of the new county are concise and most forcible, and in the acts of Assembly authorizing the organization of nearly all the earlier counties they are preceded by preambles wherein most potent reasons are given for the erection of the new counties. The reasons usually given relate to the inconvenience and the impossibility of the administration of justice and the punishment of those who commit felonies, crimes and misdemeanors.

Cumberland county was erected on the 27th day of January, 1750. This territory was erected from the territory which before had been embraced within the limits of Chester, and after the formation of Lancaster, within the limits of Lancaster county, and it too extended to the western boundary of the State and included the territory now within the limits of Erie and Crawford counties.

The preamble and first section of this enactment are as follows:

An ACT for erecting part of the province of Pennsylvania, westward of Susquehanna, and northward and westward of the county of York, into a county.

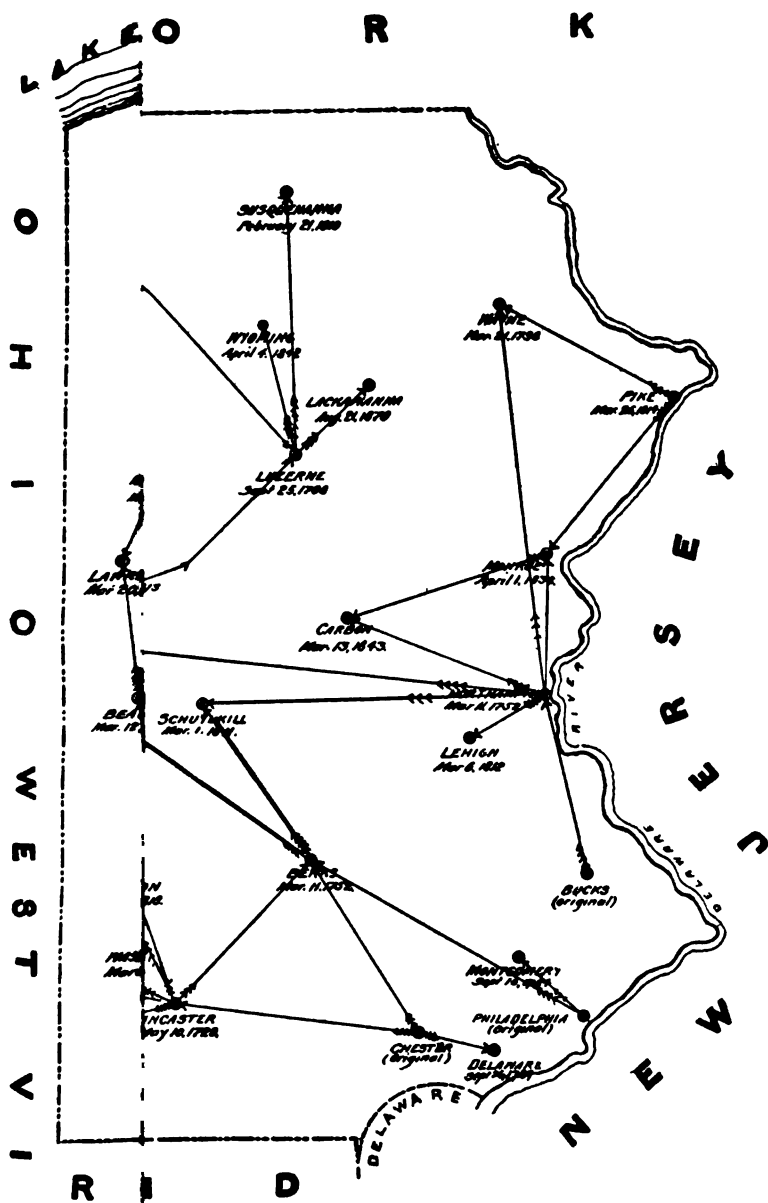

WHEREAS a great number of the inhabitants of the western part of Lancaster county have, by their petition, humbly represented to the governor and assembly of this province the great hardships they lie under, by being at so great a distance from the borough of Lancaster, where the courts of justice are held, and the public offices are kept, and how hard and difficult it is for the sober and quiet part of the inhabitants of that part of the county to secure themselves against thefts and abuses, frequently committed amongst them by idle and dissolute persons, who resort to the remote part of the province, and, by reason of the great distance from the court or prison, frequently find means of making their escapes: For remedying of which inconveniences, and relief of the inhabitants in the premises, Be it enacted, That all and singular the lands, lying within the province of Pennsylvania aforesaid, to the westward of Susquehanna, and northward and westward of the county of York, be and hereby are erected into a county, named, and hereafter to be called Cumberland: bounded northward and westward with the line of the province, eastward partly with the river Susquehanna, and partly with the said county of York, and southward in part by the said county of York, and part by the line dividing the said province from that of Maryland.

The county of Bedford was erected out of the territory embraced within the county of Cumberland, by enactment passed the 9th day of March, 1771.

The preamble and first section of the act creating Bedford county are as follows:

An ACT for erecting a part of the county of Cumberland into a separate county.

WHEREAS a great number of the inhabitants of the western parts of the county of Cumberland have represented to the Assembly of this province the great hardships they lie under, from being so remote from the present seat of judicature, and the public offices: For remedy whereof, BE it enacted, That all and singular the land lying and being within the boundaries following, that is to say; beginning where the province line crosses the Tuscarora mountain, and running along the summit of that mountain to the Gap near the head of the Path Valley; thence with a north line to the Juniata; thence with the Juniata to the mouth of Shaver's creek; thence northeast to the line of Berks county; thence along the Berks county line northwestward to the western bounds of the province; thence southward, according to the several courses of the western boundary of the province, to the southwest corner of the province; and from thence eastward with the southern line of the province to the place of beginning; shall be, and the same is hereby, erected into the county, henceforth to be called Bedford.

Its boundaries were somewhat changed by an act passed the 21st day of March, 1772, as to the southeastern limits, but in both the acts referring to the boundary lines of the county of Bedford the western limit was the western line of the province of Pennsylvania, and therefore Bedford county also included the territory now embraced within the counties of Erie and Crawford.

At the organization of the county of Westmoreland on the 6th day of February, 1773, the enactment which authorized its erection did not include the territory in extreme northwestern Pennsylvania, but it is claimed that subsequent to the purchase of 1784 from the Indians, the territory extending to the lakes, to the west of the Allegheny river and Conewango creek, was embraced within the county of Westmoreland.

Allegheny county was organized on the 24th of September, 1788, formed from Westmoreland, and its territory extended northward to the lakes and to the westward of the Allegheny river.

Both of the counties Erie and Crawford were formed from territory taken from Allegheny county by an enactment of the Legislature dated the 12th day of March, 1800.

Section 4 of this Act, which relates to the organization of Crawford county is as follows:

Sect. IV. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all that part of Allegheny county, which shall be included within the following boundaries, viz: Beginning at the north-east corner of Mercer county; thence upon a course north forty-five degrees east, till it intersects the north line of the sixth donation district; thence eastwardly along said line ten miles; thence at a right angle to the said line northerly to the north line of the eighth donation district; thence westwardly along the said line to the western boundary of the State; thence southerly along the said boundary to the northeast corner of Mercer county; thence eastwardly along the north line of Mercer county, to the place of beginning, be, and the same is hereby erected into a separate county, to be henceforth called Crawford county, and the place of holding the courts of justice in and for the said county, shall be at Meadville; provided the inhabitants or proprietors of Meadville and its vicinity subscribe and secure the payment of four thousand dollars to the trustees of the county, either in specie, or land at a reasonable valuation, within four months of the passing of this act, for the use of a seminary of learning within said county; and in case of neglect or refusal, the trustees shall, and they are hereby authorized to fix on the seat of justice, at any place within four miles of Meadville. And the Governor shall, and he is hereby empowered to appoint three commissioners, any two of which shall run and ascertain and plainly mark the boundary lines of the said county of Crawford, and shall receive as a full compensation for their services therein, the sum of two dollars for every mile so run and marked, to be paid out of the monies which shall be raised for the county uses, within the county of Crawford.

Section 5 of said act which relates to Erie county, is as follows:

Sect. V. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid. That all that part of Allegheny county, which shall be included in the following boundaries, viz: Beginning at the north-east corner of Crawford county; thence at a right angle with the north boundary of the same northerly till it shall intersect the line of the State of New York; thence westwardly along the said line to the south-west corner of the said state; thence northerly by the line of the said state into Lake Erie; thence south-westwardly by the said Lake, including so much thereof as is within the jurisdiction of Pennsylvania, until it shall intersect the aforesaid western boundary of the State; thence southerly by the said boundary to the north-west corner of Crawford county; thence along the north line of the said county to the place of beginning, be, and the same is hereby erected into a separate county, to be henceforth called Erie county; and the place of holding the courts of justice, in and for the said county, shall be at the town of Erie.

For a time after the organization of these two counties, under this act of 1800, the judicial and official business of the counties was conducted at Meadville. At the time of the organization of Erie county, its population was 1,468, and the population of Crawford county was 2,346.

Scull's Map of 1770.

In the year 1770 a map was published by W. Scull, and from this map a tracing has been made, which accompanies this paper, showing the territory from Fort Pitt to Fort Presque Isle and to near the western boundary line of Pennsylvania, and also including a sketch of the Allegheny river and the Conewango creek from where said creek enters the State of Pennsylvania until the point of its confluence with the Allegheny where the city of Warren is now situated. (See Map "A" herewith.) This map bears evidence of considerable development in and about what is now the city of Pittsburg. The place had ceased to be called Fort Duquesne by virtue of the success of the colonists over the French, and a new name had been given the place in honor of the British statesman, William Pitt.

This map presents material for study to the student of history. Few of the names of the present day appear upon it. There was no city of Erie, of Meadville, of Oil City, Franklin, or Corry, and the territory embraced within the limits of this map was a wilderness, the timber being of the highest quality and most valuable character. Limitless forests of white pine covered the territory especially in the northwestern portion of the section. But one road appears upon this map and that is the road from Fort Pitt to Fort Venango, and thence to Forts Leboeuf and Presque Isle.

With all the wonderful commercial interests which are now located in this section of the State, and the inestimable value thereof, yet could this territory be rehabilitated with the primeval forests that stood there in 1770, it would seem almost impossible to estimate the value of the timber in the territory, from a commercial standpoint.

Many of the streams which were then known by Indian names are now called by other names. Toby's creek, which empties into the Allegheny, being the water drainage of portions of McKean, Elk and Jefferson counties, is now called the Clarion river, but all the old surveys which were made by the deputy surveyors between 1790 and 1800 designate the same as being located on the waters of Big Toby's or Little Toby's creek.

It is a satisfaction to note that among the many changes which have occurred in the names of streams and localities, that stream, French Creek, which was a link in the chain of navigation between the Lakes and the Gulf, still retains its name given to it, undoubtedly, at the time of the French occupation. Its location is defective in that the map by no means gives its extent. This stream, as is well known, arises in Findley's Lake, in Chautauqua county, New York, flowing down through the town of Wattsburg, Erie county, into Leboeuf township, where it is joined by the eastern branch arising south of the city of Corry, and southeasterly from the town of Waterford it is joined by the western branch which is the outlet of Lake Leboeuf.

While French occupation was a failure and while the great ideas of expansion of the French ruler came abruptly to an end at the conclusion of the French and Indian War, yet it is not to be regretted that some of the places within the territory of the two counties in question bear the names which give evidence of the French occupation of this part of Pennsylvania in the early days of its history.

Indian Purchases.

As before indicated, this northwestern territory of Pennsylvania was within the chartered rights of William Penn, but at the close of the Revolutionary War practically nothing had been done toward its development further than the sparse settlements which may have been made as a result of the attempted expansion on the part of the French, with Quebec as a basis of operations.

The purchase from the Indians under date of 1764, and the earlier purchases had been consummated, but the vast territory in northwestern Pennsylvania north of the Ohio, and extending in a diagonal line in a northeasterly direction to the boundary line of Pennsylvania at a point now within the limits of Bradford county, was still in the possession of the Indians so far as the making of any conveyances was concerned.

Along the Allegheny river and some of its tributaries there were Indian villages and in the western advance of civilization, hostile acts were committed on the part of the Indians which rendered the fertile northwestern territory, desirable as it may have seemed, difficult of occupancy.

Many negotiations with the Indians were had in pursuance of resolves of the Supreme Executive Council of Pennsylvania, all of which were fruitless until that with the Six Nations at Fort Stanwix in New York State, where the city of Rome is now located, which was held in 1784. Pennsylvania had appointed three commissioners to confer with the chiefs of the Six Nations, and a treaty was consummated and signed on the fifteenth day of October, 1784, and a deed signed by the chiefs of the Six Nations on the twenty-third day of the same month by which there was deeded to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania a vast territory which is described in the proceedings of this Fort Stanwix conference published herewith.

By this deed there were relinquished to Pennsylvania all the claims of this confederation, but there were other Indian tribes which alleged ownership, or certain rights, to the same territory, and the same Commissioners who represented Pennsylvania at Fort Stanwix, in New York state, convened at Fort McIntosh, where the city of Beaver, in Beaver county, Pennsylvania, is now located, and consummated a treaty with the Wyandottes and the Delawares by which these tribes relinquished all their claims to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in a deed corresponding exactly in description to that above mentioned as given by the chiefs of the Six Nations at Fort Stanwix in the previous year. This treaty was dated the 21st day of January, 1785. The proceedings at Fort McIntosh are published in conjunction with those at Fort Stanwix.

Proceedings of the Treaties held at Fort Stanwix and M'Intosh, between the Commissioners of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and the Deputies of the Six Nations, the Wyandott and Delaware Indians claiming the unpurchased Territory within the acknowledged Limits of the said Commonwealth.

The Commissioners of Indian affairs from the State of Pennsylvania, pursuant to their letter of the third instant, met in conference with the Commissioners on part of the Continent.

The hon. Samuel J. Atlee, William M'Clay, and Francis Johnston, esqs.	}	Commissioners on the part of the State of Pennsylvania.

It was requested by the State Commissioners, that the Commissioners for the United States should introduce and announce them in their official character to the Indians, and inform them, that they, by consent of Congress, had some business of importance to transact with them, relating to the affairs of said State, to be brought forward at a proper period;

Which requisition, after being discussed, was unanimously agreed to.

Fort Stanwix, October 17, 1784.

At the request of the Commissioners from the United States, the Commissioners from the State of Pennsylvania met them this day in conference on the same subject as above. Present as before.

Whereupon it was agreed, That upon the close of the council to be held this day with the Indians in the Council-House of Fort Stanwix, the commissioners on part of said State should be introduced and announced in due form to the Indian chiefs or sachems in full council.

The same day in council held between the Commissioners on part of the United States, and the representatives of the Six Indian nations; present also the Commissioners for the State of Pennsylvania.

General Wolcott arose and addressed the Indians as follows, viz:

Sachems and Warriors,

We now, announce to you Col. Atlee, Mr. M'Clay and Col. Johnston, three honorable gentlemen from the State of Pennsylvania, who have come by the consent of Congress, as commissioners, to transact some affairs with you, on the part of that State, after the conclusion of the present treaty, should it be concluded in a manner satisfactory to the United States.

After which Col. Atlee in behalf of the Indian commissioners for the State of Pennsylvania, delivered the following speech, viz:

Sachems and Warriors,

You have now been told by the honorable Commissioners from Congress, that we attend as commissioners from your old friends of Pennsylvania, to transact business with you on the part of that state. At a proper season we will produce to you our commissions, and lay before you the business committed to our charge, and we doubt not but you will take it under immediate consideration, and return a favourable answer.

And, The Deputies of the Six Indian Nations.

The Commissioners, through Colonel Atlee, opened their business by addressing them as follows, viz.

Brothers of the Six Nations,

It is probable that the business between you and the Continental Commissioners will be settled this day in Council; previous to which, we are desirous of meeting you this morning with a view of laying before you the particular objects of our missions, and which we have attended here so long to negotiate with you on the part of the state of Pennsylvania. It is not our wish to settle any matters finally until the conclusion of the Continental Treaty, the design of our present interview is to prepare your minds for the introduction of our business at a proper season, to discuss with freedom and seriously deliberate upon the subjects necessary to be taken into consideration, that we may fully and perfectly understand each other.

We now inform you that we are commissioned and sent from your old friends of Pennsylvania, to purchase from you, according to ancient custom, the unpurchased lands within the acknowledged limits of the said state. This has been the invariable usage of our forefathers, and we, desirous of pursuing their good example, wish that our young men who have become very numerous, and require more lands, should settle and improve the same in quietness and peace; for this desirable purpose we have brought with us a valuable cargo of goods, suited to your various wants and necessities, as a compensation for your right to these lands. But these lands being more remote and consequently less valuable than those our fathers have heretofore purchased, you ought not, therefore, to expect so great a consideration for them.

(The Commissioners then produced a map of the State, pointing out to them the unpurchased land now intended to be purchased.)

We here produce to you all the deeds of purchase made by our forefathers from their first coming into this country, which if you require shall be read and explained to you for your information and satisfaction, by which you will learn the extreme regard the people of Pennsylvania have ever shewn the Six Confederate Nations.

To which Capt. O'Bale, a chief of the Seneca Nations, replied in behalf of the Six Nations.

Brothers of Pennsylvania,

We now call your attention to our reply to what you have said; we greatly rejoice in meeting our brothers of Pennsylvania once more in peace and friendship, your language has been friendly and agreeable to us, as that of your forefathers always was; you have informed us of the business you are commissioned from the State of Pennsylvania to transact with us, we have seen the deeds given by our fathers to yours and understand you well. We will take up the matter, keep it in mind, and deliberate upon it 'till the close of the continental business.

The Commissioners then thanked them, and proceeded as follows, viz:

We come in the most peaceable and friendly manner and do not wish to irritate your minds with a recapitulation of former grievances, but to make the road between us smooth and even. We are to inform you that one of our brothers present (pointing to Mr. M'Clay) is appointed by the government of Pennsylvania to run the boundary line between you and us, next spring, when we will expect some of you to accompany him, in order to prevent all disputes in future touching the same.

Having it in charge from the state, we must not omit to be informed by you the Indian name of Burnet's Hills, mentioned in our deed of 1768. And also which of the two streams Lycoming or Pine Creek (both of which empty into the West Branch of Susquehanna) is known among you by the name of Tiadaghton. (To which they answered:) As to Burnet's Hills they called them the Long Mountains and knew them by no other name; and that Tiadaghton was Pine Creek or the uppermost and largest of the two, but of this they would consider and return a more positive answer.

The conference was then closed.

October 23, 1784, In C O N F E R E N C E.

The Commissioners again produced the map of the state, pointing out the purchased and unpurchased lands within the same, particularly describing and explaining to them the forty-second degree or line of latitude (being the northern boundary of the state) and also mentioned the place where it was supposed it would pass. All which Capt. Aaron Hill, a Mohock chief, who spoke English very well, perfectly understood and explained in a satisfactory manner to the other chiefs.

Captain O'Bale then spoke and informed the Commissioners, "That it is 'not the wish of the Six Nations at present to part with so much of their 'hunting grounds,' " and pointed out a line on the map which he hoped would be agreeable to them.

This being far short of the boundary of the state was therefore deemed by the Commissioners totally inadmissible.

The Commissioners then spoke to them as follows:

Brothers,

Though the lands we are about to purchase are already ceded by the line of cession described in the Articles of Peace between the United States and Great Britain, yet we mean not to take any advantage of you, but are desirous of paying you a valuable consideration for them, after the manner of our ancestors, your brothers of Pennsylvania. This consideration we have with us and consists of an excellent assortment of goods, amounting in value to four thousand dollars, and which you will find to be of the first quality, which will certainly convince you that many advantages will flow to you from a trade and correspondence with your brothers of Pennsylvania.

We now desire you would make up your minds on these important matters that our business may be in such forwardness on the conclusion of the Continental Treaty, as to be ready to receive a public and final sanction, on the completion of which we will deliver you a belt.

We wish once more to impress our brothers with an idea that our intention is to pursue the same method of obtaining lands from you that our forefathers did, with whose conduct we conceive you must be perfectly satisfied, as they never wronged you, but have fulfilled all their engagements and paid you faithfully, for all the lands they have from time to time purchased of you.

Least any doubts should arise respecting the quality of the goods, if such chiefs as are desirous of seeing them will attend at the stores, the several packages shall be opened and shewn to them.

It has been intimated by some of you that you are desirous of having a privilege of hunting on these lands, to this we have no objection, more especially as the continental commissioners have granted you the same indulgence,—this in our opinions will tend to our mutual advantage.

Brothers,

To-morrow being Sunday, on which we can transact no public business, being a great way from our respective families, and winter approaching fast upon us, we must therefore again request you to come to a conclusion on these matters, and let us know your minds as soon as possible."

The Commissioners then withdrew, the chiefs still remaining in consultation. After some time the Indians requested their attendance, they returned accordingly, when the chiefs present spoke by Captain O'Bale, as follows:

"Brothers of Pennsylvania,

"You have communicated to us your business; you have pointed out the lands you are directed to purchase of us, and we understand you; you have likewise shewn your authority, of which we are satisfied. And as we wish to keep the way between us smooth and even, and to brighten the chain of friendship, and make it lasting, we have agreed that the lands you have described be granted to you in the same manner as you have requested. But as lands afford a lasting and rising profit, and as the Pennsylvanians have always been generous, we hope you will give us something next year as a farther consideration."

The Commissioners after consulting together replied,

"We thank you for meeting us here, and are glad to find you so well disposed to peace and friendship. We expected we had brought you sufficient presents for the lands we are commissioned to purchase, but have nevertheless agreed to give you goods to the amount of one thousand dollars more, which we will deliver to you or to any persons you may appoint to receive them at Tioga, the first of next October. This cargo of goods shall be assorted in the best manner to serve you, for the performance of which we will obligate ourselves if you think it necessary."

Then the chiefs by Captain O'Bale, spoke as follows, viz:

"We most cheerfully agree to this; we will take an obligation for the purpose of securing to us the privilege of hunting on the lands, and also for delivery of the goods, which will perfectly satisfy us. We wish that our brothers of Pennsylvania would send us a faithful gun and blacksmith to reside at or near Tioga, who would be of great advantage to us when we come down in hunting parties; and also that the government of Pennsylvania would establish trading houses at the same place, that we may be conveniently and honestly supplied with such articles as we shall stand in need of."

The Commissioners answered, "We will make true report of these requests to the State, and make no doubt they will be complied with."

Two of the principal chiefs, Captain Aaron Hill of the Mohawks, and Captain O'Bale of the Senecas, desirous of having each a rifle of the manufacture of Pennsylvania, being informed they were very good, requested the Commissioners to give them two of the best quality, to be delivered to them on the first day of April next, at the new store at Newtown, near Tioga; which the Commissioners complied with, and gave their obligation for that purpose.

The conference ended.

And a full representation of the Six Indian Nations.

At the close of the continental business, General Wolcott addressed the Indians as follows:

"Sachems and Warriors,

"We informed you some time past, that these gentlemen commissioners from the state of Pennsylvania, had some public business to transact with you on the part of the said State. If they are ready to bring it forward, now will be a proper time."

Upon which Colonel Atlee, in behalf of the Pennsylvania Commissioners, delivered the following speech, prepared for the purpose: "Brothers of the Six Nations,

After a long separation of nine years, during which period, the great Congress have been at war with, and conquered their enemies from the other side of the great water. We the Commissioners from your old friends of Pennsylvania, with the consent of the United States in Congress assembled, are well pleased to meet you this day; and from our hearts rejoice with you, that peace and friendship are once more established by these honourable gentlemen the commissioners of Congress.

"Brothers,

"Listen with great attention to what we are going to say to you. We come in the name and from the government of Pennsylvania, of which you have already been informed; our commission we here produce, which we will read to you publicly."

The commission was read.

"Brothers,

"From the first coming of our fathers to this country, about one hundred years ago, to the time of the last treaty and purchase in 1768 at this place, which many of you now present must well remember, your brothers of Pennsylvania as they wanted lands for their young men to settle on, applied for and purchased from the natives from time to time such quantities within the bounds of their charter as they judged sufficient.

"The several deeds for the different purchases we here produce as authentic proofs of the justice of our conduct towards our brethren of the Six Nations, and others claiming and Possessing the country—testimonies which cannot lie."

Produced the deeds.

"This last deed, brothers, with the map annexed, are descriptive of the purchase made sixteen years ago at this place; one of the boundary lines calls for a creek by the name of Tyadoghton, we with our brothers the Six Nations to explain to us clearly which you call the Tyadoghton, as there are two creeks issuing from the Burnet's Hills, Pine and Lycoming.

"Brothers,

"You will observe by our commission just now read to you, that our present business is to satisfy you, as was our ancient custom, for the lands lying within the acknowledged limits of Pennsylvania, for which you have not heretofore received any compensation. •

"This compensation has been mutually agreed to by you and us in conference this morning. It was also agreed, that in addition to the goods we have now on this ground for your use, we should give our obligation for the amount of one thousand dollars in such goods as will best suit yourselves, to be delivered at or near Tioga, on the Susquehanna, on the first day of October next. It now remains for us mutually to carry into execution our respective agreements, and that, in the most solemn and public manner, as it is our fixed determination that they shall be inviolate forever.

"Brothers,

"Before we conclude, we desire you to appoint some suitable persons among yourselves to receive and distribute the goods with impartiality and justice; and that you will also nominate a fit person to attend running the boundary between you and us, when due notice shall be given thereof." (A Large Belt.

To which they replied by Captain Aaron Hill.

"Brothers from Pennsylvania,

"We have heard what you have said, and are well pleased with the same. The consideration we have fully agreed on, which we are to receive for the lands, and agreeable to your request have appointed Captain Aaron Hill, Onequiandahonjo, and Honeghariko of the Mohawk tribe; Kayenthogkke, Thaghneghtanhare, and Teyag-oneendageghte, of the Seneca; Ohendarighton and Thoneeyode, of the Cayuga; Sagoyahalongo and Otoghselonegh, Ojestalale, Oneyanha, Gaghaweda and Odaghseghte of the Oneida; and Onesagheughte and Thalondawagon of the Tuscarora, as suitable persons to receive the goods from you.

"With regard to the creek called Tyadoghton, mentioned in your deed of 1768, we have already answered you, and again repeat it, it is the same you call Pine Creek, being the largest emptying into the west branch of the Susquehannah.

"Agreeable to your wish we have appointed Taghneghtanhare to attend your surveyor in running the line between you and us."

We do certify that the foregoing speech was this day made by Captain Aaron Hill, on behalf of the Six Nations to the Pennsylvania commissioners.

Witness our hands this twenty-third day of October, Anno Domini one thousand seven hundred and eighty-four.

(Signed)

Samuel Kirkland, Missionary.

James Dean, Interpreter.

The Deed* was then produced, and publicly read, when the chiefs of the respective nations sealed and delivered the same, saying, "We deliver this as our grant and deed, and give up the land therein mentioned, according to the description thereof to their brothers the Pennsylvanians, for their use forever." After the same being witnessed, the commissioners sealed and delivered the two obligations mentioned above, one for the delivery of the goods, and the other for securing to them the privilege of hunting on the lands now purchased.

The council arose.

The foregoing is a true state of the proceedings of the Indian treaty at Fort Stanwix.

State of Pennsylvania, ss:

BE IT REMEMBERED, That on the seventeenth day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-five, and in the ninth year of the independence of the United States of America, came the honourable Arthur Lee, esquire, LL. D. one of the commissioners of the United States of America for holding treaties with the Indian nations, and Griffith Evans, esquire, secretary to the commissioners of the said State of Pennsylvania, for treating and purchasing, &c., of said Indians, before the honourable Thomas M'Kean, esq., doctor of laws, chief justice of the supreme court of the said state of Pennsylvania, and made oath on the holy Evangelists of Almighty God, that they were present and did see the thirteen Indian sachems or chiefs, in the above deed named as grantors, make the signatures or marks to their respective names adjoining, and seal and deliver the above conveyance, as and for their act and deed; that they severally subscribed their names as witnesses thereof, and also seen the other seven witnesses subscribe their names as witnesses to the same, and that the names Arthur Lee and G. Evans above subscribed, are of their respective hand-writing. In Testimony whereof I have hereunto put my hand and seal the day and year above said.

THOS. M'KEAN. L. S.

Note.—It appearing to the Commissioners that the Wyandott and Delaware nations were the only claimants of the unpurchas'd lands in Pennsylvania, amongst the western Indians, consequently the present negotiations on part of the state are confined to them.

In CONFERENCE, January 14, 1785.

The honourable Samuel J. Atlee, and	}	Commissioners.
Francis Johnston, esqs.

John Nicholson,

And the chiefs of the Wyandott and Delaware Indian nations.

The Commissioners addressed them in the following words by Colonel Atlee:

“Brothers,

“We have been long separated by the wars that have subsisted between us, which are now terminated and over, we are very glad to meet you here, and have great occasion to rejoice that we have an opportunity of brightening the chain of friendship between us, and we hope soon to take you by the hand in a happy and lasting peace,—when established by the commissioners from Congress.

“We have called you together this morning with a view of explaining to you the nature of the business we have to negotiate with you.

“Brothers,

“We are commissioned and sent from your old friends of Pennsylvania; to purchase of the natives all the unpurchased lands within the territory of Pennsylvania, for this purpose we met your brothers and uncles the Six Nations last October, at Fort Stanwix, and according to our ancient custom purchased the said lands of them, and this is the deed they gave us to confirm the same.”

Then produced the deed executed by the Six Nations last October, and also a map of the country, explaining the same to them.

“Your brothers and uncles suggested to us, that they had a right to act for you also, in disposing of this land; but hearing you claimed and knowing that you hunted on part of this ground, we conceived we had better meet you ourselves on the subject, that we might also see each other, and remove all obstructions out of the way between us. We have therefore reserved a proportion of the presents, and have brought them with us to give you as a compensation for your right to this country.

“The amount of what we have reserved is two thousand dollars, consisting of an excellent assortment of goods of the first quality, calculated in the best manner to supply your wants, which is a greater proportion than what we have given to your uncles the Six Nations, and is certainly a very generous consideration.

"You are now fully informed of our business with you, we earnestly desire that you may think seriously of it, for what we are about to do must be as permanent as the sun. We wish you to go and consult together upon our words, and let us know your minds as soon as convenient.

"Brothers,

"We inform you that it is not our wish to settle our business finally with you, previous to the conclusion of the continental treaty, but only that we may fully understand each other, and have our minds prepared, that when the commissioners on the part of the United States shall have completed their business, we may have ours ready to bring on."

To which they replied by Captain Pipe of the Delawares, viz.

"Brothers,

"We rejoice from our hearts to see our brothers from Pennsylvania, and are very glad that we are likely once more to live in peace and friendship with you. Your speech is very pleasing to us. You have told us the business you have met us here upon, and we think we fully understand you. We will council together and let you know our minds some time soon.

"Brothers,

"We are very glad to hear of your having met with our uncles the Six Nations at Fort Stanwix, and that they have given up their lands to you agreeable to the deed you just now shewed us."

In CONFERENCE. Present as before.

Captain Pipe spoke in behalf of the Wyandott and Delaware nations as follows:

"Brothers of Pennsylvania,

"We met last night, and counselled together upon the speech you delivered to us yesterday. We thank you for saving some of your presents for us, for in this brothers you were very right, for our fathers always told us, and we tell our children, that from Venango to Little Beaver Creek, and out to the Lake, was our hunting ground. But we have now all agreed to let our brothers the Pennsylvanians have it, excepting a few tracts which we would wish to reserve, that we might make a present of a piece of ground to you and your young men for meeting us here at this inclement season; and that we may have it in our power to fulfil our promises to some of our friends, which we made long ago."

To which the Commissioners replied,

"Brothers,

"We thank you for your kind offer, but we cannot consistent with our instructions from the state, agree to any reservations; our purchase must be for our whole claim; at the same time, we have no doubt but that if any individuals have just claims to any part of these lands, that upon application being made to the government of Pennsylvania, they will be properly attended to."

The chiefs after consulting together for some time answered,

"Well, then, we have agreed that this country shall be yours, and that our brothers of Pennsylvania shall have it forever."

The Commissioners then thanked them, and said,

"We shall expect a deed from you for these lands, and we request you will nominate the persons who are to sign it, that it may be ready for execution at the proper season, when we will meet you in public council; and also that you would appoint fit persons to receive the goods from us, when we shall be ready to deliver them out."

They replied that Montour the interpreter should wait on the Commissioners the next day, and give them the names of those persons.

Conference ended.

January 16, 1785.

Montour agreeable to the appointment of yesterday attended the Commissioners, and returned the names of the following persons who were to sign the deed, viz., Deunquat, or the Half King, Tauwarah, or the Sweat House, and Abraham Kuhn, of the Wyandotts; and Keeskanohen, or the Pipe, Peechemelind, or the Present, Wialindioghin, or the Council Door, Hyngapushes, or the Big Cat, Tautabaughsey, or Twisting Vine, and Whingohatong, or the Volunteer, of the Delawares. And Abraham Kuhn, Wealindeoghin, and Wingenum, to receive the goods.

And the deputies of the Wyandott, Delaware, Chippawa, and Ottawa and Muncy Indian nations.

Upon the completion of the Continental treaty, the Pennsylvania Commissioners, delivered the following speech, by Colonel Atlee:

"Brothers of the Wyandott and Delaware Nations,

"Listen with attention to what your brothers of Pennsylvania are going to say. You have been informed by the Continental Commissioners at their first meeting, that we come from the government of Pennsylvania, as Commissioners duly authorized to transact public business with you, as will appear by our commission under the seal of the state, which we will read to you."

Read the commission.

"Pursuant to this commission, we met your brothers and uncles the Six Nations at Fort Stanwix, in October last, and after a solemn peace was established with them by the honourable Commissioners of the United States, we, in conformity to ancient custom, purchased their right to all the lands within the acknowledged limits of Pennsylvania, not already purchased of them, for which we gave a valuable consideration in goods of the first quality.

"That this may be known to all, we here produce their deed executed to us in the most public manner, and witnessed by the honourable Commissioners of Congress, Captain Aaron Hill, a chief of the Mohawk tribe, and several others.

"Now, Brothers,

"As you have been called together to this place, by the honourable the Commissioners of the United States, we, by consent of Congress, are happy to meet you, and rejoice that peace and friendship are once more established amongst us. In testimony of our sincerity we present you with these strings. (Five Strings.

"Brothers,

"Knowing that for some time past you have hunted upon and claimed a portion of the lands within Pennsylvania, and being actuated by the strict principles of peace and justice towards you in the same degree that you have seen we manifested to your brothers and uncles the Six Nations, and to prevent future trouble between your people and ours, we have determined according to the known usage of Pennsylvania, to give you the consideration agreed upon between us, for this purpose we have brought with us a quantity of the best goods such as will minister to your relief and comfort. These goods shall be delivered out to proper persons appointed by each nation to receive them; and that no misunderstanding may arise in future, a map of the land we wish to have confirmed to the commonwealth, shall be affixed to the deed to be executed by you, that your children and ours, may hereafter have recourse to the same." (A Belt.

To which they by the Half King, chief of the Wyandotts, replied.

"Brothers of Pennsylvania,

"Give attention to what we shall say to you. Your words have pleased us very much, and we all thank you for your kindness toward us; our grandfathers have always said that your conduct towards them was just the same you discover to us now. Pennsylvania has never deceived nor wronged us out of anything, and we all thank you not only from our lips but also from our hearts for your honesty." (Three Strings.

The Commissioners then produced the Deed* that was prepared, and informed them it was ready for them to execute, when the persons who had been appointed for the purpose, walked forward, and sealed and delivered the same, in the most solemn manner, in the presence of many witnesses, as their quit claim and deed for the land therein described, for the use of Pennsylvania for ever.

The council fire was raked up.

The foregoing is a true state of the proceedings of the Indian treaty held at Fort M'Intosh.

The execution of these deeds upon the part of the Indian nations, the great confederacy and the other tribes mentioned was a "consummation devoutly to be wished," as appears in a message from the President and the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly in the session of 1785, which was as follows:

"The minutes of these treaties, the deeds, and copies of our instructions, and several other papers relating to this business, will be delivered with this message.

"These conveyances compleating the sale of all the lands in this state, thus happily finishing the transactions of a century on that subject, having been obtained at public treaties, agreeably to ancient custom, with the approbation of the United States, the Indians acknowledging them selves 'kindly' and 'generously' dealt with, declaring that 'Pennsylvania has never deceived or wronged them, and thanked her, not only from their lips, but from their hearts.' We are perswaded that such a fair, equitable, and honorable confirmation of the public interest in so very large and valuable a tract of country, must be exceedingly agreeable to the good people of Pennsylvania.

"It is cause of addition satisfaction that in accomplishing this important object, a due regard has been had for the Foederal Councils, and that a friendly correspondence between the Continental Commissioners and our own, subsisted throughout the treaties.

"As we have every reason to believe that the affections of the Indians are now conciliated, their confidence gained, and their former friendship restored, in such a manner that their present dispositions may, by proper measures, be improved to great advantages, we hope your Honorable House will judge their requests worthy of immediate attention.

"We should not do justice to the merit of our Commissioners, if we neglected to express ourselves very sensible of the ability, diligence, frugality and fidelity, with which they have discharged the trust reposed in them.

John Dickinson."

The Triangle.

Neither the treaty made at Fort Stanwix in 1784, or that which followed at Fort McIntosh in January, 1785, covered the territory fronting on Lake Erie, bounded on the east by the State of New York and on the south by the northern boundary of Pennsylvania. It will be remembered that in the chartered rights granted to William Penn, the northern boundary of the State extended in a due westerly course from the Delaware river to Lake Erie, and that therefore, the territory in what is known as the triangle was not embraced in the grant. Therefore, after the purchase, as hereinbefore indicated, from the government of the United States of the triangle, it became necessary also, in order to keep peace with the Indian tribes, to acquire title from them. Accordingly, after much negotiating, a conference was held at Fort Harmar, on the Ohio river, at the mouth of Muskingum river, opposite the town of Marietta, in the state of Ohio, on the 9th day of January, 1789, where an agreement was had and a deed prepared and executed on the part of the different tribes or nations of Indians, by which there were conveyed to the State of Pennsylvania all the asserted claims of the Indians in and to this large triangular tract of land. A copy of this deed is published herewith:

Agreement Between the Six Nations and Commissioners for Lands on Lake Erie, &c., 1789.

Be it remembered by all whom it may concern:

That on the ninth day of January, in the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-nine, in open and public Council, We the undersigned Chiefs, Warriors, and others, Representing the following named Tribes of the Six Nations, to wit—The Ondwagas, or Senacas, Cayugas, Tuscaroras, Onandagas, and Oneidas; for and in behalf of ourselves, our tribes, our and their Heirs and successors, on the one part—and Richard Butler and John Gibson, Esquires, Commissioners for and in behalf of the State of Pennsylvania, (Onas) on the other part, did make and conclude upon the following articles, viz:

Article 1st.

That as soon as these Articles are signed, interchangably by the aforesaid Chiefs and Commissioners, the said Chiefs will execute a deed of Conveyance to the State of Pennsylvania for a tract of Country as hereafter shall be described.

Article 2nd.

The signing Chiefs do acknowledge the Right of the soil and jurisdiction to, in, and over that tract of Country bounded on the South by the North line of the State of Pennsylvania, on the East by the West boundary of the State of New York, agreeable to the cession of that State and the the State of Massachusetts to the United States, and on the North by the Margin of Lake Erie, including Presque Isle and all the Bays and harbours along the margin of said Lake Erie, from the West boundary of Pennsylvania to where the West boundary of the State of New York may cross or intersect the South margin of the said lake Erie. To be vested in the said State of Pennsylvania agreeable to an act of Congress dated the sixth day of June last, 1788.

Article 3rd.

The said Chiefs do agree that the said State of Pennsylvania shall and may at any time they may think proper, survey, dispose of and settle, all that part of the aforesaid Country lying and being West of a line running along the middle of the Conawago River from its confluence with the Allegany River into the Chadochque Lake, thence along the middle of the said lake to the North end of the same, thence a meridian line from the North end of the said lake to the margin or shore of Lake Erie.

Article 4th.

The said Chiefs do agree that the Navigation or Water communication of the said Conowago River and the Chadochque lake shall be free to the citizens of the State of Pennsylvania in common with themselves, but that neither party shall build or erect Dams over or across the Conowago River so as to obstruct the passage of Boats or Canoes up and down the same to the Allegheny River.

Article 5th.

That as several Villages belonging to the signing Chiefs and their people are now living on the said Conowago creek and in other parts of the country supposed to be within the tract of country West of the West line of the State of New York and East of the line through the Waters as described in the third Article—And as they have no country to remove to from where they now live, the said chiefs do reserve for their own and their people's residence, hunting and fishing, all that part of the tract of Country described in the second Article, passing from the Allegany River along the middle of the Conowago Creek, the Chadochque Lake and a meridian line from the North end of said lake to Lake Erie.

Article 6th.

The said Chiefs do Engage for and in behalf of themselves and their tribes, to give protection to the citizens of the said State of Pennsylvania, and others who may come to trade or transact business under proper authority among them, and to live peaceably with all the Citizens of the United States.

Article 7th.

The said Richard Butler and John Gibson, Esquires, Commissioners for and in behalf of the State of Pennsylvania, do agree to the aforesaid articles in their true intent and meaning, and they do further engage on the faith of the State of Pennsylvania, that the aforesaid Chiefs and the people of their tribes, shall have full and peaceable liberty to hunt and fish within any part of the Country first above described, they demeaning themselves peaceably towards the inhabitants. But the said Chiefs or their successors, shall not at any time hereafter, directly or indirectly, lease, rent or make sale of any part or parcel of the tract here Reserved for their Use and Residence, to any other State, person or persons.

In testimony of the above Articles being duly, openly and fairly agreed and concluded upon, the Chiefs and Commissioners aforesaid have interchangably set their hands and affixed their seals the day and year first above written.

A map showing the purchase of 1784, as consummated at Fort Stanwix and Fort McIntosh, and also a map of the Triangle covered by the purchase at Fort Harmar on the 9th of January, 1789, are published herewith. (See Maps "B" and "C," herewith.)

The owners of real estate in the territory embraced in the descriptions as indicated by these purchases shown on the accompanying maps, rarely if ever pause to consider the contentions, the negotiations and the strategies which were employed in acquiring title from the Indian nations, and probably rarely have titles traced back to the Commonwealth or still farther back to the chartered rights of William Penn, and yet these chartered rights and these purchases of the Indians, reinforced by the conquests at arms constitute the fundamental rights upon which all titles in this part of Pennsylvania are based.

It is true, undoubtedly, that the titles are good and sufficient and will stand the test of time, but the amount paid the Indians for these lands, as indicated by the consideration named in their deeds, is entirely insignificant if judged by the value of property as it exists at this day, but in all affairs of life it seems proper that in the retrospective public acts, and individual acts, indeed, should be judged from the point of view existing at the time the transactions were made.

The Indians were, of course, without proper advisers. They may have been imposed upon, for from whatever point of view we may observe the transaction in these purchases, it is apparent that the $4,000 or $5,000 in value of articles of clothing, ammunition, firearms, etc., were at most an infinitesimally small consideration for the vast territory from which millions and tens of millions of dollars worth of timber have been taken and placed in the markets of the world. This statement is emphasized when there is also taken into consideration the apparently inexhaustible supply of bituminous coal which underlies so vast a portion of the territory so purchased, and also the hundreds of millions of dollars worth of oil and fuel gas which have been produced from this territory, and which have by no means up to this time been exhausted.

These limitless values compared with the insignificant amount paid for the territory seem at first to furnish justification for the assertions by many that the white man has not treated the Indian fairly. All these assertions reflecting upon our forefathers are not based upon proper premises, for as a general thing the Indians had no more right to the territory than the white man. He was in one locality at one time and then he removed to distant territory, leaving nothing to establish or assert his claim to any particular part of the territory. Occasionally there were evidences of agricultural development, but very little of a substantial and permanent character, and the different nations or tribes were almost constantly at war with each other, the victors driving the vanquished from one part of the country to another, and the victors in turn being driven by some other nation to other localities which they had acquired by conquest, so it is unreasonable to assume that there was any fixed, well defined title, either by right of occupancy or other means to any particular part of the territory which may have been purchased from the Indians in their conferences which were held at Fort Stanwix, McIntosh and Harmar.

Certainly if the Indians were ever treated fairly by any of those who came to build a new republic on American soil, they were treated most kindly by those who were concerned in establishing the colony of Pennsylvania and by those who managed the affairs of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania after it became one of the states of the American Union.

Cornplanter.

During all these negotiations with the Indians, the state of Pennsylvania and the government of the United States were greatly aided by a distinguished Seneca chief known in history as "the Cornplanter" and sometimes called "Captain Abeal." He and his people at times seem to have inhabited the territory, now eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania, extending as far south at least as the Ohio. He was a conspicuous figure in the negotiations at Fort Stanwix, and was of inestimable value to the Pennsylvania commissioners in consummating the treaty then and there effected. A glimpse of him through the full tide of civilization which now exists is justified for the reason that at an opportune time he was of priceless value in the consummation of plans which have resulted in great things for Pennsylvania.

Some knowledge may be had of this distinguished Indian from the correspondence held in relation to his visit to Philadelphia in 1790, six years subsequent to the treaty at Fort Stanwix in 1784.

General Richard Butler, in 1789, wrote concerning him as follows:

"I beg leave to mention to your Excellency & Council that Capt'n Abeal, alias the Cornplanter, one of the principal Chiefs of the Seneca Tribe of the Six Nations, has been very useful in all the Treaties since 1784 inclusive, & particularly to the State of Penns'a, this he has demonstrated very fully, & his attachment at present to the State appears very great. This has induced me to suggest to your Excellency and Council whether it may not be good Policy in the state to fix this attachment by making it his interest to continue it. This from the Ideas he possesses of Civilization induces me to think if the state would be pleased to grant him a small tract of land within the late purchase, it would be very grateful to him, & have that Effect. This may be done in a manner that would render him service without lessening his influence with his own people or Exposing him to jealousy. The quantity need not be large, perhaps one thousand or fifteen hundred acres. How far your Excellency & Council may concur in this opinion will rest with your Excellency & them. My wishes for the quiet & interest of the state as well as the merits of the man, has induced me to take the liberty to mention this matter and hope the notice will be my appology.

I have the honor to be,

with the greatest respect,

Sir, your Excellency's most

obed. & very Hu'est.,

Rich'd Butler."

"Philad'a, 23d March, 1789.

"Directed,

Notwithstanding the invaluable services which were rendered the people of the state by Cornplanter, he seems to have been victimized by the lawless white portion of the people who visited the western frontier. The treatment which he and his people received is disclosed in the letters which he himself addressed to the Supreme Executive Council and in the correspondence of the other officials and citizens, which are a matter of record among the proceedings of the Supreme Executive Council of Pennsylvania.

Just at the time when the constitution was going into effect and after Washington had been inaugurated President of the United States, Cornplanter, with five other Indian chiefs, visited Philadelphia on the invitation of the Supreme Executive Council of Pennsylvania, to lay before that organization an account of the hardships and the sufferings which he and his people endured on account of the aggressions, the trespassing and the unlawful and murderous assaults of the white people.

On the 23rd day of October, 1790, Cornplanter and his companions were introduced to Thomas Mifflin and the members of the Supreme Executive Council. Thomas Mifflin had been designated as Governor under the new constitution, but was still acting in the capacity of President of the Supreme Executive Council.

The manner of the introduction of these wild children of the forest, under the full blaze of modern civilization as it existed at that time in Philadelphia, is worthy of note. In the proceedings of the Supreme Executive Council a minute is recorded of this introduction of Cornplanter and his chiefs, as follows:

"Cornplanter and five other Indian Chiefs were introduced to Council, the President informed them the Supreme Executive Council of Pennsylvania was happy to see them, and ready to hear what they have to say.

"Cornplanter:—Brothers, we were very happy when we received the answer to our letter sent to the Quaker State; we are very happy to see you. We could not come at the time appointed, it was two soon afterwards, when we were coming we heard of the murder of two of our people, I was obliged to satisfy my people. After I had satisfied my people, I received a message from the Shawnese and other nations that I should not come till we had a Council with them. When the fire was kindled with the Shawnese they brought a Virginia scalp and insisting on our seizing the scalp, or they would treat us the same as the Big Knife; we told them the Council was for peace not for war, I sent all the tribes to be at peace with the thirteen fires.

"Brothers:—I am much fatigued, I want to get a friend to write my speech, as no interpreter can do it as well as if it was wrote. I will be ready on Tuesday morning.

"President:—The Council have given orders to the Secretary to supply you with what is immediately necessary."

A study of the style of oratory of Cornplanter's address, both in his written documents and his apparently oral deliverances, is of interest. It is peculiar, of course, to the style which characterizes all the Indian expressions and attempts at oratory. In these addresses delivered at Philadelphia there is lack of diction, lack of culture, and there is an absence of all that contributes to the making of chaste sentences and polished expressions, yet the frequency with which he addresses the "Quaker Fathers," and the references to the "Thirteen Fires" makes his style not unlike that which characterized Cicero in his addresses to the "Conscript Fathers."

By his reference to the "Thirteen Fires" he of course refers to the thirteen states which had just been formed into a compact under the constitution, after the close of the Revolutionary War. There is an aptness in such reference to the thirteen original states. From an Indian's point of view, a fire meant a tribe or an Indian nation, and he so designated the colonies as being thirteen different tribes or nations united as one, and called the same the "Thirteen Fires."

Cornplanters Address

In the opinion of the assembled Quaker State fathers and citizens of Philadelphia there was delivered an address by Cornplanter which will always be of interest and it is here inserted.

"The Fathers of the Quaker State, Obeale or Cornplanter, returns thanks to God for the pleasure he has in meeting you this day with six of his people.

Fathers:—Six years ago I had the pleasure of making peace with you, and at that time a hole was dug in the earth, and all contentions between my nation and you ceased and were buried there.

At a treaty then held at Fort Stanwix between the six nations of Indians and the Thirteen Fires, three friends from the Quaker State came to me and treated with me for the purchase of a large tract of land upon the Northern boundary of Pennsylvania, extending from Tioga to Lake Erie for the use of their warriors. I agreed to the sale of the same, and sold it to them for four thousand dollars. I begged of them to take pity on my nation and not buy it forever, they said they would purchase it forever, but that they would give me further one thousand dollars in goods when the leaves were ready to fall, and when I found that they were determined to have it, I agreed that they should have it. I then requested, as they were determined to have the land to permit my people to have the game and hunt upon the same, which request they complied with, and promised me to have it put upon record, that I and my people should have that privilege.

Fathers:—The six nations then requested that another talk might be held with the Thirteen Fires, which was agreed to, and a talk was afterwards held between them at Muskingum. Myself with three of my chiefs attended punctually, and were much fatigued in endeavoring to procure the attendance of the other nations, but none of them came to the Council Fire except the Delawares and the Wyandots.

Fathers:—At the same treaty the Thirteen Fires asked me on which side I would die, whether on their side, or the side of those nations who did not attend the Council Fire. I replied, listen to me fathers of the Thirteen Fires, I hope you will consider how kind your fathers were treated by our fathers, the six nations, when they first came into this country, since which time you have become strong, insomuch, that I now call you fathers.

“In former days when you were young and weak I used to call you brother, but now I call you Father. Father, I hope you will take pity on your children, for now I inform you that I’ll die on your side. Now father I hope you will make my bed strong.

Fathers of the Quaker State:—I speak but little now, but will speak more when the Thirteen Fires meet, I will only inform you further, that when I had finished my talk with the Thirteen Fires, General Gibson, who was sent by the Quaker State, came to the fire, and said that the Quaker State had bought of the Thirteen Fires a tract of land extending from the Northern boundary of Pennsylvania at Connewango river to Buffalo creek on Lake Erie, and thence along the said Lake to the Northern boundary of Pennsylvania afore-said. Hearing this I run to my father, and said to him father have you sold this land to the Quaker State, and he said he did not know, it might have been done since he came there. I then disputed with Gibson and Butler, who was with him about the same, and told them I would be satisfied if the line was run from Conewango river thro’ Chatochque Lake to Lake Erie, for Gibson and Butler had told me that the Quaker State had purchased the land from the Thirteen Fires, but that notwithstanding the Quaker State had given to me one thousand dollars in fine prime goods which were ready for me and my people at Fort Pitt, we then agreed that the line should be run from Conewango river thro’ Chatochque Lake into Lake Erie, and that one-half of the fish in Chatochque Lake should be mine and one-half theirs. They then said as the Quaker State had purchased the whole from the Thirteen Fires, that the Thirteen Fires must pay back to the Quaker State the value of the remaining land. When I heard this my mind was at ease, and I was satisfied. I then proposed to give a half mile square of land upon the line so agreed upon to a Mr. Hartzhorn who was an Ensign in Generals Harmar’s army out to a Mr. Britt a cadet who acted as a clerk upon the occasion, and who I well know by the name of Half-Town, for the purpose of their settling there to prevent any mischief being committed in future upon my people's lands, and I hoped that the Quaker State would in addition thereto give them another half mile square on their side of the line so agreed upon for the same purpose, expecting thereby that the line so agreed upon would be known with sufficient certainty, and that no disputes would thereafter arise between my people and the Quaker State concerning it. I then went to my father of the Thirteen Fires and told him I was satisfied, and the coals being covered up I said to my children you must take your course right thro' the woods to Fort Pitt. When I was leaving Muskingum my own son who remained a little while behind to warm himself at the fire was robbed of a rifle by one of the white men, who I believe, to have been a Yankee. Myself with Mr. Joseph Nicholson and a Mr. Morgan then travelled three days together thro' the wilderness, but the weather being very severe they were obliged to separate from me, and I sent some of my own people along with Mr. Nicholson and Mr. Morgan as guides to conduct them on to Wheelen. After I had separated from Mr. Nicholson and Mr. Morgan, I had under my charge one hundred and seventy persons of my own nation consisting of men, women and children to conduct thro' the wilderness through heaps of briars, and having lost our way, we, with great difficulty reached Wheelen. When arrived there being out of provisions I requested of a Mr. Zanes to furnish me and my people with beacon and flour to the amount of seventeen dollars, to be paid for out of the goods belonging to me and my people at Fort Pitte. Having obtained my request, I proceeded on my journey for Pittsburg, and about ten miles from Wheelen my party were fired upon by three white people, and one of my people in the rear of my party received two shot thro' his blanket.

"Fathers:—It was a constant practice with me throughout the whole journey to take great care of my people, and not suffer them to commit any outrage or drink more than what their nessities required. During the whole of my journey only one accident happened, which was owing to the kindness of the people of the town called Catfish, in the Quaker State, who, while I was talking with the head men of the town, gave to my People more liquor than was proper, and some of them got drunk, which obliged me to continue there with my People all night, and in the night my People were robbed of three rifles and one shot gun; and though every endeavour was used by the head men of the town upon complaint made to them to discover the perpetrators of the robbery, they could not be found; and on my People's complaining to me I told them it was their own faults by getting drunk.

"Fathers:—Upon my arrival at Fort Pitt I saw the goods which I had been informed of at Muskingum, and one hundred of the blankets were all moth eaten and good fornottg, I was advised not to take the blankets, but the blankets which I and my People then had being all torn by the briars in our passage thro' the wilderness, we were under the necessity of taking them to keep ourselves warm; and what most surprised me, was that after I had received the goods they extinguished the fire and swept away the ashes, and having no interpreter there I would talk with no one upon the subject. Feeling myself much hurt upon the occasion, I wrote a letter to you Fathers of the Quaker State, complaining of the injury, but never received any answer. Having waited a considerable time, and having heard that my letter got lost, I wrote a second time to you Fathers of the Quaker State and then I received an answer.

"I am very thankfull to have received this answer, and as the answer entreated me to come and speak for myself, I thank God that I have this opportunity, I therefore, speak to you as fellows. I hope that you, Fathers of the Quaker State, will fix some person at Fort Pitt to take care of me and my People. I wish, and it is the wish of my People if agreeable to you that my present interpreter Joseph Nicholson, may be the person, as I and my People have a confidence in him, and are satisfied that he will always exert himself to preserve peace and harmony between you and us. My reasons for wishing an interpreter to be placed there, are that often times when my hunters and People come there, their canoes and other things are stolen, and they can obtain no redress, not having any person there on whom they can rely to interpret for them and see justice done to them.

"Fathers of the Quaker State:—About a year ago a young man, one of my Tribe, who lived among the Shawanese, was one of a party who had committed some outrages and stolen a quantity of skins the property of David Duncan, being at Fort Pitt, was seized by the White People there who would have put him into confinement and perhaps to death had not some of the Chiefs of the Seneca Nation, interfered and bound themselves to the said David Duncan, who insisted upon satisfaction, for payment of the sum of five hundred and thirty dollars for the said skins so stolen, upon which the young man aforesaid was released and delivered up to them.

"Fathers of the Quaker State:—I wish now to acquaint you with what happened to one of my people about four years ago, four miles above Fort Pitt; A young man who was married to my wife's sister, when he was hunting, was murdered by a white man. There were three reasons for his being killed. In the first place he had a very fine riding horse; secondly, he was very richly drest, and had about him a good deal of silver; and thirdly, he had with him a very fine rifle. The white man invited him to his house, to light from his horse, and as he was getting off his horse, his head being rather down, the white man struck him with a tomahawk on the head and killed him, and having plundered him, dragged him into the river. Upon the discovery of the murder, my people, with Mr. Nicholson and Mr. Duncan, had a great deal of trouble, and took a great deal of pains to find out the person who had committed the murder, and after three days' searching, they discovered him.

"Fathers of the Quaker State:—About five years ago, one of my Chiefs, named Half Town, was sent to Fort Pitt to deliver up into your hands your own flesh and blood who were taken in the war, and before he returned two horses were stolen from him by the white people. Now, Fathers, I will inform you of another accident which happened to my people last winter, fifteen miles below Fort Pitt. My nephew, with a hunting party, being there, was shot thro' the head in Mr. Nicholson's camp, the particulars of which Mr. Nicholson, who is here present can inform you of.

"Well, Fathers, I beg of you once more not to let such bad people be 'longside of me. And, Fathers, you must not think I or any of my people are bad or wish evil to you or yours, nor must you blame us for mischiefs that have been committed by the other nations. Fathers, consider me and my people, and the many injuries we have sustained by the repeated robberies, and in the murders & depredations committed by the whites against us.

"It is my wish and the wishes of my people to live peaceably and quietly with you and yours, but the losses we have sustained require some compensation. I have, with the consent of my people, agreed to receive from you eight hundred and thirty dollars, as a satisfaction for all losses and injuries I and my people have sustained, and this being paid me by you, to enable me to satisfy such of my people as have sustained those losses and suffered those injuries, we shall, I hope, in future, live peaceable together, and bury in the earth all ill will and enmity to each other.

"Fathers of the Quaker State:—I have now had the pleasure to meet you with six of my people. We have come a great way, by your desire, to talk with you and to shew to you the many injuries my nation has sustained: It now remains with you to do with me and my people what you please, on account of the present trouble which I and my people have taken for your satisfaction, and in compliance with your request.

"Fathers, having come this great way at your request, and as it is necessary for some of us to remain here to talk with the Thirteen Fires when they meet, I have concluded to send back four of my people, and to remain here myself with Half Town and my interpreter, Mr. Nicholson, until that time, which I hope you will approve of. But should you not approve of it, I must be under the necessity of returning with the whole of my people, which will be attended with a considerable expence.

“Fathers of the Quaker State:—You have now got the most of our lands, and have taken the game upon the same. We have only the privilege of hunting and fishing thereon. I, therefore, would make this further request, that a store may be established at Fort Pitt for the accommodation of my people and other nations when they go out to hunt; and where they may purchase goods at a reasonable price. For, believe me, Fathers, you yourselves would be frightened were you to know the extravagant prices we are obliged to pay for the goods we purchase.

There is a man (Esquire Wilkie,) in Pittsburg, who has taken a great deal of pains to serve my people, and has pitied them; my people, when there, are very kindly treated by him, and give him a great deal of trouble, but he thinks nothing of it; he is the man my people wish should have the charge of the store.

Fathers of the Quaker State:—I have heard that you have been pleased to present to me a tract of land, but as yet I have seen no writings for the same; well, Fathers, if it is true that you have given me this tract of land, I can only thank you for the same, but I hope you will also give me tools and materials for working the same.

“Fathers of the Quaker State:—Five years ago, when I used to be with my present interpreter Joseph Nicholson, he took care of me and my people. Considering his services and the difficulties he underwent in his journey from Muskingum to Fort Pitt, the Six Nations wished to have him seated upon a tract of land of six miles square, lying in the Forks of Allegany river, and Broken Straw creek, and accordingly patented the same to him, this being the place where a battle was fought between my people and yours, and where about thirty of my people were beaten by him and twenty-five of your people, and where he was shot thro' the thigh. Now, Fathers, it is my wish, and I tell you it is the wish of the whole six nations, in behalf of whom and myself, I request that you would grant and conform to our brother and friend, and before named Joseph Nicholson, the aforesaid tract of land, as described in our patent or grant to him.

This, Fathers, is all I have to say to the Quaker State, and I hope you will consider well all I have mentioned.

Referring to the above address or communication, which was submitted to the Supreme Executive Council October 29, 1790, we find Cornplanter commencing by thanking Almighty God for the privilege he has of meeting with his Quaker Fathers. There is a vein of pathos in his reference to the proceedings at Fort Stanwix six years before, when he and his fellow chiefs conveyed the vast territory covered by that purchase for the sum of $4,000, and when he referred to the fact that he begged of his white brethren that the land be not sold to the white people forever, indicating an idea that some time it should revert to the confederacy of Indian nations which he represented. The perpetual ownership was demanded and the Indians yielded for, as he said, the white people would have the land and he consented to the sale. There was a stipulation in the agreement, as he asserts, that the right to hunt upon the territory purchased should be reserved to the Indians, but in the deed which was given no reference is made to this right.

Cornplanter refers also to his great efforts in securing the deed from the Wyandottes and the Delawares, which was consummated at Fort McIntosh in January, 1785. He refers to his loyalty to the white people at this second conference when he was asked by the white Commissioner, "On which side will you die?" and he says that he responded that he would die for the "Thirteen Fires."

The burden of his speech at Philadelphia was the worthlessness of the blankets and other articles of clothing which had been furnished in pursuance of his negotiations with the white people. Probably the great source of complaint would have been taken away had no irresponsible parties practiced deception and ill treated the Indians by furnishing them at extravagantly high prices very poor qualities of goods. These were generally individual acts and they were certainly not in accordance with the well wishes of those who controlled the government which had its inception in the fraternal disposition and practices of William Penn.

The wounding of members of his own family, the stealing of their arms and canoes, the giving to his people of intoxicants, are all matters of complaint in the tale of woe which Cornplanter gave to the Quaker Fathers in his address at Philadelphia.

It seems that he had a desire to see the Great Chieftian of the "Thirteen Fires," General George Washington, then just serving his first year as President of the United States, for he made a special request of the President and members of the Supreme Executive Council that he might remain in the city until the arrival of the President.

Another request that he made was the desirability of having assigned to the uses of the Indians the territory at the mouth of the Brokenstraw. Few more lovely places are found in Pennsylvania than those surrounding the confluence of the Allegheny and Brokenstraw. The descendants of Cornplanter nearly all the years since he appeared in Philadelphia have encamped upon the banks of the Allegheny, which was called the "River Beautiful," and these encampments have usually been at or adjacent to the place at the confluence of these two rivers to which reference is made in Cornplanter's address at Philadelphia. He refers to a battle which was fought there at which some of his people were slain, and he probably had in his mind a desire to keep sacred the locality whereupon his people and the whites were engaged in battle.

The land which was finally given to Cornplanter was along the Allegheny river, and that upon which his descendants now live is near the New York state line on the west side of the river.

The state has attempted to establish schools among Cornplanter's tribes, and so far as might be practicable to teach them the useful arts and acquaint them with all the benefits of civilization. The lands seem now to be owned in common or largely so although by act of the Legislature power was given the courts by which it was possible to have these lands so divided that they might be owned in severalty.

It is nearly one hundred and fifteen years since Cornplanter made his famous appearance and delivered his unique address to the Quaker Fathers at Philadelphia, but as an echo of that day moving down across the space of time comes a letter from one of his alleged descendants, addressed to the new United States Senator from Pennsylvania Hon. Philander C. Knox, and by him referred to this Department for reply. It is a communication from one Jacobs, still to some extent complaining of the treatment of some of the white people and imploring the state's aid to protect them in the exercise of their rights to the full extent that is enjoyed by the white people.

While this letter does not pertain to the acquisition of title to the territory in northwestern Pennsylvania, it is submitted with this article solely upon the grounds of the similarity of its phraseology and expression to those in the address of Jacobs' ancient ancestor, Cornplanter, delivered before the Quaker Fathers at Philadelphia.

The land which was given to Cornplanter, and upon which his heirs or descendents reside, in Warren county, was conveyed to him by virtue of an act of the General Assembly approved the first day of February, 1791.

"Sect. V. Be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the Governor be authorized and empowered, and he is hereby authorized and empowered, to direct the following tracts of land, free of all expences, viz: Six hundred acres on the west bank of Allegheny river, about three miles below the northern boundary of this state, including Jenuch Shadega town, and two islands nearly opposite said town; six hundred acres on the Allegheny river, including a Delaware town, by the Senacas called Conenugayya; and three hundred acres on Oil Creek, including an oil spring, near the Allegheny river; to be surveyed and patented to Corn-Planter, his heirs and assigns, forever, in virtue of a resolution of the General Assembly, bearing date the twenty-fourth day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-nine; which said tracts, amounting to fifteen hundred acres, are hereby directed to be granted in lieu of, and in full compensation for, fifteen hundred acres of land directed by the said resolution to be set apart, surveyed and granted to the said Corn-Planter, his heirs and assigns, forever.

William Bingham, Speaker of the House of Representatives.
Richard Peters, Speaker of the Senate.

Approved, February the first, 1791.

Thomas Mifflin, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

A copy of the survey of the tract of land conveyed to Cornplanter under this act is submitted herewith. (See map marked "D.")

The influence of Cornplanter is also discovered and accentuated in the fact that upon a boulder in the court house grounds in the city of Canandaigua, New York, is a tablet upon which is commemorated the last treaty which was made with the Indians of the Six Nations at that place, whereon the names of the Indian Chiefs who appeared as participants in that treaty are engraved and among them is the name of Cornplanter, the same Indian Chief who took so conspicuous a part in the treaties made for the acquisition of lands within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Limitless Value of the Territory of Northwestern Pennsylvania.

Having thus referred to the acquisition of title to the lands in northwestern Pennsylvania, especially those embraced within the limits of Erie and Crawford counties, it would be interesting to get a view of the territory thus acquired, as it appeared at the time, but it is to be regretted that the material for such a vision is somewhat limited. Probably as correct an idea as may be had of how highly the territory was prized is obtained from the fact that after the close of the Revolutionary War the officers and soldiers of the Pennsylvania line were given lands in this territory in recognition of their loyal services to the new republic in the war for American Independence. In all probability the people of the State of Pennsylvania and of the nation in general possessed the most profound veneration and gratitude for the men who had established a new government on American soil, and no doubt it was their desire to do something which would convince the surviving veterans of that war of the high estimation in which they were held by the people of the new country. There was much mountain territory in Pennsylvania of but little value, and the State could have surveyed these mountain lands out to the surviving soldiers of the Revolution and to their heirs, but a desire to give the soldiers something of value led in pursuance and by Virtue of an Act of the General Assembly of the 29th January 1791 entitled, An Act for granting Eight Hundred Dollars to Cornplanter Half Town and Big Tree Seneca Chiefs, in Trust for the Seneca Nation, and for purposes Herein mentioned and directions from the Governor and Surveyor General, I have Surveyed July 12, 1795 to Cornplanter the above described Tract of Land situated on the West side of the Allegheny River and about three miles below the Northern boundary of this State, including an Indian Town Called Juncashadago, Containing six Hundred & Sixty acres & 45 perches & allowance of six Per Cent for Roads &c.

the Legislature to appropriate large tracts of land in the north-western section of the State, to be surveyed and allotted to the patriotic soldiers through whose services, sacrifices and heroism British arms had been conquered and American Independence established.

Laws having been passed appropriating these lands and providing also for their surveys to these veterans, deputy surveyors were selected to survey the tracts and were sent into that then wild country for that purpose. A man who had rendered distinguished services during the war for independence and who had attained the rank of a general, was given some power to supervise, or at least to keep a watch over the operations of these surveyors, to the end that their duties might be intelligently discharged, and that lands might be selected for the veterans of the war which were susceptible of cultivation and were of value as agricultural lands. The man selected by the proper authorities was General William Irvine. He was a native of Ireland and at the time of selection was residing at Carlisle in Cumberland county. His visit to the locality of the Donation lands gives us a little glimpse of the territory as it appeared to him at that early day.

Leaving Fort Pitt, General Irvine proceeded over the old path that led from Fort Pitt to Venango, Leboeuf and Presque Isle. Some of the land he found fertile, especially that along the Allegheny river and French creek. Other portions of the territory he characterized as poor and practically valueless for agricultural purposes, but all of it, according to the report, was supplied with beautiful streams and great numbers of copious springs. The lands which he appears to have found of greatest value and of highest fertility were those along French Creek, in the vicinity of Fort Leboeuf.

In some portions of the territory he found a vast extent of country covered with fallen chestnut timber of prodigious size. He speaks of the lofty oak, of the vast forests of pine. He found extensive ridges of beech, maple and other hard woods, and apparently a limitless amount of hickory.

Having arrived at the confluence of the Allegheny river and French creek, he speaks of the splendor of the surrounding country and the beauty of the scenery which met his eyes in every direction. He was then in the locality where the French had built a fort, and near which subsequently stood Fort Venango and Fort Franklin and in this locality also were the graves of many soldiers and many Indians who had either died here, or lost their lives in the contentions for their asserted rights either as aborigines or as representing the claims of those who were on the crest of advancing civilization. Here also Washington arrived on the fourth day of December, 1753, on his famous mission to meet the French commandant at Fort Leboeuf. It was at the confluence of these two rivers that the French, in their efforts to assert their claims, sunk in the bed of the Allegheny a metal plate upon which was inscribed their declaration of rights, this location being where now stands the beautiful little city of Franklin.

Further up the Allegheny he describes the appearance of Oil creek with the peculiar substances which he then found floating upon the water as they were borne on the currents of this creek down to the broader waters of the Allegheny. Up to that, Oil creek, according to his statement had never appeared upon any of the maps which had been made of that portion of the territory of Pennsylvania. He describes it as being a stream about one hundred yards wide at its mouth and retaining its width up to its first fork (which is now the location of the city of Titusville), twenty miles, as he claims, from its confluence with the Allegheny. He describes it as being sufficiently navigable for large boats, even to the extent of the navigable possibilities of French creek.

Realizing the great oil development in Pennsylvania, which began on Oil creek in the early sixties, there is remarkable interest in his description of this stream as he found it during his investigations in 1785. At that early day he found oil floating upon the surface of its waters. He was of the opinion that the substances which he saw on the surface impregnated the whole body of the water, but on a close examination he ascertained that the peculiar purple substance was only found on top of the water, and further investigations made by him, according to his statement, disclosed two places in the bottom of the stream from which this oily substance oozed, rising quickly to the surface of the water and spreading over practically the whole width of the stream. Even at this early day not only the Indians, but the white people were accustomed to use this substance for medicine, believing that it had medical properties such as to cure many of the thousand natural ills that flesh is heir to.

Leaving this interesting point, which is now the location of the thriving municipality of Oil City, he proceeded further up the Allegheny and describes the beauty of the islands which he found as gems in the river, and the lofty hills or mountains on either side of the picturesque and beautiful stream. At some point of the river, he describes a locality where there is an Indian burying ground and in which tradition asserted that some ancient, powerful chieftian had been buried hundreds of years prior to his visitation in this locality.

Reaching the mouth of Brokenstraw creek, earlier called Bockaloons, he refers to the extensive and fertile bottom lands there found and to a hill called by the Indians "Paint Hill," from which red oher was obtained and generally used by the Indians. Here he found on the hillsides and in the valleys great forests of pine, which stood until about two or three decades ago, as fine and as beautiful a primeval forest of pine as could be found anywhere on the American continent.

Proceeding further up the "River Beautiful" he arrived at the mouth of the Conewango where he found a tract of land of rare beauty and fertility from which a magnificent view was had of the waters up and down the Allegheny and up the Conewango, which is the outlet of the far famed Chautauqua Lake, then designated by him in his description as "Jadaque Lake."

Here he seems to have paused in his northward movements exploring the Conewango only a short distance above its confluence with the Allegheny, depending upon one of his guides, a Senaca Chief, for the descriptions which he gives of the Conewango and the Allegheny above their confluence.

From the Conewango he retraced his steps down the Allegheny, according to his statement, for about 23 or 24 miles, which brought him into the vicinity of either the present town of Tidioute, or Hickory, from which place he journeyed in a northwesterly direction striking Oil creek again at its first fork up from the Allegheny, thus arriving in the territory on which Titusville now stands. Here he mentions the existence of great forests of pine of sufficient height to be used for making masts. Proceeding up the west branch of this creek, which he describes as being beautiful, some fifteen miles, he seems to have taken a more westerly direction and ascended the ridges to the westward of the west branch of Oil creek. He speaks of the copiousness and number of the springs which are found along this ridge and seems to have been of the opinion that the waters flowing westwardly from these springs were discharged into Sugar creek, which flows into French creek only a short distance above the site of the present city of Franklin. In this he was probably mistaken, as in his subsequent narrative he describes these waters as being the most easterly branch of French creek, which is not the case with the stream called Sugar creek, and as his purpose seems to have been the visitation of territory whereon the Donation lands were located, it is more reasonable to assume that the water drainage to which he referred was that of the most easterly branch of French creek which rises to the south of the city of Corry, flowing north, then west and into the main branch of French creek in the township of Leboeuf, near Fort Leboeuf, and on the waters of which a great portion of the Donation lands are located.

From Fort Leboeuf and Venango General Irvine seems to have examined other lands to the west of the Allegheny river which were also appropriated for the benefit of the soldiers of the Revolutionary War and their heirs and legal representatives.

So interesting a history of the then undeveloped territory to the north and west of the Allegheny and Conewango creek deserves a place in any history which may be written of that part of the State. Placing so high a value upon this descriptive report of General Irvine, we publish it herewith:

Gen'l. Wm. Irvine to Pres. Dickinson—Donation Lands, 1785.

To His Excell'y, John Dickinson, Esq.

Carlisle, August 17, 1785.

Sir,

You have herewith transmitted my description of the donation tract of country, together with a sketch. These will I hope prove satisfactory to your Excellency and the honorable the Council, and answer the public purposes for which they are designed.

I observed in a former Letter that few of the deputy surveyors, attended on my first going into the country, these agreed to postpone the Business till September. On my return to Fort Pitt after my tour, so late as July, I found three of the Gentlemen preparing to set out to survey. I did not consider it my duty to attend so small a number of them as it would be spending the public money and my own time to little purpose, besides the law gives me no other control over them than to report to the Surveyor General should they neglect or delay performing their duty. And I find sundry of them conceive they have not only a right, but are in some measure obliged to survey the land, good or bad as each of them are instructed to survey a certain number of lots, for instance 260 of different descriptions and sizes without any regard to water, bottom, upland or any of the usual modes observed in laying of land. "Several of the districts has not 20 lot of good land in them, yet the deputies are each instructed to survey upwards of 260, when others contain, perhaps double the quantity directed."

Unless the Surveyor General alters his instructions materially, or Council, or the Assembly, take order in the premises, the whole end designed will be defeated as no man of common understanding will accept of pay for surveying such land.

I am of opinion there is more than sufficient of good land on the Tract appropriated to answer the purpose, provided the Western Boundary Line of the State strikes the west Branch of Beaver Creek as high as is generally supposed. Mr. McLane is of opinion it will cross, at least, sixteen miles higher than where his line does. In this case I propose this alteration for the consideration of Council, that the deputies be instructed to begin at the west line of the state and survey all the land on the several branches of Beaver within the tract, before any other is laid off, if this should not prove sufficient, then proceed to the forks and upper branches of Tunck and Oil Creeks for the remainder. This mode will, I conceive, be better for the troops as their settlement, or vicinity to others, will be more compact, consequently the land more valuable and it will certainly be more advantageous to the state, as whatever lands of value may be along the River and upper end of the Tract will be reserved unculled, to dispose of as may be judged most expedient; and notwithstanding the spots of good Land are detached; yet some of them are of such excellent quality, and so well situated on account of Water Carriage, easy communication with Lake Erie, and so well calculated for stock farms, that the state may be much benefitted by reserving them for future disposal.

This mode will occasion an alteration, perhaps with respect to the number of deputies as fewer than the present number appointed would execute this mode best, and four or five would doubtless perform the Business, provided they are allowed to employ assistants; these four or five might have constant communication with each other, and act as it were superintendents over the assistants, by which they could determine when the number of Lots of each class required is done. I know it may be urged in opposition to this, that sundry of these Gentlemen have already gone to considerable expence in equipping themselves for the business and that it will be hard to dismiss them under these circumstances. To this I answer that the private advantage of two or three men ought not to be put in competition with that of as many thousands, particularly where the interest of the state at large is concerned also. I farther answer that these men may be employed by the principals and I will venture to assert, that some of them are scarce fit even for this subordinate station, as perhaps the first chain or compass they ever saw was purchased for this occasion. The number, however, that I have proposed may be found among the Gentlemen who understand both Theory & Practice extremely well and are men of approved integrity, and I believe the state will find their account in this or some such mode, if they even pay the trifling expence these Gentlemen have been at.

I have the honor to be,
with the greatest Respect,
Sir, Your Excellency's most
obedient humble servant,

Wm. Irvine.

Notes taken and observations made (by) the Agents appointed to explore the tract of country presented by the state to the late troops of the Pennsylvania Line, of the American Army.

In exploring the donation land, I begun on the Line run by Mr. McLane between that and the tract appropriated for redeeming depreciation certificates which he ascertained by a due North Line to be near thirty miles from Fort Pitt, and by the Common computation along the path leading from Fort Pitt to Venango on the mouth of French Creek, which some affirm was actually measured by the French when they possessed that country. I found it forty miles; East of this path along Mr. McLanes Line for five or six miles, the land is pretty level, well watered with small springs, and of tolerable quality, but from thence to the Allegheny River which is about Twenty-five miles due East, there is no land worth mentioning fit for cultivation; as far as French Creek all between the Venango Path and the Allegheny there is very little land fit for cultivation, as it is a continued chain of high barren mountains except small breaches for Creeks and Rivulets to disemboque themselves into the River. These have very small bottoms.

As I proceeded along the path leading to French Creek about five miles to a Branch of Beaver or rather in this place called Canaghquese I found the land of a mixed quality, some very strong and broken with large quantities of fallen Chestnut interspersed with strips covered with Hickory, lofty oak, and for under Wood or Brush, Dogwood, Hazel, &c.; along the Creek very fine rich and extensive bottoms in general fit for meadows; from hence to another branch of said Creek called Flat Rock Creek, about ten miles distant, the land is generally thin, stony and broken, loaded, however, with Chestnut Timber, the greatest part of which lies flat on the earth, which renders it difficult travelling—at the usual crossing place on the last named Creek, there is a beautiful fall over a Rock ten or twelve feet high, at the fording immediately above the fall, the bottom is one entire Rock, except some small perforations which is capacious enough to receive a horses foot and leg—it is here about forty yards wide and runs extremely rapid. From flat Rock to Sandy Creek by Hutchins & Scull called, Lycomie, is about Twenty-four miles; on the first twelve there are a considerable quantity of tolerable level lands tho' much broken with large stony flats, on which grows heavy burthens of Oak, Beech and Maple, particularly seven or eight miles from the Creek there is a plain or savannah three or four miles long, and at least two wide, without anything to obstruct the prespect, except here and there a small grove of lofty Oaks or Sugar Tree, on the skirts the ground rises gradually to a moderate height from which many fine springs descend, which water this fine Tract abundantly—along these Rivulets small but fine spots of meadow may be made, from hence the remaining twelve miles to Sandy Creek is a ridge or mountain, which divides the waters of the Allegheny, the Beaver and Ohio, and is from East to West at least three times as long as it is Broad—on the whole of this there is little fit for cultivation, yet some of it is well calculated for raising stock. But a person must be possessed of very large Tracts to enable him to do even this to purpose.

From Sandy to French Creek is about seven or eight miles from the mouth, but it soon Forks into many small runs, and is but a few miles from the mouth to the source—there are two or three small bottoms only on this Creek—to French Creek is one entire hill, no part of which is by any means fit for cultivation.

On the lower side, at the mouth of French Creek, where the Fort called Venango formerly stood, there is three or four hundred acres of what is commonly called upland or dry bottom, very good land. On the North East side, about one mile from the mouth, another good bottom begins of four or five hundred acres, and on the summits of the hills on the same side, tho' high, there is a few hundred acres of land fit for cultivation—this is all in this neighborhood nearer than the first fork of the Creek; which is about eight miles distant. On the Road leading from French to Oil Creek within about three miles and a half of Venango, there is a Bottom of fine land on the Bank of the Allegheny, containing four or five hundred acres, there is little beside to Oil Creek fit for cultivation.

French Creek is one hundred and fifty yards wide.

From French to Oil Creek is about eight miles—this is not laid down in any map, notwithstanding it is a large stream not less than eighty, or perhaps a hundred yards wide at the mouth, a considerable depth, both of which it retains to the first fork, which is at least twenty miles up, and I am certain is as capable of rafting timber or navigating large boats on as French Creek in the same seasons this high. On the North East or upper side of this creek, at the mouth, is four or five hundred acres of good bottom, and about a mile up there is another small bottom on the South West side, which is all the good land to the first fork.

Oil Creek has taken its name from an oil or bituminous matter being found floating on the surface. Many cures are attributed to this oil by the natives, and lately by some whites, particularly Rheumatic pains and old Ulcers; it has hitherto been taken for granted that the water of the Creek was impregnated with it, as it was found in so many places, but I have found this to be an error, as I examined it carefully and found it issuing out of two places only—these two are about four hundred yards distant from (each) other, and on opposite sides of the Creek. It rises in the bed of the creek at very low water, in a dry season I am told it is found without any mixture of water, and is pure oil; it rises, when the creek is high, from the bottom in small globules, when these reach the surface they break and expand to a surprising extent, and the flake varies in color as it expands; at first it appears yellow and purple only, but as the rays of the sun reach it in more directions, the colors appear to multiply into a greater number than can at once be comprehended.

From Oil Creek to Cuskakushing, an old Indian Town, is about seventeen miles—the whole of this way is barren, high mountains, not fit for cultivation; the mountain presses so close on the River that it is almost impassible, and by no means impracticable when the River is high, then travellers either on foot or horseback are obliged to ascend the mountain and proceed along the summit.

At Cuskushing there is a narrow bottom about two miles long, good land, and a very fine Island fifty or sixty acres, where the Indians formerly planted corn. From Cuskushing to another old Indian Town, also on the bank of the River, is about six miles; this place is called Canenacai, or Hickory Bottom; here is a few hundred acres of good land and some small Islands, from hence to a place named by the natives the Burying Ground, from a tradition they have that some extraordinary man was buried there many hundred years ago, is about thirteen miles; most of this way is also a barren and a very high mountain, and you have to travel greatest part of the way in the Bed of the River. To Brokenstraw Creek, or Bockaloons, from the last named place is about fourteen miles, here the hills are not so high or barren, and there are sundry good bottoms along the River. About half way there is a hill called by the Indians Paint Hill, where they find very good red oker. Brokenstraw is thirty yards wide, there is a fine situation and good bottom near the mouth on both sides, but a little way up the creek large hills covered with pine make their appearance. From Brokenstraw to Canewago is eight or nine miles—here is a narrow bottom, interspersed with good dry land and meadow Ground all the way, and there is a remarkable fine tract at the mouth of Conewago, of a thousand or perhaps more acres, from the whole of which you command a view up and down the main branch of Alleghany, and also up Conewagoo a considerable distance. Conewagoo is one hundred and fifty yards wide, and is navigable for large boats up to the head of Jadaque Lake, which is upwards of fifty miles from its junction with the east branch of the River. The head Jadaque Lake is said to be only twelve miles from Lake Erie, where it is also said the French formerly had a Fort and a good Waggon Road from it to the Lake. Conewagoo forks about thirty miles from the mouth of the East Branch, is lost in a morass where the Indians frequently carried their canoes across into a large creek called the Cateraque, which empties into the lake forty or fifty miles above Niagara.

This account of the Branches of Conewagoo I had from my Guide, an Indian Chief of the Senacas, a native of the place, and an intelligent white man, who traversed all this country repeatedly. I have every reason to believe the facts are so—tho' I do not know them actually to be so as I went only a small distance up this creek, being informed there is no land fit for cultivation to the first fork or to the lower end of Jadaque Lake, which begins seven miles up the West Branch, except what has already been mentioned at the mouth of the creek, the appearance of the country, in a view taken from the summit of one of the high hills, fully justified this Report, as nothing can be seen but one large chain of mountains towering above another—here, perhaps, it may not be amiss to insert the supposed distances in a collected view—and First from Fort Pitt to Mc'Lenes, ..... 40 miles.

For the same reason that I did not proceed far up Conawagoo, I returned the most direct Road to the burying Ground—here three old Indian paths take off, one to Cayahaga, on Lake Erie, one to Cuskusky, on the west branch of Beaver Creek, and the third to a Salt spring, higher up the same branch of Beaver—from hence I crossed the chain of mountains, which runs along the River, and in travelling what I computed to be about twenty five miles, reached the first fork on Oil Creek, on the most easterly Branches, there are vast quantities of white Pine, fit for masts, Boards, &c. In this fork is a large Body of tolerable good land, tho' high, and along the West Branch very rich and extensive Bottoms fit for meadow, of the first quality—this continues about fifteen miles along the creek, which is a beautiful stream, from thirty to forty yards wide, and pretty deep. From the West Branch of Oil Creek I proceeded on a Westerly course, about ten miles along a ridge which is difficult to ascend, being high and steep, but when you get up it is flat on the summit, four or five miles broad, very level, and fine springs issue from the declivity on both sides, the land heavily loaded with Hickory, large oak, maple, and very large Chestnut. From the West End of this Ridge several large springs rise, which form the most Easterly branch of French Creek—there are five branches of this Creek, which is called Sugar Creek, by Mr. Hutchins, all of which have fine Bottoms, excellent for meadow and pasturage, but the upland or ridges between are stony, cold, moist and broken, chiefly covered with Beech, Pine and scrubby Chestnut.

At the fork or junction of Sugar Creek with the main or West Branch of French Creek, (which is only eight miles up from Venango,) there is some fine plains or savannahs, and a large quantity of meadow ground—there are but few bottoms, and little or no upland besides what is above mentioned, for twenty miles up this branch, where there is a considerable quantity of excellent meadow ground, beside which there is not much good land until you reach Le Berroff (Boeuf?)

From Venango, I returned along the path leading to Pittsburg to within about seven miles of Flat Rock Creek—here I took a West course along a large dividing Ridge already noticed, about ten miles, where I struck a branch of Canaghquenesse, or Beaver, about thirty yards wide, and which joins Flat Rock before it empties into the main branch of Canaghquenesse—on this creek is very fine and large bottoms, and in some places some good upland, tho' much broken with high barren hills and some deep morasses. This creek is not laid down in any map that I have seen. After having explored this creek and Lands adjacent, I proceeded on a South course till I struck Mr. McLene's line within eight miles of the Great Beaver Creek, which I followed to the Creek; all this distance is very hilly, there are some small bottoms, but the major part of those eight miles is not fit for cultivation.

From where Mr. McLene's line strikes the great or West Branch of the Beaver, I continued exploring the country up the several western branches of the Beaver, viz, the most Westerly, and two branches denominated the Shenango. This distance from the above named line to an old Moravian Town is three or four miles, from thence to Shenango, two and a half or three miles; thence to a fork or second branch, two miles; from the mouth of Shenango to Cuskuskey, on the West Branch, is six or seven miles, but it was formerly all called Cuskuskey by the natives along this branch as high as the Salt spring, which is twenty-five miles from the mouth of Shenango.

There is such a similarity in almost all the lands on all the branches of Beaver Creek, that a particular description of each would be mere (repetition). I shall therefore only briefly observe that the bottoms generally are the most excellent that can be well imagined, and are very extensive—the upland is hilly, and some bad, but most of the hills are fertile and very rich soil—from the falls of the Great Beaver up to the head of the West Branch, and twenty miles up the Shenango branch, is to a considerable distance on either side those creeks, there is little land but may be cultivated, and I believe no country is better watered.

I herewith transmit a sketch of that part of the country only which my duty as Agent obliged me to explore. This, together with the Remarks here contained will, I flatter myself, give a juster idea of the tract than any map yet published. Tho' I do not pretend to say it is correct, as the distances are all supposed, and there are probably several omissions in this sketch, yet more creeks, hills, &c., are noticed than have been before, and their real courses and near connections & division by Hills & Ridges ascertained.

No Creek is laid down or branch which is not upwards of Twenty yards wide—smaller runs are not noticed—on the whole I have endeavored as well in the remarks as in the sketch, so far as I have gone, to answer the end for which I was appointed Agent, as well as in my power

Wm. Irvine, Agent.

N. B. The dotted lines show the several courses taken in exploring the country on the Sketch—beside the several offsets were made to gain summits of Hills for the benefit of prospects. All the Branches of Canaghqueneese, which are six or seven in number, join and form one large Creek before it enters the Beaver, the junction is about eleven miles above the mouth of Beaver from above the falls, and four below McLene's line. I have been unavoidably obliged to leave the North and West lines open in the sketch, as I could not do otherwise till these boundary lines are run; this also prevented my completing the business, not being able to determine perhaps within several miles, where the lines may run. I am persuaded the State of Pennsylvania might reap great advantages by paying early attention to the very easy several communications with Lake Erie from the Western parts of their country, particularly Conewago; French Creek and the West Branch of Beaver, from a place called Mahoning to where it is navigable for small craft is but thirty miles to Cayuhuga River, which empties into the Lake. A good Waggon Road may be made from Fort Pitt to the mouth of French Creek, & all the way from the mouth of Beaver to Cayuhuga, which is not more than 80 miles. The breadth of the Tract cannot be ascertained till the Western Boundary is run. Mr. McLene suspends for this reason extending his line further West than the Great Beaver, which he has found to be 47 miles from the mouth, Mogwolbughtitum, from this part of Beaver Creek it is conjectured the West line of the State will run 10 or 12 miles.—(Letter Book, Vol. I., p. 344-50.)

The Beauty and Wealth of the Triangle Territory.

There is thus presented a fair view of this territory within the Indian purchase of 1784, which territory now constitutes so valuable, interesting, important and wealthy a portion of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

If we turn from this description of the territory to that more recently purchased from the government of the United States and from the Indians, hereinbefore referred to as the Triangle, we shall also find a tract of land which could scarcely have been surpassed in beauty, in the grandeur of its forests, or in the fertility of its soil. Travel wherever we may, in whatever state or in whatever country, there will scarcely be found farmers who live in greater luxury or are better circumstanced than are those who ply the agriculturist's avocation along the lake shore, within the limits of the county of Erie.

Here are found the kindly fruits of the earth in limitless abundance; here the apple and fruit trees are fruited deep; here are grown grapes of all the best species than can scarcely be equalled anywhere on earth; grapes so rich in flavor; "Grapes with juices so crowded up, as breaking through their native cup." It is a land as fair as the garden of the Lord; plenty abounds on all sides, for prosperity is possessed by all.

This is the situation in this year of our Lord 1905, but how did it appear to those commissioners who went to purchase it of the Indians and to those who made reports of its appearance before the dawn of the last century? Seeing the splendor of this territory as it is presented to us to-day, it is well by contrast to see it through the eyes of Colonel Andrew Porter, who in 1788 described it in his communication to Benjamin Franklin, then President of the Supreme Executive Council, as follows:

Col. Andrew Porter to Pres. Franklin, 1788.

Gentlemen,

Agreeably to your request I have herein drawn up a Description of the Country lying between the northern boundaries of this State and Lake Erie, west of the State of New York, viz:

The soil will come under the description Tolarable good. The country is clear of Mountains and but very little broken with Hills. In many parts of it are very rich Tracts of land, and some parts are rather wet & swampy—It abounds with a great variety of Timber, such as Sugar Trees, Beech, Ash, Hickory, Black, Red and White Oak, Chestnut, Cherry, Hemlock, White Pine, Sycamore, Elm, Cow-cumber, Aspen, Birch, Poplar, Walnut, &c.

From the north west Corner of this State the general direction of Lake Erie is North 65° East for upwards of sixty Miles so that the angle made with the northern boundary Line is 25°.

The Bay of Presque Isle is a safe Harbour for shipping and the only one (on this side) from Gayahoga to the lower end of the Lake. The distance from Presque Isle to La Bauf, on the French Creek is about 15 miles, and the ground sufficiently firm to admit of a good Road the whole way with little or no bridging.

The western boundary of the State of N. York has not yet been ascertained, probably it may fall a few miles East of the Canawango River.—This River is boatable to the upper end of Chadaghque Lake, from thence there is a portage of about 9 Miles to Lake Erie.

The above described Tract of Country may contain between 7 and 800,000 Acres.

I am with Respect, Gentlemen,
your obedt. Humble Servt.,

Andw. Porter.

Directed,

His Excellency the President and Supreme Executive Council
Pennsylvania.

Indorsed,

Montgomery County, Febry. 16th, 1788.

Adlam's Map of Reserve Tract at Presque Isle.

Although the title to the Triangle was not acquired until 1792, the State of Pennsylvania had taken considerable interest in the territory within the limits of the Triangle, especially that located in the vicinity of Presque Isle, for it appears that the General Assembly on March 24, 1789, gave direction for the survey of a reserve tract at Presque Isle, which survey was made on the 27th, 28th and 29th days of July, 1789. A certified copy of the survey of this reserve tract accompanies this paper. (See map marked "E.")

This map shows the location in strong outlines of the tract, the most eastern corner, on the lake, being a maple, the southeast corner a hickory, the southwest corner an ash by a walnut, and the northwest corner, on the lake shore, a white hickory.

It shows the outlines of Mill creek and Garrison run, but the point at which Garrison run now flows into the lake is much farther to the East than it appears to have been when this survey was made in 1789.

The point on the survey which attracts most attention and around which there is clustered much interesting history and pathos, is that where the French fort is indicated, which was probably built in 1753, and from which, in double dotted lines, is shown the road to Leboeuf which was built cotemporary with the building of the fort at Presque Isle. Over this road marched some 1,500 French soldiers whose purpose was, as before indicated, to take possession in behalf of the French government.

From this line of road near where the "Ridge Road" is now located a single dotted line extends westward indicating a path which was probably the means of transportation and communication between a few stray settlers who may have wandered into the then vast wilderness along the lake shore, and which was also probably a path made by the Indians.

Looking at this map and remembering that on the territory embraced within it is situated a thriving and progressive city, teeming with great commercial interests, manufacturing establishments whose productions go to all the markets of the world, where reside people who are abreast of all there is in advancing civilization, education and culture, and that the territory surrounding this reserve tract is thickly populated, all the lands in the vicinity being as fertile and as productive as any that can be found in the country, we realize what a vast change has taken place since this deputy surveyor made his map one hundred and fifteen years ago.

It is true there is but little information disclosed by the limited data upon this map, but what is given is of inestimable value in that there are clearly indicated the conditions which were found at that early day when the State of Pennsylvania was negotiating with other states and with the government of the United States for the acquisition of this particular territory and of all that territory within what is known as the Triangle.

Howell's Pennsylvania Map of 1792-1806.

It appears from the records of this office that in 1792 Reading Howell, of Philadelphia, a civil engineer, commenced the preparation of a map of Pennsylvania, having filed with the Librarian of Congress the title which he proposed to give to his map. A copy of this map is on file in the Land Office Bureau of this Department, from which a tracing has been made of the two counties Erie and Crawford, and this tracing accompanies this paper. (See map marked "F.")

ATRACING EXTRACT FROM A MAP PUBLISHED BY READING HOWELL

Between the years 1782 and 1806.

It appears that this map was not fully completed until the year 1806. At the time the map was commenced northwestern Pennsylvania was still a part of Allegheny county, and that part which was known as the triangle had probably not been conveyed to the State of Pennsylvania, for it was not until the year 1792, when the title to this map was filed with the Librarian of Congress, that George Washington, as President, and Thomas Jefferson, as Secretary of State, conveyed to the State of Pennsylvania the territory within the triangle. In considering the territory within the triangle, it must be remembered that Connecticut claimed it, that Massachusetts also laid claim to it, as did likewise the State of New York. However, all ceded their rights to the national government, and the conveyance, as before indicated, was made to Pennsylvania, after which time, until 1800, the territory was embraced within the county of Allegheny, and since then, within the county of Erie.

As a point of interesting history, it may not be improper to observe that while Connecticut yielded its claim to the territory within the triangle, it still asserted its claim to territory along the lake to the west of the Pennsylvania boundary, which became known and is still known as "Connecticut's Western Reserve in Ohio."

A study of the map as made by Reading Howell gives evidence of advanced civilization. That which had theretofore been known on the maps as Presque Isle is changed to Erie and the county is divided into several townships. Waterford, near Fort Leboeuf first appears upon the map, as do also Lexington, and Hazards, probably the name of a farmer near the town of North East, in Erie county, in whose name—Ebenezer Hazard, a warrant was taken out of the Land Office, as appears by one of the surveys in the connected draft of tracts of land upon which North East is now situated.

In Crawford county, Meadville, which appears to have been first started by one David Mead, a military officer and surveyor, appears upon this map. The county is divided into several townships and there must have been a sprinkling of settlements throughout the territory.

As before seen, the population of the county in 1800 was 2,346 and it must have increased considerably from 1800 to 1806, about the time when the work was done on the Howells map for this part of Pennsylvania.

An interesting feature in observing this map is the entire absence of cities, boroughs and villages, which are now everywhere throughout the territory in these two counties and which contribute so largely to the wealth, the interests and the glories of these northwestern counties.

The means of communication and transportation between the early settlers of this territory must have been extremely limited.

for there are very few roads found on the map; one leading to the eastward, one to the southward, one to the westward and one to the city of Erie, all meeting at and diverging from Waterford, the location of old Fort Leboeuf.

In this connection it is proper to say that from the old records of this office and from the acts of Assembly authorizing the construction of public roads, it is evident that in the early days Waterford was the most distinguished place in northwestern Pennsylvania. In some respects it may be said that Waterford was like Rome, for all roads are said to have led to Rome, while in the early days all the roads in northwest Pennsylvania and all paths appear to have led to or emanated from Waterford.

Howell's Map of 1811.

A section of the map prepared by Howell in 1811 accompanies this article, and does not differ materially from the map before referred to as having been commenced in 1792 and finished in 1806. There are some new details in the way of location of streams, but there is no marked change in the location of roads, Waterford still being the central point. (See map marked "G.")

A few additional names appear, probably of individual farmers, and not intended to indicate location of villages. They more likely represent the location where the sturdy pioneer had selected a place for the carving out of his fortune in that new and only partially explored country, where he failed or succeeded according to the courage and health which he possessed.

If reference be had to the names of the early settlers in the counties of Erie and Crawford, it will be surprising to discover that so many of the people who reside in the rural portions of the counties now possess the same names as did those early settlers. They must have been of a sturdy stock, but the cogent reasons why their descendents are still in the location where the original pioneers selected their homes and the fertility of the soil and its adaptability to the raising of all cereals and agricultural products which were necessary for sustaining of the pioneers, and which have been such important factors in the commercial world.

Many of the settlers came from New England, many from New York state, while the eastern and central counties of the State of Pennsylvania furnished a goodly number of those who possessed the migratory spirit and the desire for adventure, to the extent that would enable them to build for themselves new homes in this then dangerous portion of western Pennsylvania.

Practically all the land within these two counties had been surveyed, the triangle having been surveyed immediately after its purchase from the government of the United States.

Map of 1816.

The General Assembly of March 19, 1816, provided for the publication of a map of the State of Pennsylvania, and from the map so published an extract is made, showing the conditions in northwest Pennsylvania as they were found at that time, and it is published herewith. (See map "H.")

From the evidences presented by this map it appears that the worthy men who had previously come to the territory had effected wonderful changes. In nearly every township of the two counties there is evidence of the progressive spirit which must have characterized the early settlers. Roads have been built in every direction; they run the whole length of the lake shore and in some cases there are parallel lines; two roads running from the vicinity of Union and Waterford north to the lake, near where the town of North East is now situated, while other roads from the south, the east and the west have been constructed to Waterford and others to Erie. This map alone is an exhibit of the sterling qualities of the men who were developing this northwest section of the Commonwealth, and indicates that they possessed all of those forces of character and energy which characterized the earlier pioneers of this country, through whom the American republic was firmly built and its material and industrial interests were so rapidly developed in the first century of its existence.

There are many names of places probably the names of settlers, but in Crawford county, Centreville, Pottersville and Conneautville are the names of three places which first appeared upon the published maps of this part of the State, while in Erie county Burgettstown, now North East, Colts Station and Cranes, now Craneville, appear on the map. It seems that Colts Station, in Greenfield township, is now only the name of a location and the point for a district school, but at a very early day in the development of Erie county a man by the name of Judah Colt located at this place and was accompanied by a number of settlers, all of whom became dishearted and abandoned that location. Their leader, Judah Colt located in Erie and became an extensive land owner, living to a ripe old age.

Reference cannot here be made to all the changes which are disclosed by this map in comparison with the conditions which existed when the map of 1811 was made. The War of 1812 had been fought and the treaty of peace between Great Britain and the United States had been communicated. Peaceful as are the conditions all through this territory, it is well to remember that in the War of 1812 the road running from the south east through Waterford is the road over which a considerable body of troops marched from the eastern and central portions of the State to participate in the struggle in the War of 1812, when the United States was engaged in its second struggle against the mother country for independence. There are so many interesting data pertaining to early history that will always be prized highly by the thoughtful students of American affairs, and not a little of this interesting history was made in this section of the State, the details of which cannot be here related. The town of Waterford alone is exceedingly rich in that history which tells of its early occupation by the French, and later by the English. The thrilling incidents of warfare which occurred between the whites and the savages at Leboeuf and in the adjacent territory all contribute to make Waterford, as before indicated, a place of intense interest in connection with the struggles made for the protection of the colonies and the colonists, and the struggles that occurred in the latter part of the eighteenth century in the establishment and maintenance of our national and state governments. All these things may be woven into valuable history and they are worthy of the study of our best authors. The maps which are here produced as historical facts upon which to base interesting romance and fiction, showing earlier conditions and developments will be found of inestimable value to the generations who are to come hereafter.

Evidence of the full tide of American civilization, American skill, energy, patriotism and invincible courage is disclosed in this map of 1848, which exhibits also the wonderful changes that have come in the period from 1816 to 1848. (See map "I.")

Every portion of the territory within the limits of the two counties has been inhabited; schools and churches have been established and all the facilities of the times, for education and culture have found a place among the people. Every township in both counties is supplied with lines of communication, but of course no railroads had been constructed. The inhabitants of few counties in the Commonwealth outside of those in the eastern portion of the State had advanced so rapidly and were occupying such advantageous positions in agricultural and commercial affairs as the people of Erie county did in 1848, if we may judge by the conditions which existed at that time as disclosed by the map, of which we publish an extract relating to the counties of Erie and Crawford.

The Bureau of Railways of the Department of Internal Affairs of Pennsylvania for some dozen years has published a railroad map of the State, showing the location of all the railroads whose lines are in whole or in part within the limits of the Commonwealth.

From the map published in 1904 a section has been taken showing the location of the railroads in the counties of Erie and Crawford, as they existed last year. (See map marked "K.") Other lines of transportation, such as roads and trolley lines do not appear upon this map, but if comparison be made with the roads of the two counties seventy-five years ago, it will be seen that there are about as many leading lines of railroads in or passing through these counties as there were wagon roads at that earlier period.

Along the Lake Shore in parallel lines are located the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern and the New York, Chicago and St. Louis, while leading to the south are the Erie and Pittsburgh and the Bessemer and Lake Erie. In the eastern portion of the county railroads are centered at Corry—one line leading north to Buffalo; another line leading to Erie; another line leading westward through Meadville, with branch lines to Cleveland, Chicago and Cincinnati; another line direct to New York; still another to Philadelphia, and two competing lines south to Pittsburgh. Few counties are better supplied with this modern means of transportation than are the counties of Erie and Crawford, as is indicated by this map which shows the location of these great lines of transportation.

All the villages, all the cities and towns, and practically all the post offices in the two counties are shown on this map, and when this is laid down beside the map of 1770, which accompanies this report there are observed at once the marked changes which have been wrought in this territory by the energy, the skill, the daring and the persistency of the people who came from all over the civilized world to make their homes in this portion of the great State of Pennsylvania, and who have made the counties of Erie and Crawford worthy of membership in the galaxy of organizations which constitute the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Conneaut Lake.

In the county of Crawford is a beautiful body of water known as Conneaut Lake. It is surrounded by a fertile farming country and it has many points of historical interest, but it is most attractive in that it is made a delightful summer resort. The land in this locality was early taken up by settlers, as the beauty of the lake was the attractive feature in all that part of Crawford county.

A connected draft of the tracts of land surrounding this lake has been prepared and is published herewith. (See map marked "L.")

Accompanying this report are certified copies of surveys, or certified connected drafts, of tracts of land upon which are located some of the principal towns within the two counties. It was impracticable to accompany this report with the plan of the town of Erie as laid out by William Irvine and Andrew Ellicott on account of the impossibility of reproducing all of the old map which has been to some extent mutilated. A similar reference may be made to the plan of the town of Waterford, which was also made by William Irvine and Andrew Ellicott.

In the case of the surveys and connected drafts of the tracts of land upon which Meadville, Titusville, Corry, North East, Girard, Edinboro, Wattsburg, Union City and Cambridge Springs are located, it should be remembered that while the streams may not be located accurately, that is in such a way as to correspond with them as they are now found, yet the streams and all data given in these surveys or connected drafts are a correct reproduction of the data appearing upon the original surveys in the Land Office Bureau of the Department of Internal Affairs.

In walking through the streets of any of these cities or towns a desire often possesses individuals when in an retrospective mood to gain some idea of the situation which existed prior to the time any settlements were made or any towns or villages were begun. So far as is possible from the records in this office that desire is satisfied in the reproduction of these official documents. For instance, none of these towns save Waterford and Erie had an existence when the lands were surveyed, and therefore of course none of them appear upon these original surveys or connected drafts.

It has been somewhat difficult to ascertain the exact tracts upon which these cities and towns have been built, but from the care taken and the evidences at hand, there is no room to doubt the accuracy of the selections made, and while at first thought there may seem to be nothing of value in these reproductions of ancient records, yet the most thoughtful individuals will see that they contain information of inestimable value and that they will become more highly prized as time advances.

Surveys of Tracts of Land upon which the City of Meadville is now Situated.

Accompanying this report is a certified copy of a survey in the name of William Mead, containing 219 acres and 18 perches of land surveyed in pursuance of an improvement right, the survey being made on the 17th day of May, 1794. is situated, made on the 8th day of May, 1794, by virtue of an improvement right.

These two surveys present a picture of the territory as it appeared to the first inhabitants of that portion of Crawford county, where the city of Meadville is now located, so far at least as is disclosed by the return surveys of the Deputy Surveyor.

Cultured, progressive and worthy as are the people of this city to-day, on the advance in all that pertains to the welfare of the citizens of Pennsylvania, there are many who will find food for reflection by an examination of these maps or surveys which show the conditions of the territory as it appeared 109 years ago.

Titusville.

The most of the territory occupied by the city of Titusville is embraced within three surveys; one in the name of Samuel Kerr, one in the name of Richard Short, and one in the name of Patrick Short. All these surveys are located near the confluence of the eastern and western branches of Oil creek, a point visited by General William Irvine in his explorations made in the year 1785, in the report of which he refers to the sturdy growth of pine which he found in this locality.

Titusville, ever since the discovery of oil has been a city of no little notoriety. Its citizens have been progressive; its commercial and industrial developments generally have been marked. It is most noted, however, from the fact that at Titusville and in the surrounding country was first discovered petroleum. Rarely ever in the history of any country have material developments been made, that produced such an effect upon the commercial world as did the discovery of oil forty or more years ago. The tracts of land shown by the surveys, upon which Titusville in whole or in part is located, were all oil producing tracts. On this account the picture presented of them as they were seen by General Irvine, in his notes of exploration, and disclosed by the certified copies of original surveys accompanying this report, will undoubtedly be of great interest to many of the thoughtful people of northwestern Pennsylvania, but more especially to those who are residents of the city of Titusville.

Corry.

One of the last towns to appear upon the map of northwest Pennsylvania is Corry. Not until the beginning of the oil development were there any evidences that a formidable town would ever grow up in the locality now occupied by this city. Indeed, the eastern portion of Erie county and the western portion of Warren county constituted a dense wilderness until about fifty or sixty years ago. An old road of communication extended from Waterford through Wayne township, then on to Sugar Grove and farther east and north-east.

The development of oil and the construction of railroads gave impetus to the growth of a town at the junction of the then Atlantic and Great Western Railway and the Philadelphia and Erie Railway.

The territory on which this city is constructed is covered by a connected draft of eighteen tracts of land, all, at the time of being surveyed, within the organized limits of the county of Allegheny. This connected draft is published herewith, showing the location of the streams and the water drainage as they existed at that time. Discrepancies will be observed between the present conditions as to location of streams, directions, etc., and those appearing upon the connected draft. The connected draft, however, is made from the original surveys as returned by the Deputy Surveyor, whose name was Alexander McDowell, and they were all made in the year 1799. All of these tracts had been previously surveyed in 1795, but on account of alleged errors, the surveys which were first returned were rejected and resurveys made according to the plan of the connected draft herewith.

The creek running north through the David Able tract is the stream along which is laid the railroad track of that branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad extending from Corry to Pittsburg, and this stream is the East Branch of French Creek flowing westerly through Union City and in Le Boeuf township, emptying into the Main Branch of French Creek.

The stream running through the Grace Rea, the Andrew Betz, the Conrad Betz, the Elihu Betz and the Edward Betz tracts is undoubtedly Hare Creek, and the stream running through the Simon Able and the Andrew Betz tracts is undoubtedly intended to represent Bear Creek, while the stream in the southeast portion of the tract would seem to represent what is known as Colegrove's run.

The line running north from the sugar tree in the southern line of the draft to a cucumber and a hemlock, crossing Bear creek and extending to the southern line of the Grace Rea tract, is probably the division line between tracts 51 and 52, being on or in the vicinity of Spring street and at or near the line of Centre street from Franklin street north to Columbus Avenue. It is set forth in some conveyances, however, that the division line between lots 51 and 52,—the Peter Able and the Thomas Betz—is the line running north from the Reservoir of the Corry Water Supply Company and extending north in about the line of West Wayne street, but this description is probably an error.

The representation of a stream running westerly from where Spring street extended would cross the railroad tracks, was probably due to the condition which the surveyor found when he did his work on the ground in 1799. It was then undoubtedly a swampy place and he was of the opinion that the water drainage was to the west, which it may possibly have been.

IN TESTIMONY, That the above is a Connected Draft of six tracts of land situated in the township of North East, in the county of Erie, constructed from the original drafts remaining on file in the Department of Internal Affairs of Pennsylvania, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the said Department to be affixed at Harrisburg, the fourteenth day of March 1905.

As nearly as can be ascertained the hemlock designated as common corners to the Peter Able, the Thomas Betz, the Simon Able and the Andrew Betz tracts, probably stood at or near the intersection of North, Centre and Smith streets, the location of the Emanuel Episcopal church.

The Warren county line running north and south, bisects the Paul Rex, Edward Betz, Elihu Betz and Henry Able tracts.

All these observations relating to this connected draft that are not supported by the data on the original surveys, are made as conjectures and are not to be understood as being based upon any evidences which are disclosed by the original records.

The pumping station of the Corry Water Supply Company is probably located on tract in name of Grace Rea, and the Reservoir on tract in name of Peter Able.

Few cities are more advantageously located than Corry, and there are few whose people have attained more during a period which marks the age of this city than have those who live and have lived in the city of Corry. Her people are progressive and are operating on advanced lines in the commercial world. Their industrial and material interests give assurance of a greater Corry.

Northeast.

The territory where the flourishing town of Northeast is situated seems to have been occupied at an early date by a man whose name was Ebenezer Hazard, to whom a warrant of survey was granted in 1794.

The territory adjoining this tract was also surveyed to other parties and a connected draft of the tracts of land bordering on the shores of Lake Erie and extending southerly some 800 or 1,000 rods, accompanies this report.

The town when first started appears to have been called Burgetts-town. It first appears under this name in the maps accompanying this article. Interesting and beautiful as this town may be, the grandeur of the appearance of its location to the surveyors in 1794, when these surveys were made must have been most striking. It perhaps may not do to say that the territory in this vicinity is the garden spot of Erie county, but certainly the lands adjoining Northeast are among the most fertile and productive of any that can be found in the State of Pennsylvania. It is a pleasure to place in the public records of Pennsylvania a connected draft of the surveys which to some degree present a picture of the locality, as appears by the work of the surveyor in the year 1794.

Girard.

There are few boroughs in any county of the Commonwealth that excel Girard in all those qualities which make up a town of beauty, of wealth and of culture. It is situated on the old Ridge road which traverses a part of the Commonwealth adjacent to the shores of Lake Erie. Much of this road is located on the old Indian path which was used as a means of communication between the eastern and western Indians.

The country around Girard is beautiful in the extreme. It is rich in agricultural products, the fertility of the soil being of such a character as to produce every cereal and fruit that can be grown in such a latitude. The picture is ever brightened by the exquisite view of Lake Erie which is had from the ridge on which Girard stands.

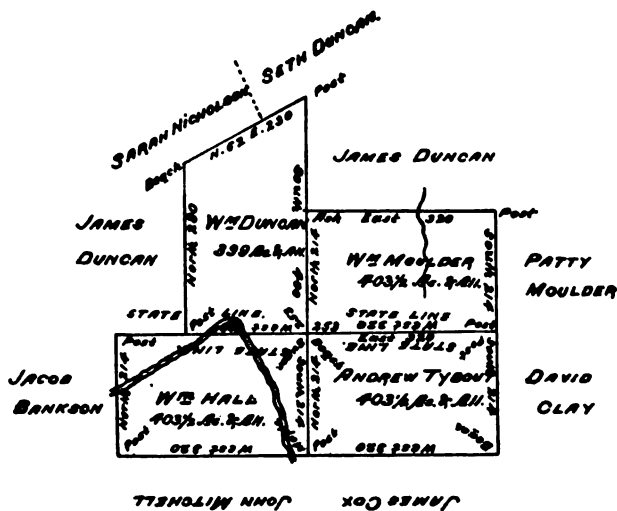

The tracts of land upon which the borough of Girard is situated were surveyed by William Rees in the year 1794. A connected draft of four tracts of land which probably embraced all the territory upon which Girard is situated is published herewith.

The stream shown on the tracts in the name of William Hall and William Duncan is Elk creek which has cut a deep furrow all through Girard and other townships through which it passes on its way to empty its waters into Lake Erie.

Considering the wealth of the people residing in Girard, their culture and their desire for accumulating data regarding the early history of this portion of Erie county, the connected draft submitted herewith will be of no little value.

Edinboro.

The original surveys of the territory where Edinboro and the State Normal School are situated were made in June, 1795. The lands so surveyed were what are known as Population lands, a company of that name having purchased large bodies of land from the Commonwealth. It is probable that the tract in the name of James Gentle was at or near the outlet of Conneauttee lake, which is located just north of the town of Edinboro. For some reason the surveyor did not represent the lake upon the return of survey of James Gentle, or on the tracts adjoining or adjacent to the said James Gentle tract. A return of survey, however, was made by John Cochran, Deputy Surveyor, of the tract of land situated at the outlet of Conneauttee lake, showing the outline of the entire body of water which comprised the lake at that time. The survey of this tract of land was made on the 28th day of May, probably in the year 1804, as the warrant authorizing the survey bears date the ninth day of March, 1804. The survey of this tract is somewhat mutilated and does not show the year in which the survey was made, but as before indicated, it was probably made in the same year in which the warrant was granted. Upon this survey it a notation by which it is asserted that William Culbertson was in possession of the tract of land at the time of the survey and that he claimed under the Population Company's title. The survey showing the lake is found in the unpatented files of the Land Office Bureau, but a patent was granted under the other survey on warrant in the name of James Gentle, to the representative of the Pennsylvania Population Company, bearing date the twenty-third day of July, 1799, as appears by record in Patent Book P, volume 41, page 157, the tract being designated in the patent as "Thetford."

A copy of the survey showing the lake is published herewith.

Wattsburg.

Just north of the old northern boundary line of Pennsylvania is situated the quaint but interesting borough of Wattsburg, named for David Watts, of Carlisle, Pennsylvania, by his son-in-law, William Miles, who surveyed the Tenth Donation District and was also concerned in the first improvements of Wattsburg and Union City.

Two surveys are presented herewith upon which, in whole or in part is located the borough of Wattsburg. As is well known, this borough is situated at or near the confluence of the two branches of French creek, one being the outlet of Findley Lake and the other rising in French Creek township, Chatauqua county, New York, to the eastward of the said Findley Lake.

Wattsburg is a peaceful and quiet hamlet beautifully located and greatly blessed with an abundance of sugar maples, which contribute in no small degree to the beauty of the town.

To preserve to some extent the early appearance of the territory whereon this borough of Wattsburg is situated, certified copies of two surveys of this territory accompany this report.

A part of the Donation lands appear, from the original records on file, to have been located on or near the present site of Wattsburg. Immediately to the south of Wattsburg are located many tracts of land which were designated as Donation lands and which were given to the soldiers of the American Revolution for their services in establishing American independence.

Union City.

Union City is situated along the eastern branch of French creek, which rises in the vicinity of the city of Corry and which flows westerly and empties into the main branch of French creek in the township of Leboeuf. Here is a flourishing manufacturing town filled with energetic and active people, many of whom have made for themselves enviable reputations in the commercial world.

In the connected draft published herewith of two tracts of land, one in the name of David Parks and the other in the name of Stephen Parks, is exhibited the territory upon which is located the site of Union City. The surveyor was upon this territory many decades before there were any evidences of such a thriving town as now exists on these two tracts of land. This connected draft represents the location of the streams as the surveyor saw them in 1799, and as he established their boundaries by his work as a professional surveyor.

Cambridge Springs.

Along the picturesque and historical French creek soon after it emerges from the county of Erie and enters the county of Crawford, is situated the borough of Cambridge Springs, of late years much noted for the excellence of its waters which are considered to contain great medical and curative qualities.

A connected draft of two tracts of land, one granted in the name of John Gill and the other in the name of George Goodman, is published herewith as representing the territory upon which Cambridge Springs is now situated.

In concluding this article it is proper to observe that in the assembling of the facts from the records of the Land Office Bureau of the Department of Internal Affairs as a basis for the same, there has been little or no effort to present a literary production, one that would be illumined with exalted thoughts, clothed with beautiful diction, or resplendent with chaste or eloquent sentences.

Here in the Department of Internal Affairs are the evidences of the early struggles under the Colony and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and these, together with some observations made have been transferred to the public report of the Department that there may be conveniently exhibited to the people a glimpse of the foot prints on that great pathway that was made by those who struggled and sacrificed as promoters of civilization and as builders of the Commonwealth in northwestern Pennsylvania. The deeds of heroism, the dangers, the sacrifices, appealing to us even from that early day, are left to the historian. The massacres at Leboeuf and at Presque Isle, the numerous treaties made, especially that by Colonel John Broadstreet on the twelfth of August, 1764, in the immediate presence of the formidable fortifications of Fort Presque Isle, and the numerous conferences with the savage nations, the compacts, the broken promises, the treacheries and the inhumanities are also only glanced at or epitomized here. Enough, however, is given to show that within the limits of Erie and Crawford counties is territory upon which tragedies and dramas were enacted, heroic and chivalric deeds performed that will forever make these counties great in the annals of Pennsylvania and in the history of the American republic.

In arranging the certified copies of surveys, and the connected drafts made from original surveys, much assistance has been given by Mr. J. Sutton Wall, Chief Draftsman and Surveyor, who has been ably aided by Mr. W. A. Moore and Mr. R. C. Benedict, draftsmen, and also in the researches made, Mr. G. W. Muse, assistant search clerk, has rendered valuable assistance.

ASSESSMENTS AND TAXES.

Taxables.

For the fiscal year covered by this report, the number of taxables as disclosed by the reports of the assessors from the several assessment districts of the Commonwealth was 2,122,340. Last year the number reported was 2,125,579. It is not likely that there has been in fact any decrease in the number of taxables in Pennsylvania during the year.

Cleared Land.

16,914,822 represents the number of acres of cleared land within the Commonwealth as disclosed by the reports of the assessors. Last year the amount reported was 16,320,468 acres.

It is reasonable to suppose that there would be a marked increase in the number of acres of cleared land, but these figures must not be accepted as exhibiting the facts in this case, and in commenting upon any of the results of tabulations it must be understood that they refer to conditions as disclosed by the reports of the county commissioners and the assessors. How nearly they may approximate the real facts is conjecture, and this observation is now made so that it may be understood that whatever defects there may be are attributable to the defective returns which are made.

Timber Land.

8,357,167 acres of timber land are reported in the Commonwealth. Last year the amount was 8,369,663. It is not at all likely that there is this number of acres of timber land in the Commonwealth. It is, however, certain that exclusive of about 17,000,000 acres of cleared land, there are more than 8,000,000 acres of land which cannot be classified as cleared land, and by force of circumstances a large amount of acreage is included in timber land that ought not to be so included. The laws are defective on this subject and should be amended, making at least three classifications of land in the Commonwealth, cleared land, timber land and stripped or brush land.

Value of all Real Estate.

Under this caption is included all land properties within the State, whether taxable or whether exempt from taxation, and the amount reported for the year is $3,869,861,452. Last year the amount was given at $3,319,259,354. This is a marked increase and gives evidence of the fact that in some parts of the Commonwealth at least there has been an effort made to advance the assessed valuation of real estate in the direction of actual valuation.

Value of Real Estate Exempt from Taxation.

As has often been said and clearly demonstrated, the figures indicating the amount of real estate exempt from taxation fall far short of representing the facts. From an investigation made, it has been ascertained that many of the assessors pay no attention to property that is exempt from taxation. How nearly the amount returned of property exempt from taxation reaches the actual amount, is entirely beyond the possibility of ascertainment under the circumstances. For the year covered by this report the value of such exempt property is given as $393,801,652. Last year the amount was $333,062,313.

Value of Real Estate Taxable.

A comparison of the returns made for this year with those of the last ten years will show very clearly that the assessed valuation of real estate taxable only approaches in a small degree the value of such property. With the rapid advance in values which has characterized every commercial interest and every subject of value concerned in commercial affairs, there ought to appear a most decisive advance in the assessed valuation of real estate, but on the contrary the advance from year to year is not so great as it should be. This has been the case practically every year except the year covered by this report, this year the amount being $3,476,059,800. Last year the amount was $2,986,197,041.

Number and Value of Horses, Mares, Geldings and Mules Over the Age of Four Years.

This year the number of these animals was reported to be 627,898. For the previous year the number was 599,513. The value reported for the year covered by this report was $29,821,471. Last year the value was reported as $27,618,548.

Under this caption reference is made to a limited investigation which appears in another part of this report, as to the extent to which the law is evaded on these subjects of taxation. While most of the assessors of whom inquiries were made reported that the law was not violated to a great extent, yet many reported that it was generally violated.

Number and Value of Neat Cattle Over the Age of Four Years.

Under this subject of taxation the number returned for this year was 652,779. Last year the number was 638,443. This year the value is given at $12,925,934. Last year the value was $12,359,644.

Value of Salaries and Emoluments of Office, Offices, Posts of Profit, Professions, Trades and Occupations.

It is apparent that the Legislature ought to abolish these subjects of taxation, or pass more exacting laws with reference to the assessment, levy and collection of taxes on these occupations and positions. It is probable that the amount as returned from year to year by the assessors as exhibiting the value of these subjects of taxation is only a comparatively small percentage of the actual valuation. For the year covered by this report the amount is given at $157,989,312. Last year the amount was given at $151,950,199.

Aggregate Value of all Property Taxable for County Purposes.

$3,676,796,517 represents the aggregate value of property taxable for county purposes. Last year the amount reported was $3,178,252,332, this being about the same advance in valuation that is found during the year in the assessed valuation of real estate taxable.

The Aggregate Amount of County Tax Assessed.

The expense of maintaining the affairs of the counties is quite rapidly increasing and indicates to some extent the advance of commercial interests in the several counties. Last year the total amount of taxes assessed for the maintenance of county governments was $23,722,444. This year it is $24,816,139.

Tracing those figures back under the different headings or classifications and making the investigation cover a period of years, it will be seen to what extent there has been an advance in all these subjects that make up the affairs of the Commonwealth, and that while there have been times when there may have been a pause in the financial advancement of the state and nation, yet the growth every decade has been most significant of the growth and development of the material and industrial interests of the Commonwealth.

Amount of money at Interest, Including Mortgages, Judgments, Bonds, Notes, Stocks, Etc.

No one can approach this subject without feeling that the figures returned by the assessors do not in any great degree exhibit the amount of money at interest throughout this Commonwealth. That the amount fluctuates a little from year to year may be accounted for by the pause that unavoidably occurs in financial and commercial affairs. It is not likely, however, that at any period in the last two decades has there been a time when there was not over a thousand millions of money at interest in this Commonwealth. The returns, however, for the year covered by this report show the amount to be $816,134,262. For the previous year the amount was $846,483,115.

Students in finance may be able to give satisfactory reasons why there has been such a marked reduction in the amount of money at interest in this Commonwealth for the year ending November 30, 1904, as compared with the amount for the year ending November 30, 1903. Possibly there may have been some financial disturbance to which may be attributed some of the disparities, but tax assessors and others conversant with the subject of taxation will understand that these discrepancies, both as to the amount reported of money at interest and the falling off of many millions in a single year are more properly chargeable to the reckless and careless manner in which the work of assessment of this class of property is carried on.

Value of Stages, Omnibuses, Hacks, Cabs, Etc.

$616,125 is the value of this species of property found in the Commonwealth by the assessors, or rather reported by them. Last year the amount was $587,935.

Comments upon this subject have frequently been made, and they seem useless now for the figures themselves carry conviction of the fact that but a small portion of this species of property finds its way upon the assessment list.

Aggregate Amount of State Taxes Assessed.

Formerly all the money derived from this species of taxation belonged to the State. Now it is refunded in part to the counties, but the total amount received for the year covered by this report was $3,267,044. Last year the amount was $3,389,449.

County Debt.

The total amount of the county debt is given at $63,913,715. Last year the amount was given at $65,003,149. Of this indebtedness

$4,543,558 are found in Allegheny county, while $51,002,845 are chargeable to the county of Philadelphia. It will be seen therefore that of the less than $64,000,000 of county indebtedness in the Commonwealth, over $55,000,000 is against the counties of Philadelphia and Allegheny. The counties reporting no indebtedness are as follows: Bucks, Cambria, Centre, Crawford, Cumberland, Elk, Erie, Forest, Lawrence, Lehigh, McKean, Mercer, Pike, Somerset and Westmoreland.

Amount of Taxes Collected for the Support of the Poor.

In many of the counties, especially those having county homes or poor houses the expense of maintaining the poor is provided for in appropriations made by the Commissioners from the general county fund, and no special levy in such cases is made in the several assessment districts for the support of the poor.

Aggregating the amount of taxes collected especially for the support of the poor and the amounts appropriated for the same purpose by the Commissioners, the total amount of money expended for this purpose during the year covered by this report was $3,376,743. The amount so collected last year was $3,432,179.

The salient feature of these figures consists of the fact that while there are more people in the Commonwealth for the year covered by this report than there were for the previous year, yet from the amount of money paid for poor purposes there would seem to be a reduction in the number of persons who have been maintained at public expense. It also indicates a decrease in the demands for charity, and undoubtedly a bettering of the condition of the people of the Commonwealth.

Amount of Taxes Collected for the Construction and Repairs of Streets, Roads and Bridges.

Under this caption is included the aggregate amount collected from each assessment district for the purpose indicated and there are also included such amount as may have been appropriated by the county commissioners for the building of bridges or any special work for which taxes were not collected in the several assessment districts, but were provided for in appropriations made by the county commissioner out of the general fund. For the year covered by this report the amount is $12,679,420. Last year the amount was $11,132,518.

Amount of Taxes Collected for Schools and School Purposes, not Including any Appropriations Received from the State.

A comparison of the returns made under this caption for the year covered by this report with those of the previous year shows a very marked increase, the amount for last year being given at $17,430,239, and for this year $20,180,001. No figures are at hand to indicate what has been the percentage of increase on account of the advance in the salaries paid to teachers under the act of 1903, but it is safe to assume that a considerable amount of the increase is due to this fact.

The Amount of Taxes Collected for any Other Purpose Relating to County or Local Government.

This year the amount collected under this caption was $37,161,828. Last year the amount was $33,734,115.

Total Amount of Taxes Collected for all Purposes.

Here again is seen the advance in the amount of money derived from taxation which seems essential for conducting the affairs of the Commonwealth, most of which, of course, is devoted to the maintenance of city, county, borough and county governments, only a small portion being used for the maintenance of the State government. The total for the year was $73,397,993. Last year the total was $65,729,051.

Amount of Taxes Collected on Personal Property.

The laws of the Commonwealth require the assessors to make special returns on certain subjects referred to in the consolidated tables on the subject of taxation, contained in Part II of this report, which refer to all the different classifications of taxation and assessments of real and personal property.

The total amount of taxes collected under this caption for the year covered by this report was $3,528,136. Last year this amount was $3,877,080.

No one can have implicit confidence in the correctness of these figures, or perhaps it might be safer to assert that there has been a failure to properly and accurately execute the law, which requires a special return made on this subject. Certainly for the year covered by this report there was more property to assess under this caption than there was for the previous year, and therefore there ought to have been more taxes collected, although the returns as indicated in the consolidated table show a less amount collected this year than last.

Amount of Taxes Collected on Occupations.

The taxes collected on occupations cause no little discontent throughout the Commonwealth. In some portions of the State there is a fair attempt made to levy and collect taxes on occupations. In other parts of the State the law seems to be a dead letter.

The total amount collected under this caption for the year was $1,814,119. For the previous year the amount was $1,800,011.

Amount of Taxes Collected on Licenses of all Kinds, Including Wholesale and Retail Liquor Licenses.

Last year the amount of money collected from licenses was $6,833,906. This year the amount is $7,202,665.

While many well minded people are opposed to liquor licenses on moral grounds, claiming that the State ought not to give its sanction to a business which involves moral questions, yet it is a fact that the laws which require the collection of money for licenses are thoroughly executed, for no one can get a license to sell liquor or transact other business for which a license is required, without paying the amount of money the law demands. Therefore the figures which are given in this report as indicating the amount of money received from licenses can be relied upon as accurately representing the total amount of money which is received from those who conduct any kind of business by virtue of a license authorized under the laws of the Commonwealth. Anyone who attempts to transact business without having a license when the law requires a license will soon be brought to justice.

Amount of Taxes Collected on the Real Estate of Railroad Corporations.

To give the figures denoting the amount of taxes collected under this caption without a reference to the manner in which other taxes are collected from these transportation corporations, would be an injustice to them. It is well known that transportation corporations are the sources from which a large amount of the revenues of the State are derived for the maintenance of the State government, and that taxes are collected locally on such property as these common carrier corporations may have, which is not essential for these corporations to possess in the transaction of the business for which they exist. For instance, a railroad company's track, its equipment, its stations, both freight and passenger, are not the subjects of local taxation, but houses for the use of its officers or employees would be the subjects of local taxation, and it is upon such property owned by transportation companies and not essential for them in the performance of the functions for which they were given existence, that the amount of $1,279,470 was collected during the year covered by this report. In the cities of Philadelphia and Pittsburg is situated the most of the property that comes under this classification of property upon which railroad corporations are required to pay local taxes and which is taxed by assessors in the several assessment districts. For the previous year the amount of taxes so collected was $934,469.

Amount of Taxes Collected on the Real Estate of Corporations Other than Railroads, Including Limited Partnerships.

As before indicated the law requires a special return under this classification of property and the amount so returned for the year covered by this report was $4,666,526, and for the previous year $3,978,230.

The details of assessments are not available, but with all the great manufacturing corporations and limited partnership associations that pay taxes locally, it would seem that the assessors have not made a full and accurate return of the amount of taxes collected on these special subjects of taxation, as required by the law.

Is Additional Legislation Needed on the Subject of Taxation?

For many years the present Secretary of Internal Affairs has examined and made deductions from the returns of county commissioners based upon the assessments made by assessors in every assessment district of the Commonwealth, and there has been no possibility of escaping from a knowledge of the fact that tax laws are recklessly executed. It might be very soothing to those who are charged with the duty of executing the laws to commend to the favorable consideration of the public the returns which find their way under direction of the laws of the Commonwealth, to this office for publication, but if done, it would be at the sacrifice of truth. Human nature is weak. It is never weaker than it is during a conference between a property owner and an assessor with reference to the valuation of property to be taxed for public purposes. It seems to be entirely natural for the owner of property to insist on a low valuation with a view of escaping taxation. On the other hand, the assessor is a public officer, at least to a limited extent, elected by the suffrages of the people of his own assessment district, and in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred he would prefer the friendship of the property owners in his district rather than their enmity. What are the results? The assessment of property in the Commonwealth at an average of less than 50 per cent. and possibly 25 per cent. of its actual value, in the face of the mandates of the law requiring property to be assessed at full valuation. These same assessors and often the county commissioners, who are parties to the undervaluation of property for taxation, complain of the laws that are passed by the Legislature on questions of taxation, when most of the inequalities which exist are due to the failure on the part of the proper authorities to faithfully execute the tax laws.

Until there shall be exhibited a higher regard for the duties imposed by law upon these tax officials, it is difficult to see how additional legislation can correct the inequalities, incongruities and iniquities which exist. The state is most generous in its treatment of its citizens in the way of taxation. In nearly all states of the Union real estate and many classifications of personal property are taxed for State purposes, but it has been more than a quarter of a century since there was any tax collected on real estate in Pennsylvania for State purposes, the State government being maintained almost entirely through the taxes derived from the capital stock, the bonded indebtedness and gross receipts of the corporations, while millions are appropriated by the State for the maintenance of the common schools, penitentiaries, courts and charities throughout the extent of the Commonwealth.

It is true that a different system of taxation prevails in most of the states of the Union and it is equally true that the burdens of taxation never rested lightly upon the citizens of any state, no matter how equitably the laws may have been based. To the thoughtful student on finance and taxation, having regard for the highest element of justice, it is a fact that the Pennsylvania tax laws compare favorably with those of other states. Our constitutional mandate is strong with reference to the uniformity of taxation and will not permit a limitless classification of property for taxation. If the present laws were only faithfully executed and boards of county commissioners and assessors would strictly obey these laws in the discharge of their duties, it is believed that much of the just cause for complaint against our system of taxation would be eliminated. If any of our laws on taxation are bad it should not furnish an excuse (for the man who takes an oath to faithfully discharge his duties under the law) to violate those laws. It would rather be a reason for executing them to the fullest extent demanded under the obligations of office, for these defects would then become apparent and would soon be remedied by wholesale legislation. There is no government on earth where wrong can be so readily and effectually eradicated as in this government of the people.

So then, in conclusion, if any of the laws regulating taxation are not based upon justice, or contain elements of unfairness, as discriminations and exceptions, let the assessors fully execute these laws and they will then speedily be brought to the attention of the law making power of the Commonwealth, and unless our government is a failure the wrong will be righted and the relief asked for will be given.

Some interesting data is gleaned from the reports of county commissioners with respect to assessments of property, both taxable and non-taxable, and the different purposes for which taxes are collected. From these returns some observations are made with reference to each county in as compact a form as can intelligibly be done, which will enable those who are studying these matters to get the desired information without the necessity of devoting much time to computations. These data will also render it convenient to compare the statistics of one county with those of another in all that pertains to assessment, valuation and taxation of property, taxes that are collected on the several subjects of property, and the purposes for which they are collected.

INCONGRUITIES, INCONSISTENCIES AND INEQUITIES IN THE EXECUTION OF TAX LAWS.

The constitutional mandate with reference to uniformity in taxation can scarcely be misunderstood. The laws which have been passed, presumably in conformity and in harmony with this constitutional mandate ought not to be difficult of execution, or at least, the application of thought and the exhibition of care ought to enable boards of county commissioners and assessors throughout the Commonwealth to execute the laws without doing any great degree of injustice to any citizens of the Commonwealth who have property which is the subject of taxation.

While no special supervision is given the Department of Internal Affairs in regard to the execution of the tax laws, yet the boards of county commissioners are required by law to receive, compile and consolidate the returns made by assessors, and to file such compiled and consolidated reports with the Secretary of Internal Affairs.

An examination of these returns carries conviction that there is a failure to faithfully execute the laws of the Commonwealth with reference to taxation, and that there exists many incongruities, inconsistencies and inequities in the administration of these tax laws by which the revenues of the counties, the cities and the townships, and in part the revenues of the State, are derived.

Some years ago, while acting in the capacity of Deputy Secretary, an investigation was made with reference to the manner of assessing real estate for taxation in several counties of the Commonwealth. The plan then adopted was this: The representatives of this office went to the county seat of each of the counties where investigations were made, and from the records there procured a list of the sales of 100 different pieces of real estate, where such real estate had been sold at private sale. All sales of real estate made subject to any incumbrances whatever were excluded from the list, as were also judicial sales, or sales made by trustees.

This investigation was made with a view of ascertaining what relation assessed valuation bore to actual valuation. Remembering that the laws of the State require the assessment of real estate at its full value, which is usually construed to mean what a property would sell for at a bona fide sale, the results of this investigation were not at all flattering to those who were charged with executing the tax laws.

If the law did not require the assessed valuation of real estate at its full value, it would probably be just as satisfactory to assess all property at 50 per cent. of its value, or even 30 per cent., but what should be done is to comply with that constitutional mandate which has reference to the uniformity of taxation, and then comply also with the law which requires a full valuation of property for taxation.

In none of the counties in which investigations were made at that time was it found that the law had been complied with with reference to the assessment of property at its full value. The nearest approach to it was probably in the county of York, where the assessed valuation was found to be about 80 or 85 per cent. of the actual valuation, while in several of the counties the assessed valuation was only equal to about 20 or 25 per cent. of the actual valuation.

Lack of uniformity was also found among assessment districts in every county, that is, assessors were not controlled by the same instructions with reference to what percentage assessed valuation should bear to actual valuation. Therefore, it is seen at once that many wrongs are committed, for some people would of necessity be paying less county tax than they should pay, while others would be paying more than they justly should pay.

The results of these investigations were published in the reports of the Department, hoping that such publication would have the effect of securing greater uniformity in the assessment of property for taxation, and would also induce the boards of county commissioners and the assessors to adhere more closely to the requirements of the law in the appraising of property for taxation in order that the appraisement of the property of the State might approach more closely to the actual valuation.

It is indeed difficult to see that much improvement has been made, for in all the returns which are made with reference to the number of taxables, the number of acres of cleared and timbered lands, the amounts of property returned as exempt from taxation, the amount of property returned as subjects of taxation, and the amount of property returned as taxable for State purposes, there is evidence of unpardonable failure to move upon the lines of fairness and equity.

Realizing the existence of these unfortunate conditions, a further investigation was made during the fall of 1904, but on somewhat different lines from that made a few years ago. Special representatives of the office were sent to eight different counties and they were furnished with blanks and given instructions to visit each assessor in each of the counties where investigations were made. The blanks prepared call for answers to 18 different questions. These relate to the manner of determining the number of acres of cleared land and the number of acres of timbered land, and the manner of determining what percentage of the total valuation the assessed valuation should be, particularly whether there should be the same percentage of assessed valuation to actual valuation on timbered land as on cleared land and other real estate.

Inquiry was also made as to whether any taxable properties were omitted from the returns; the price per acre at which timbered land and cleared land were assessed, and in regard to instructions from county commissioners to assessors as to whether real estate should be assessed at full value, and whether the assessors complied with these instructions, or whether they assessed at a higher or lower percentage to actual valuation.

Inquiries were also made as to the manner in which the assessments were made of cattle, horses, mares, geldings and mules; to what extent the law was evaded with reference to the taxable age of this class of property, and whether in the opinion of the assessors the existing law should be amended or repealed.

The last question propounded to the assessors had reference to whether the poorer class of residences were assessed at the same percentage of actual valuation as were expensive residences.

The questions and the responses of assessors were as follows, the number of answers given comprising the number of assessors reporting in the eight counties in which investigations were made:

Question 1. In making your report of the acreage of cleared land in your district do you include any lands except those that are used for cultivation, meadow and pasture lands?

In answer to this question, there were 72 who claimed they included land as cleared land which was not used for cultivation, meadows, or pasture lands.

There were 134 who claimed that the amount of acreage returned only included lands which were cultivated and used as meadows and pasture lands.

There were 30 replies which were not responsive to the question.

The results, therefore of the investigation on the subject matter of this question shows how unreliable the returns are with reference to the number of acres of cleared land that are reported in these eight counties, for it is apparent that a goodly percentage of the assessors are not controlled by the same rules in making their returns of the number of acres of cleared land.

Question 2. Do you exclude all other lands no matter whether the timber has been cut from the same in whole or in part?

A reading of this question would seem to indicate that all should reply in the affirmative if the law and the instructions were carefully executed. However, of the number replying to this question, 165 answered "Yes," 262 answered "No," while there were 46 replies given which were not responsive.

Question 3. In cases where all valuable timber has been removed from lands and where such lands are not used for pasture or for other farm purposes, how do you classify such lands? Please state whether you classify them as cleared land or timbered land, or whether you entirely exclude them from your classification.

The replies were as follows: 39 assessors classified the lands described in the question as cleared lands; 71 classified them as timbered lands; 31 as brush lands; 20 as unseated lands; 1 as wild lands; 1 as stripped lands, while of the answers given 81 were not responsive.

Question 4. If you omit them from either classification, state as nearly as possible the acreage of unclassified lands so omitted?

The answers to this question were generally not responsive, although in a considerable number of cases the acreage of such lands was given, showing that no small percentage of real estate is not returned now under the two classifications of cleared and timbered land.

Question 5. At what assessed valuation per acre do you assess timbered lands?

Answers to this question could scarcely be expected to be uniform, for the value of timbered land depends so largely upon the character and amount of timber grown, its location with reference to transportation, etc., but the answers varied all the way from 50 cents an acre to $300 an acre.

Question 6. At what assessed valuation per acre do you assess cleared lands, exclusive of building improvements?

The answers to this question were about in line with those made to Question 5, the price per acre ranging from $2 to $500 per acre.

Question 7. At what assessed valuation per acre do you assess lands from which all valuable timber has been removed, which you do not include in either of your classifications of cleared or timbered lands?

Nearly all the answers to Question 7 were not responsive, as it was not the purpose of the assessors to admit that much territory within their assessment district escaped an assessed valuation for purposes of taxation.

Question 8. Do your instructions require you to assess all real estate at its full value?

One hundred and eighty-eight assessors answered this question in the affirmative; 28 in the negative, and the answers made by 17 were not responsive, while one assessor claimed his instructions were to assess at one-third of the actual value, and another that the instructions were specific that property should be assessed at 80 per cent. of the value.

Here in the answers to this question are found 28 assessors who claim that the instructions from the county commissioners were that property should not be assessed at full value, therefore it must be admitted that instructions were given that are a violation of the law passed for the purpose of fixing the value of real estate for taxation.

Question 9. If you do not assess all property at full value, at what per cent. of the full value do you assess it?

As before seen in the answers to Question 8, 188 assessors reported that their instructions were to assess property at its full value, but in answer to Question 9 it is found that 1 assessor reported that he assessed property at 10 per cent. of its actual value; 1 at 20 per cent.; 1 at  $22\frac{1}{2}$  per cent.; 7 at 25 per cent.; 33 at 33  $\frac{1}{3}$  per cent.; 1 at 40 per cent.; 2 at 50 per cent.; 1 at 60 per cent.; 38 at 66  $\frac{2}{3}$  per cent.; 2 at 70 per cent.; 41 at 75 per cent.; 6 at 80 per cent., and 84 at 100 per cent., or full valuation. The answers of 9 other assessors were not responsive.

Comments upon the action of the assessors as disclosed by their answers to Question 9 would not be complimentary, but the conciseness with which this information is assembled will show that there is much need of more stringent regulations in the methods adopted for the assessment of real estate for taxable purposes. To illustrate, in one of these counties one assessor alleged in his reply that he assessed property at its full value, or 100 per cent. Another assessor, in another assessment district in the same county, answered that he assessed real estate at 50 per cent. of its full value. Let us then suppose a case which may not actually exist, and yet it is very probable that it does, and certainly similar conditions exist which show the lack of equity in the assessment of real estate. One man may own a $10,000 property in the district where the assessor assesses the property at its full value; another man may own a $10,000 property in another district in the same county where the assessor assesses property at 50 per cent. of its actual value. Supposing the levy for county purposes to be one per cent., it is found that one man pays a county tax of $50, on a ten thousand dollar property, while another man in the same county pays $100 on his property, the actual valuation of which is $10,000.

Question 10. Do you assess cleared land and timbered land each at the same per cent. of full value?

One hundred and forty-six assessors answered, as they should if the truth will warrant them in doing so, that they assess cleared land and timbered land at the same percentage of actual value. Only 6 of the assessors admitted that a discrepancy was made in favor of either cleared or timbered land, while 83 answered in a way that was not responsive.

Some will be unkind enough to suggest that perhaps some of the 83, if their answers had been given direct, would have admitted that both of these classes of property were not assessed at the same percentage of actual valuation.

Question 11. If you do not assess these classifications of property at the same per cent. of full valuation, please state the reasons for making a difference in the per cent. of assessed valuation to actual valuation?

Two hundred and twenty-eight assessors would either not admit that any difference of percentage was made in the assessment of these two classes of real estate, or that, as a matter of fact, there was any disparity in the application of the tax laws on this subject.

One assessor, however, reported that he did not assess timbered land and cleared land at the same percentage of actual valuation. In this case the assessor alleged that he was acting under instructions from the county commissioner.

Question 12. Do you make a full return of all real estate in your district which is exempted from taxation?

It is presumed that in all the assessment districts throughout this Commonwealth there is property, such as churches, schools, etc., which is exempt from taxation, but to this question there were given 209 affirmative answers, 23 negative answers, and 3 answers which were not responsive. In one or two cases it was claimed that there were no schools or churches.

When it is seen that in the eight counties in which investigations were made there are 23 assessment districts in which there are schools, churches and other property exempt from taxation which are not returned by the assessors, then it will be realized how unreliable are the consolidated tables published each year, as to the amount of real estate reported as being exempt from taxation.

• Question 13. Do you think that there should be a classification of lands to include those which can not properly be classified as cleared or timbered lands?

Realizing from the answers already given, and from the belief which is prevalent, that the number of acres of cleared land and the number of acres of timbered land do not include the total acreage in the State, the necessity for another classification to include brush land, or stripped land, is apparent, and the assessors in response to this question have given 191 affirmative replies, 23 negative and 21 replies which are not responsive.

Question 14. The laws of the State require the assessment of stages, omnibuses, hacks, cabs, etc. Do you make a complete return of such property in your district?

Probably one of the tax laws which is quite uniformly violated is that which relates to the taxation of stages, omnibuses, hacks, cabs., etc. In answer to Question No. 14, relating to this subject, 92 assessors reported that they made a full return of such property; 9 reported that they did not, while 126 reported that they had no such property. The answers of three of the assessors were not responsive.

Question 15. What if any change do you suggest in the laws with reference to the assessment of cattle, horses, mares, geldings and mules? State particularly whether in your opinion the age limit should be changed?

It is the general belief that the laws which relate to the taxation of horses, cattle, etc., are perhaps defective and they are certainly lame in execution.

Of the number of assessors answering, 25 were in favor of assessing this class of property regardless of age; 31 had no recommendations to make; 36 favored the continuance of the assessment of these animals at four years of age; 65 suggested a change from four to three years; 47 suggested a change from four to two years; 18 suggested that they should be taxable at one year of age, while the answers of 13 of the assessors were not responsive.

Question 16. State to what extent in your opinion the law is evaded with reference to the age limit of these animals which are now taxable after arriving at four years of age.

One hundred and thirty-four reported that there was no evasion, or no great evasion of the law which provided for the taxation of animals at the age of four years; 92 assessors reported that the law was evaded all the way from 10 to 50 per cent.; 14 of the assessors reported replies which were not responsive.

It is probably a fact that the laws throughout the State on this subject are poorly executed, and are quite generally evaded. The reports of these assessors on this subject are probably as favorable to the side of faithful execution as the facts will warrant.

Question 17. Are you in favor of continuing the law which provides that these animals shall be taxed for county and local purposes?

Notwithstanding the defects of the law and the most defective execution thereof, 224 of the assessors report in favor of its continuance either as it is, or modified as suggested; 10 of them are opposed to a change in the law, while the answers of two are not responsive.

Question 18. In the assessment of the property in your district, are costly residences assessed at the same percentage of actual valuation as are the poorer class of residences? If they are not assessed at the same percentage of valuation, state the reason for making a difference.

This question relates to a subject of a somewhat delicate character and is limited in its application to residences. Are residences costing thousands of dollars assessed at the same percentage of actual valuation as are residences of a poorer or less expensive character? 201 of these assessors say that they are assessed at the same percentage of actual valuation; 28 assessors say they are not, while the answers of 6 are not responsive.

In some cases where it is admitted that these residences are not assessed at the same percentage of actual valuation, the assessors give several reasons for it. Among them are the following:

"It has been customary to assess highly expensive residences at a lower percentage though no good reason can be given for it."

"The disparity exists by direction of the county commissioners."

"The disparities exist because if high priced dwellings were assessed at the same percentage of actual valuation, improvements which are always commendable would be retarded."

"The law intends that property shall be assessed at full value, or at what it would bring at a bona fide sale, and dwellings costing but a few hundred dollars will bring a greater percentage of actual valuation than will highly expensive residences."

This last reason is probably as good a one as can be given, for rarely could a family residence for which a man had expended $10,000 or more, be sold for what it cost him. On strict grounds of equity it would seem that the higher class dwellings and the lower class dwellings should each be assessed at their full value, and if not at their full value, then each should be assessed at precisely the same percentage of actual valuation.

Whether the investigations which have been made on the lines indicated herein will be of any value to those charged with the most important duty of executing the tax laws is of course conjecture, but certainly the data which are deduced from these investigations have some elements of interest and can be made of value both in the passage of laws and in the execution of the laws which may be passed in conformity with the Constitution, which demands uniformity in taxation.

The occupation tax, which is known in Lancaster as poll tax, aggregates $9,339.50. The custom for many years has been to assess each married man, not a freholder, 25 cents poll or occupation tax, and each single man, not a freholder, 50 cents poll or occupation tax. The tax is levied directly, without putting a valuation on the taxpayer's office, trade or occupation, and is not included in the above aggregate of county tax.

*Note.—In addition to this total the sum of $38,324,225.76 was, by direction of the Auditor General, assessed against the Provident Life and Trust Company as the amount of taxable assets in the insurance department of that company. The company made a separate return of this amount under protest and the board of revenue commissioners have, by written communication, addressed to the board of revision of taxes, agreed that the tax on these assets of the company shall not be charged against the city of Philadelphia until it shall have been finally determined by the legal tribunals that the company is liable to the tax.

The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Philadelphia, also made a return of its taxable assets, under protest, amounting to $36,553,531.09. The said amount is also exempted from the above total, under the same provisions as govern the return of the Provident Life and Trust Company.

SAMON GRATZ,

JOHN WESLEY DURHAM,

RINALDO A. LUKENS,

Board of Revision of Taxes.

*This amount does not include $14,100.14 paid for the support of pauper insane and feeble-minded.
 †The total as shown does not include the amount paid by Crawford county in 1883 as follows: Bridge repairs, $1,433.39; new bridges, $10,810.33; total, $12,243.72.

‡The figures shown by districts in Column 8, show in detail the liquor license only; the $6,069.09 additional represented in the total figures is the total amount of mercantile license of all kinds. We could not show the same by districts for the reason that the county treasurer forwarded his only copy of record in detail to the State Department at Harrisburg from which it could be compiled.
